AGT. WADELY RESIGNS FROM LOCAL CARPET CO.

Had Very Successful Career in Lowell—Well Versed on Carpet Manufacturing and Successful Business Methods

Wide regret is very generally felt today on the resignation of Mr. H. E. Wade, agent of the Bigelow Carpet Corporation, which is merged with the Hartford Carpet Corporation.

Mr. Wade, who is about 40 years of age, has been in the carpet business for many years. He was formerly in the service of the Bigelow Carpet Company in November, 1911, where his unusual ability, immediately attracted the attention of the Treasurer Fairbanks, so much so, that the following May Mr. Fairbanks appointed him agent of the Lowell branch.

Assuming the position of agent, he went to work with vigor and in his usual characteristic clean-cut business way, he quickly established himself in the business of the company on aggressive business lines calculated to give satisfaction to his superior officers, and at the same time making it possible for the operatives in the mill to earn the highest amount of wages possible.

Mr. Wade is a remarkably good manager, and the following January, Treasurer Fairbanks placed the "Clinton Mill" also under Mr. Wade's charge, where again the results have been very gratifying. Mr. Wade was able by his personal influence to bring the two mills closely together, placing the strongest class of team work to get results.

During the late Treasurer Fairbanks' sickness, still further responsibilities were put upon Mr. Wade's shoulders, but once more he was ready to show himself able to carry the burden, and after the death of the Treasurer, his advice in connection with the general running of the business was sought by the directors of the company.

In considering Mr. Wade's progress in the United States, it is interesting to note what hard work, application of detail, and research, backed by logical reasoning and unswerving purpose, can do in so short a time.

Mr. Wade is in the early thirties. He was born in Kildermister, England, and came to Canada in 1905, where he secured a position with the Clinton Carpet Company, a branch of the English carpet manufacturing company. There, as in his experience with the Bigelow Carpet Company, his ability and forcefulness quickly got him to the front, and within two years of his coming to the Clinton people, changes in his organization came about and he was appointed manager, in charge of manufacturing and selling, and his business developed and grew in Canada.

Canadian Dry Goods Review, March, 1911, in an article on the "The Carpet Industry," Mr. Wade, in part: "He threw out all the designs and reorganized the business, he gave lectures on the House Beautiful, he visited the customers and found out their wants, and supplied them; he surrounded himself with brainy men and women whom he enthused with his own optimism; he secured Europe for new ideas, and created new designs; he impressed his working people with his sense of equity and justice, and they trusted him—with a result that he turned a losing industry into a paying one, and increased his hands a hundred percent. This is competency."

Asked as to what his plans are for the future, Mr. Wade stated that he did not wish to discuss future plans at the present time; that he was planning to take a short vacation first.

Mr. Wade is probably one of the best posted men in the state today on carpet fabrics, both domestic and foreign.

LOCATION OF FRENCH AND GERMAN TROOPS AFTER TWO WEEKS OF FIERCE FIGHTING

Paris Describes Destruction of Unfortified Town by the German Heavy Artillery After Prolonged and Terribly Murderous Battle—Heavy Losses Suffered by Germans—Retreat of German Line Along the Aisne Begun, it is Reported

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Telegraphing from Paris under date of Wednesday, the correspondent of the Daily Mail described the complete destruction by German heavy artillery of the open and unfortified town of Albert, 18 miles from Amiens, which has been the scene during the past few days of a prolonged and terribly murderous artillery battle. He says:

"The struggle on the part of the Germans to prevent their right wing being turned compelled them continually to push their front further north and to the east, while the allies continually repelled by extending their front to overlap the enemy, both sides bringing up large reinforcements. This necessitated long marches of 20 to 25 miles a day and the Germans were repeatedly called upon to make a desperate effort in order to avoid being outflanked, whereby they suffered very heavy losses."

"On Saturday they began to realize that their efforts were in vain. They therefore, changed their tactics, and tried to drive a wedge into the allies' front. The point of that wedge was the town of Albert."

"The attempt almost succeeded. They brought up and massed their artillery and the French infantry suffered considerably. They kept up a fire so rapid in character that at night the whole sky was lit up by bursting shells. On Sunday they gained perceptibly and on Monday they still pressed on but by that time the breach had brought up large numbers of their famous quick firing batteries and their deadly fire checked the German advance."

"Yesterday, the enemy kept up his efforts gamely, but by late afternoon it had clearly failed of its aim. The whole country side were visible were French batteries at various points around Albert but none within a mile of the town. At 5.10 o'clock German shells from their heavy guns began to fall. Here is an account of the scene from an eye witness who was on a hill overlooking Albert:

"We were warned along the road to be careful and saw a vast column of people coming away from the town but nothing happened until 5.10, when we heard a deep boom, quite unlike the noise made by an ordinary field gun, and a shell, evidently of much greater force and size, fell in the town. We thought it must be an accident of misdirection and then to our indignation the shells began to fall rapidly. They came in bunches, there were several batteries at work, and the aim was excellent."

"I saw only three shells burst outside the town. The place collapsed like a pack of cards that had been built up into houses, as every moment something fresh went. Now it was the town built now a group of cottages and then a high wall."

"It reminds one of a scene in a Drury Lane melodrama. One cannot believe without an effort that one was seeing a real town killed to pieces. It was just as if some inventor had made a new kind of explosive and had invited his friends to see it demolish a model of a town. I stayed there an hour, fascinated."

"That brings the story up to 6.15, when the witness left with some wounded, who had been brought out at that time, was packed with refugees of all ages and old men and women too feeble to walk, were being wheeled in barrows."

Looking toward Albert they appeared to be haystacks which had been set alight by shells. The largest of these red glares, however, was Albert on fire. Against the flaming background, the tall spire of a church stood out uninjured up to 8 o'clock, but it was impossible to enter the town, as the heat was too great and the streets too unsafe."

ASKED KAISER TO TRY HIMSELF

PARIS, Oct. 1.—Interesting and dramatic particulars have reached here as to the suicide of Col. Kock, the German commander at Muelhausen. Col. Kock received repeated telegrams from the German general staff, ordering him to cross the Vosges at all costs and carry the war into France. After several unsuccessful attempts he telegraphed to Emperor William as follows: "It is impossible to cross the Vosges, come and try it yourself." The unhappy commander retired to a private room, placed his service pistol to his head and blew out his brains.

It was a request from Jacob Marston, proprietor of an express service which operates in Haverhill, Danvers and Peabody, that the selectmen cancel a permit under which he had delivered liquor in Danvers. ENGINEER BARBOUR BOSSING THE JOB

STATE OFFICER FLYNN VISITS LOCAL GARAGES

When it comes to the question of building the new filtration plant let it be understood that Engineer Barbour the big noise. He is the man behind and what he says goes. The Jones R. Gow Co. has been awarded the contract, but the contractor I have to take his orders from the engineer. Mr. Barbour will receive somewhere in the vicinity of $4000 for supervising the job.

All this, however, is not as important as the fact that the conference which the contract was talked over I agreed upon was held behind closed doors. The conference was held in the mayor's office last Friday. The contractors were barred. They sought entrance and were refused.

It was one of the biggest city conferences of the year. The city government has to pass upon for some time, yet the conference was held behind closed doors. That the matter of the contract was all out and dried was evidenced by the fact that when the council convened in the afternoon at 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon the contract was approved right on the reel. A number of taxpayers have expressed themselves as not being very well satisfied with the procedure. They allow that the story of a conference should have been made public. They look upon the members of the city government as their servants and they want them to do things the open.

Michael A. Lee, business agent of the printers, was present at the conference and as a result of certain protests or suggestions offered by him it was inserted in the contract that in the matter of the employment of laborers and mechanics preference should be given to residents of Lowell, provided always that such employment is consistent with the proper expedition of the city government in the prosecution of the work.

It was stated today that Mr. Lee was apprehensive of cheap labor being imported in connection with the construction of the filter plant and he determined to nip it in the bud.

There has been some talk about the employment of labor by the water department, especially in connection with the installation of the filtration plant and the commissioner of that department is being quite severely criticized in certain of the newspapers.

Now the fact of the matter is that the commissioner has very little to do with the employment of labor in his department since the city laborers got in under the civil service blanket. When a man makes application for work the best the commissioner or superintendent can do is to refer him to the registrar. The commissioner or superintendent cannot play favorites. A man's chances for work depend entirely upon his standing on the waiting list.

And when it comes to a showdown Engineer Barbour will have something to say about labor for the contract as stipulated. The contract specifically states that the engineer shall pass upon the ability of the men hired and that the written order from him the contractor will have to discharge such men as the engineer says are not fit men for the work. Such men cannot be re-engaged without a written order from the engineer.

The engineer, too, shall pass upon the amount, quality, acceptability and fitness of all materials, and the contractor must conform with the lines and grades submitted by the engineer. He shall direct the contractor where to begin and thereafter shall name all points where the work is to be continued. The engineer may make all the changes in the plans, before or after the work has been begun, as he sees fit. He has estimated the cost of the work and it is now put up to him to have the job done within the estimate. He is to be well paid for his time and labor.

State Officer Flynn was in Lowell today for the purpose of inspecting garages and at least one garage will have to go out of business for a few days or until such time as it has been made to conform with the new law and regulations which will take effect tomorrow. Changes will have to be made in almost every public garage in the city and in a number of private garages, too.

The state officer came to town early in the day and made a tour of the garages in Fire Chief Saunders' automobile. He called at city hall shortly before the noon hour and talked the matter over with City Clerk Flynn. The state officer found that a Sunday paper had an article on the construction and maintenance of garages and the storage of and handling of gasoline that was misleading, and at one garage where he ordered a number of changes, the keeper of the garage showed him the article and said that he was living up to the law as it appeared in the paper. State Officer Flynn told the well-intentioned garage man that the article was misleading, and handed him a copy of the new law and regulations.

"I find," said the state officer, "that a great many of the garage men are not familiar with the law and of course it is my duty to inform them. I have a big territory to cover and the newspapers can help out a whole lot if they publish the right dope. The newspapers can do the public a great favor by simply stating what the law requires and it's just as simple as rolling off a log."

"If you want to build a garage, or store gasoline, the first thing to do is to go to the city clerk and apply for a license. After the license has been granted by the city government, you go to the chief of the fire department and make application for a permit. He will give you a copy of the rules and regulations and as soon as the rules and regulations have been complied with the fire chief will issue the permit. Can there be anything more simple? There has to be a yearly renewal of the permit, of course, and the process of renewal is the same. You visit both the city clerk and the chief of the fire department.

The Insurance Question

"It is absolutely essential that keepers of garages and owners of automobiles in general should familiarize themselves with the laws and regulations governing the construction and maintenance of garages, and the storage and handling of volatile inflammable liquid in connection therewith. If they don't they are liable not to be able to recover their insurance in case of fire. They will find that their policies provide that the rules and regulations shall be lived up to. If you should go to the city clerk and make application for a license and the city council should grant the license, you would find, in case of fire, that you had not gone the whole distance, providing you had not obtained a permit from the chief of the fire department. The insurers would look into the matter and if they found you had not complied with the law, you might whistle for your money."

Definition of Garage

The definition of a garage as contained in the regulations adopted and prescribed by the state police is as follows: "Garage" shall mean a building or other structure, or any portion thereof, where motor vehicles are kept or housed or motor vehicles charged with or containing a volatile inflammable liquid for fuel or power, or wherein is conducted the business of repairing motor vehicles.

"Motor vehicle" shall mean any vehicle with more than two running wheels, charged with or containing a volatile inflammable liquid for fuel or power.

Frictional Electricity

State Officer Flynn said that a number of fires are caused in garages by frictional electricity during the handling of gasoline and Fire Chief Saunders said that frictional electricity had been responsible for a number of fires in Lowell.

Frictional or static electricity is generated by the rubbing together of substances that in themselves are nonconductors of electricity, such as dry wood, rubber or gasoline; or it may be generated between a conductor and a nonconductor, such as gasoline and a metal pipe. Gasoline poured on camolis or linen will create frictional electricity, which is more liable to be generated when the atmosphere is clear and dry, than when it is moist.

Ascertain the Cause

The state police have instituted exhaustive research to ascertain the true cause, and to devise a practical remedy therefor. In this connection they offer the following advice:

In the drawing of gasoline from a pump into a metal can, no can should be used that has a wooden ball or handle in such a manner that the wood will intervene between the metal of the can and that of the pump on which it is hung.

In filling the tank of a motor vehicle with gasoline from a metal can, care should be taken that good metallic connection exists not only between the tank and other metallic parts of the vehicle, but between the funnel and tank as well. The pouring can should have a piece of copper chain soldered to the nozzle, the other end to rest in metallic connection with the tank or the funnel during filling.

Motor vehicles that are filled by means of a hose direct from a storage tank or a portable tank should have a hose with a continuous metallic lining which is in good metallic connection with the pump at one end and the shut-off nozzle at the other end, or with bare copper wire inside of the hose with like connections at both ends.

Chamois Skin Strainer

Shut-off nozzles at the end of hose lines should be fitted with copper chains to rest on the car tank in metallic connection during filling, or with a metal clamp serving the same purpose.

The passage of gasoline through a chamois skin strainer has been found to generate electricity which is collected in the metal parts of the funnel in dangerous intensity, and the substitution of a funnel with a strainer of 80 or 90 mesh wire which will exclude water is recommended.

Safety lies in maintaining good metallic connection between the storage tank and the tank of the motor vehicle during the process of filling, so that all electrically generated matter readily pass off to the ground as fast as generated.

FOR CLEAN MILK

Milk Inspector Masters has been congratulated relative to the quality of the milk supply in this city and the congratulations come from the state bureau, too.

It all came about in this way. The state dairy bureau arranged a clean milk contest some time ago and offered prizes. The prizes didn't amount to very much. The first prize was $50 and the lowest was $2.

Farmers entering the contest were notified by the state bureau men what time they would call on them. They would take milk from five cows, hand drawn, and unstrained. The milk was put in a mixing tank and run through a cotton disk—a sort of sediment test. These samples were all taken to the bureau's headquarters and the prizes were announced at the Reading fair. Bryant Bros. of Dracut took eighth prize; Aaron Osterman, of Tewksbury, got 13th place; O. J. Coburn, of Dracut, 25th place and Leblanc Bros. of Dracut, 25th place. There were only five entries and the state bureau allowed that to capture four prizes out of five entries was going some.

TRUDEAU'S DEATH WILL BE PROBED

Body of Lowell Man Who Died at Westboro to be Disinterred— His Widow Suspects Foul Play —Investigation Asked

As a result of a letter she received Tuesday from the officials of the state hospital at Westboro, Mass., Mrs. Romeo Trudeau will have the body of her husband disinterred and a thorough investigation will be carried on to ascertain the cause of the death of Mr. Trudeau, who was an inmate of the hospital until last Saturday when he passed away.

The Superintendent's Letter

The following letter from Supt. Spalding of the hospital explains the death—so far as he has been able to ascertain the facts:—

Sept. 28, 1914.

Mrs. A. A. Trudeau,
113 Durant St.,
Lowell, Mass.

Dear Madam:

I wish to write to you concerning the circumstances of your husband's death. Mr. Trudeau had been for some days very restless; Friday night at about 12:30 o'clock he became involved in a quarrel with another patient in the toilet room. A night nurse of the ward went in and separated them and he found Mr. Trudeau and the other patient wrestling. Mr. Trudeau being on the floor—the other patient, being on top of him. He did not, however, see him struck. Saturday morning, Mr. Trudeau, who was still quite restless, started to run down the corridor and ended on the floor. In doing this he slipped and fell striking his hip and face. He had the idea that morning that an automobile was outside waiting for him and desired to put on his best clothes; in fact, all of his clothes. The charge attendant being desirous of avoiding any trouble with him allowed him to leave them. At about 11 o'clock the assistant supervisor came in the ward and found him with three vents, two cuts and a sweater on. He decided he ought not to wear so much, therefore, he, with the assistance of three other attendants, removed them. So far as we can ascertain, Mr. Trudeau was not injured at that time. Mr. Trudeau later came back to the clothes room to get more clothes. The attendant stood in the doorway and finally he and another attendant took Mr. Trudeau by the arm to lead him into the corridor. The second attendant, after they got to the door, let go of the patient, and he, the patient, pushed or threw the attendant across the corridor onto the floor and as he did so he lost his balance and fell heavily on his head striking first against the wall and then the floor. When the attendant who was thrown down picked himself up he saw Mr. Trudeau on the floor and, seeing that he was in a serious condition and notified the physician at once but when he arrived in the ward Mr. Trudeau was dead.

We at once, after making a preliminary investigation, notified the medical examiner, who came to the hospital, and after talking with the attendants and investigating the affair, notified the district attorney, who authorized an autopsy which was performed by him there being present our pathologist, Dr. Puller, and Dr. Conaway, assistant pathologist of the state board of insanity, who had been notified.

There was found a fracture of the base of the skull, which was not in any way apparent prior to death. There was a slight cut and wound on one side of his head and some bruises; they also found three ribs fractured and the breast bone. In these there had been no displacement, so that it was difficult to ascertain, until the autopsy, that anything of the kind existed.

The district attorney's office was notified of the findings and the Massachusetts district police were requested to thoroughly investigate the matter. So far as their investigations have gone, they have found nothing to indicate that there was foul play in the case of death, the medical examiner giving the cause of death as "fracture of the skull due to accidental fall." The medical examiner and the district police will do their report with the district attorney. Further investigation may be carried out if any later information comes to hand.

I regret very much that Mr. Trudeau's death should have occurred in this way and if any evidence in the hospital is in any way to blame, we are most anxious to ascertain the cause and to proceed to the utmost in this matter. I would have written you before but the investigation was not finished until 11 o'clock Saturday night.

I am, very truly,
H. O. Spalding, Superintendent.

W. P. G. Harding Confident the Americans Will Take Advantage of Flow of Business

LENON, Oct. 1.—"I firmly believe that American pluck and American energy are going to reassert themselves, and that American farmers, merchants, bankers and manufacturers will co-operate with their government and with each other in solving present problems, and that they will put themselves in a position to grasp the opportunities that the future is bound to offer."

With this expression of confidence W. P. G. Harding, a member of the federal reserve board, concluded an address before the semi-annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers last night.

After referring to the disarrangement to the cotton industry caused by the European war Mr. Harding said: "Sooner or later, however, even should the war continue, the level of the obstruction will be reached and the flow of business, except in some of the countries actually engaged in war, will again become normal. Relations of peace would not act as a removal of obstructions and would release a large volume of business now being held back, so that we are justified, if we look ahead, in taking a more cheerful view of conditions which appear at this time to be depressing."

"Cotton goods are the cheapest of all textiles and should replace during hard times finer and more expensive fabrics. There is no reason to doubt that the trade will ultimately absorb the world's production."

Mr. Harding spoke of the great cotton production in the south this year

YOUNG CHAUFFEUR ARRESTED IN BOSTON GARAGE—$11,890 RECOVERED

EVERETT, Oct. 1.—Louis Cega, alias Samuel Elpart, a chauffeur, 24 years old, was arrested yesterday afternoon in a Boston garage by Lieut. Edgar T. Palmer of the Everett police on a charge of robbing the wife of his employer in this city of $16,697 on Aug. 30. The police found on his person a big roll of bills amounting to $11,890 and 72 cents in change.

The woman whom he robbed was Mrs. William Pray of 3 Locust Park, West Everett. When put through examination by Chief of Police William E. Hill at police headquarters here last night, Cega, it is alleged, confessed to the crime and made a full statement of the affair.

Cega had been employed by Mr. Pray as chauffeur for two months. Pray was charged on Oct. 23 Mrs. Pray withdrew from a Boston bank $16,690 and took the money to her home. Cega assisted her in counting the money and saw her put it away in the closet of her bedroom in a small tin box.

The next day Cega disappeared and the money was missing. No report of the robbery was made to the police and the local officials had no knowledge of it until yesterday. Private detectives were employed by Mr. Pray, who is a mason contractor, with offices on Devonshire street, Boston, and they traced Cega to New York on Sept. 2. He had been tracked since that time and he returned to Boston about two weeks ago.

Yesterday the detective agency believed matters ripe for action and took the matter up with Chief of Police William E. Hill. A warrant was sworn out in the Malden court and the arrest followed.

SCHOOL BOY KILLED

SAD ACCIDENT AT WESTFORD WHEN FRED HEALY WAS RUN OVER BY TRUCK

While on his way to the Frost school, Westford, yesterday, Fred Healy, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Healy, fell under the wheels of an automobile truck which was used to transport children residing in the outskirts of the town to the school and was almost instantly killed. He was rushed to the office of Dr. Wells, but life was extinct.

The auto truck which was driven by Arthur E. Wilson, is used daily to convey the children to and from their homes. It seems that Mr. Wilson was about to take the Healy boy aboard the truck but before the machine was brought to a stop he either tripped or fell under the wheels or attempted to jump under the vehicle and lost his life.

REASON FOR CLOSING LYNN SCHOOLS, SAYS SUPT. PEASLEE

LYNN, Oct. 1.—The English high school has been closed because, declared Superintendent of Schools Frank Peaslee, the girls came to school half dressed; and requiring them to remain in school "would be conducive to severe colds."

The superintendent added that if high school girls would dress as they should instead of following Parisian fashions "it would not be necessary for us to close the school buildings because of cold weather."

TAX RATE COMPARISONS

It is a gratifying fact that papers throughout the state in commenting on the political conditions of various communities are devoting themselves more and more to economic considerations. A general effort seems to be on foot to ascertain if the people in the cities of Massachusetts are getting returns in adequate measure for what they are compelled to pay towards the expenses of city government. With the recent publication of our inflated tax bills, the subject is of far more than usual importance to citizens of Lowell, and all who take any interest in the financial affairs of their city will find food for thought in a comparison of conditions locally with those of other communities.

The Springfield Republican in a recent editorial answer to the boast of the mayor of that city—who had declared that Springfield has a lower tax rate than any other city in the commonwealth with the exception of Beverly—called the attention of the executive to the fact that the per capita tax is of more importance in determining a city's status than the mere tax rate. It quoted a table of tax comparisons which we subjoin in an abbreviated form, retaining those cities which may be fairly compared to Lowell because of population, industrial character or other point of resemblance:

	Tax rate	Per capita Tax payment
Brockton	22.70	21.03
Cambridge	21.40	20.10
Chicopee	18.79	13.85
Everett	21.30	22.13
Fall River	21.20	19.88
Fitchburg	21.00	20.64
Gloucester	21.00	23.37
Haverhill	18.60	17.83
Holyoke	18.80	20.66
Lawrence	18.00	16.72
Lowell	21.00	24.57
Lynn	20.00	20.22
New Bedford	23.20	25.92
Newburyport	20.00	17.10
North Adams	10.10	14.34
Northampton	17.80	16.49
Pittsfield	19.80	24.77
Quincy	23.30	27.85
Salem	20.00	18.06
Southwick	21.10	20.23
Springfield	16.50	16.12
Waltham	18.00	20.24
Worcester	19.60	24.13

A study of this table is far from reassuring to a Lowell citizen. Out of the 23 cities given, 17 have a lower tax rate than Lowell, and 15 have a lower per capita tax. The average per capita is $21.24, beside which the $24.57 of Lowell does not make a good showing. Thus, aside from the fact that our tax rate took its sudden rise during an "economic" regime, we cannot get away from the fact that as compared with like cities of Massachusetts we make a most discreditable showing.

The only thing that could possibly excuse the abnormal tax rate and per capita tax of Lowell would be some unusual civic expenditure which, though costly, would appeal to our population as a good municipal investment. Tax rates, of themselves, mean nothing, for as The Sun has long contended, if a city gets an adequate return for a high tax rate it is better off than the city that gets a slight return for a low tax rate. As the Newburyport Herald remarked in a recent editorial: "It is better to pay a $25 tax rate and get $25 worth of improvements and civic activities than to pay a $15 tax rate and only get $10 value in return."

Applying this truth to local conditions we may well ask: Is Lowell giving its citizens an adequate return for the $21.00 tax rate or for the $24.57 per capita tax payment? If so, where is it to be seen? Since a municipal body pledged to retrenchment went into office, all civic initiative has been most virtuously frowned upon, and the best that can be said of our administration is that it has gone on doing the routine business of conducting a city—and doing it with a greater expenditure than former regimes that gave us something worth while in return. Apologists for the administration—if there are any—may harp insincerely on law and order and emotional appeals, but they cannot get away from the tax rate or the fact that we have nothing to show for it.

HARVEY ON WILSON

In a logical, unimpassioned and complete analysis of the Wilson administration in general and of its ruling personality in particular, Col. George Harvey, editor of the North American Review, gave a page article to the Boston Herald last Sunday, which, without glossing over any fault or weakness of the administration, summed up the record of achievement as a personal triumph for the chief executive. "Has President Wilson kept the faith," asks Col. Harvey, and after going into detail concerning the tariff, the currency bill, the income tax, the Mexican situation and the other great influences of the Wilson period to date, he answers himself, as follows: "Mr. Wilson, by President, has justified the great expectations and realized the high hopes of those whose faith was strong in his intellectual and moral attributes. In all large essentials he has, indeed, kept faith with his conscience and the people."

Of the Mexican situation which, in some of its aspects is still unsettled, Col. Harvey says: "The present outcome of President Wilson's conduct of our relations with Mexico calls for unqualified congratulations." If he then takes each move of the administration, step by step, blending a small amount of censure with a great deal of commendation, and winds up with the following probable tribute: "The relative parts played by prescience and good fortune in realizing so promising an outcome need not be considered. Rather let full and ungrudging tribute be rendered to the president under whose guidance, in the most stressful and trying of circumstances, it was attained." Of the Mexican situation, as of all other phases of the administration achievements, Mr. Harvey declares that the pre-eminent excellencies hide the small defects.

It was to be expected that he who gained such splendid results from past efforts should, in the eyes of Col. Harvey, promise still more for the future—a future which calls for a president in whom the entire country can place full confidence, born of experience. At no time since President Wilson took up the duties of chief executive does he loom greater than at this critical time when world conflicts call for coolness, tact and superlative ability. Col. Harvey winds up his review by calling on all Americans to uphold the president at this time when America needs his service. There is something that eliminates party differences or petty sectionalism of any kind in the closing sentences: "That he (President Wilson) will prove his mastery of the situation need not be doubted, but he needs the help of all. His hands should be strengthened by a vote of confidence, not weakened by sending division. Now more than ever before, or perhaps ever again, it behooves our country to stand behind its leader united before the world." Such a tribute coming from a man with whom President Wilson had an open rupture when a candidate for election, is doubly appreciable because coming from a wholly disinterested source.

MEXICO'S FUTURE

The one and only comforting feature of the Mexican situation in so far as it affects this country is the firmness and optimism of the government at Washington—a firmness and optimism which have broken down all barriers of opposition and have induced Americans of all shades of political opinion to confidently leave the solution of the troublesome problems to those directly concerned. Those who look sight of the skillful handling of Mexican affairs thus far and look at the present status of the distracted country may well feel that hope of anything like constitutional government is vain until revolution and anarchy have spent themselves and have lain down from sheer exhaustion.

From dwelling on the many phases of the Mexican situation for a long period many sensible people—including a few editors—seem to forget that it is an American question only indirectly and that it has been, is now, and must always remain a Mexican problem. America may deplore, may suggest, may threaten, may even resent anything that would menace American interests, but behind it all, America cannot ignore the fact that it is Mexico's own business to attend to Mexican affairs and that when this country steps in to settle it, the United States will have departed from its traditional policy and will have assumed a new obligation before the world. Anything like active intervention in Mexican affairs, therefore, must be frowned on by all who respect American ideals and have the best interests of their country at heart.

Latest reports from Mexico are anything but reassuring. The split between Carranza and Villa is widening and there are not many indications of a settlement. This country may just as well realize that Villa will always oppose anything like a settled regime; he is a virile bandit fighter without a civilized outlook on national affairs. He is the king maker of Mexico, and he glories in the sense of his brutal ability to throw down what he has reared. Carranza, on the other hand, seems to have a sense of disinterestedness, as shown by his willingness to retire, if Villa retires from the leadership of the army of the north. He who will bring peace to Mexico must rule with a strong hand, but first of all he must get rid of men of the type of Villa. Otherwise revolution and anarchy will be Mexico's portion until its people advance further in civilization.

GOLDEN AUTUMN TIME

Who, in our teeming population, has not felt the spell of early autumn as it comes in the cool breeze that seethers the withered leaves and brings hints of ripe apples and wild grapes? He has not felt it who, muffled up carefully, waits slyly for the car that is to bring him to his office, waits at his office for the car that is to bring him home and spends the rest of his time huddled up in a comfortable corner or in bed. Useless to speak to such an atrophied being of the glories of autumn. His delights are weighed in the scales of an abnormal selfishness and seen in the light of a false existence. For him there will be no thrill in the sight of the pearly gates or of the crystal sea that stretches through all eternity without a ripple to mar its serenity.

He who would understand the spirit of autumn is the sturdy fellow of six or sixty who hears a friendly voice in every rustle of the leaves underfoot and finds a treasure greater than sold nuggets in the glossy chestnuts that deep from the thorny burs. To such, the present season is a season of carnival joy. Roads that were only dim and gray have taken on a mosaic of rainbow jewels; brilliant beams of sunlight come through the birches and maples with a glory like unto the glory of cathedral glass; crimson apples and purple grapes hint at the pastoral joys of Arcady. Before his wandering feet flow the Goddess of Plenty, her corn-colored hair flying in the breeze, her hands full of the treasures of garden, farm and orchard.

In autumn time any road from Lowell leads into a land of enchantment. He who carries with him the cares of business or memories of the war in Europe will see his delights only through a misty veil. He who would revel in its transcendent pleasures must leave all cares behind him and, forgetting that it is a workday world and that we all grow old, tramp out into the country, which in September and October has the power to roll away the years and give us the glories of perpetual youth.

TO AVERT STRIKES

Delegates of six international unions in the building trades have just completed an alliance in New York which is meant to do away with strikes in the building trade. The unions represented include 500,000 workers in the United States and Canada. The spirit that prompted this action is a spirit that should be cultivated by employers and unions alike, for though strikes are legitimate and sometimes necessary, they rarely bring unalloyed good. Many strikes have sacrificed permanent advantage for the sake of some transitory concession. When such strikes are finally brought to a close, those who take part in them wonder why they dragged on so long and the realization grows that with mutual forbearance and intelligence, they could have been averted with advantage to all concerned. He who strives to prevent strikes without sacrificing any of the principles they are meant to further does a service to his class and to his country.

Whatever the reasons assigned for the resignation of Messrs. Rockefeller, Baker, Brookline and Milton from the directorship of The New Haven road, their action will be accepted by the public with the same alacrity with which it was accepted by the road officials. Past circumstances made it impossible that the somewhat venerable, if not venerated, gentlemen could retain public confidence, and their connection with the road could neither help it or themselves for the future.

Star chamber conferences seem slightly out of date in our Lowell city government and the public will not approve of them. It is doubtful if the tax payers would permit any municipal group to juggle matters behind closed doors, and it is very certain that they will not permit the present body to do so long. Where there is no apparent reason for secrecy, why the secrecy?

It is most fitting that nature should enter into the war by a terrific equinoctial storm across the North sea. In other days the winds often favored England, and the same may be true today. If only the murderous mines were swept somewhere beyond the North pole, the commercial world would rejoice.

If only the strict law regarding garages could be applied to all who use them, how much safer the world would be.

"Senseless war," says Professor Taft.

October morn.

SEEN AND HEARD

The newest fourflusher is the fellow who was galloping abroad if the war hadn't broken out.

Anybody, since the high cost of living got a half-nelson on this country, you don't hear so much about the fellows who were trying to keep two fats on one salary.

No matter what the status of the war in Europe on October ninth of this year, you've not to leave the darn thing flat on its back and take up the great American battle—which introduces the world's series.

We await patiently the arrival of the man who sent us the following note: "After you have run upstairs and frightened out the Germans, please thank for the editorial folks, dashed down to the press room to tell 'Fred' to get more ink on page six, fired Tommy for smoking cigars around the benzine barrel, and fixed up your income tax tangle—I want five minutes of your time."

SOCKS FOR SOLDIERS

Ray F. Webster, the Centralville druggist, has returned from a trip to Prince Edward Island and, like many another returning from the maritime provinces, tells of the patriotism of the people for England and their great interest in the European war. In their minds there isn't the remotest possibility of Germany coming out on top and they await from day to day the news that Germany has surrendered or sued for peace. The women are knitting socks and belts for the British soldiers and farmers' clubs are sending provisions to England. They are not one whit less patriotic than the Britishers themselves.

STARTING SOMETHING

Leavitt was sitting in the den one night glancing over the sporting pages. Opposite him sat little effigy making something with a knitting needle. Suddenly another glancing up.

"John Henry," said she, "drop that paper a minute. I want to ask you a question."

"What is it, dear?" was the obedient response of John Henry.

"It's just this," returned wife. "If you were single and I were single again, would you ask me to marry you?"

A DISLOYAL PARROT

The doorknocker at one of the places the king and queen of England were expected to visit had two pet parrots—one rather stupid and the other very intelligent and talkative.

Very carefully he taught the talkative parrot to say: "God save the king!" in honor of the royal visitors, and the stupid parrot was taught the new phrase that it would say nothing else, repeating it at breakfast at breakfast speed every time anybody looked at him. The other parrot, on the contrary, refused to say a word, maintaining a cold and dignified silence.

When their majesties arrived and were passing through the hall where the parrots were kept, the talkative parrot suddenly screamed: "God save the king! God save the king! God save the king!"

To its owner's delight their majesties

smiling broadly paused to speak to the bird, and the parrot, apparently just as delighted, repeated his remark enthusiastically: "God save the king! God save the king! God save the king!"

Instantly the other parrot, having discreetly turned its back on the royalties, croaked out: "Silly ass! Shut up!"

THE COMMON SENSE

My conscience is unhampered by the fact that men commit crimes. The many misdeeds that are common now, to wit: The sins of dress extravagance that course our world race, The schemes to swindle the nickels from the greedy populace, The sins of greed, or shirking and of dabbling in wine, Beset a host of fellows, but there's none of them that's mine. I have no sin or vice at all, unless the salute salute.

The sin of spending twenty when there's only ten in sight.

In ways unostentatious I begin my common day. Resolved to buy me nothing new for which I cannot pay; When I do from shelves obscure in some dusty, musty shop The rarest books and new ones from their hiding places hop!

My vows and resolutions of the morning I forget In frenzied contemplation of the spinning prices now.

And ere I fairly know it, then my record's black as night.

—John D. Wells, in Buffalo News.

AUTO'S KILLINGS

The report of the state highway commission for the seven months of 1914 shows that 85 persons were killed and 1472 injured by automobiles. A fraction over 27 per cent of those killed were occupants of automobiles. The remainder were either pedestrians or occupants of other vehicles. More than seven out of ten of the auto victims are then persons whom it strikes on the highways. For this high rate of mortality the responsibility is divided between drivers of machines and pedestrians and others who use the streets.—Worcester Gazette.

VIRGINIA CLUBS

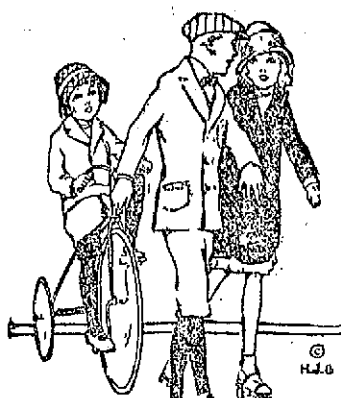

Virginia's new prohibition law, effective Nov. 1, 1916, allows club members to keep liquor in lockers and allow the serving of "beer beer" of not over three and a half per cent of alcohol. It seems like a fair bet to figure that Richmond will have more "beer beer" than any other city in the law takes effect.—Brookline Enterprise.

DANCE CENSORSHIP

The plan of Malden women's civic league for a dance patron, employed by the city and paid by the proprietors of dance halls, may be good, in its way, but it calls only for a shifting of responsibility. Parents, if they thought could stop objectionable dancing simply by taking an interest in their daughters. The dances which do not depend for patronage upon girls are under the age of independence are few. Censorship is, or should be, a last resort.—Brookline Times.

AMERICAN APPLES

The American apple crop this year, according to the statisticians and the crop report experts, will foot up approximately 210,000,000 bushels. This is rather more than twice as much as each man, woman and child in the United States and more than all that it is some 55,000,000 bushels in excess of last year's crop. The report and the comparison with last year's figures, are especially interesting from the fact that last year thousands upon thousands of apples were permitted to rot upon the ground because the price would not yield the profit to which the apple-growers thought they entitled. The waste was, in the east to some extent, but

PRO VILLA

Gen. Villa's formal announcement through Consul General Carruthers that he will not be a candidate for president or vice-president of Mexico ought to bring an easy end of the renewed trouble in that war-torn country. Carranza is reported to have declared that he would not be a candidate if Villa should not. Apparently this was a bluff on the view that has been prevalent that Villa lacked the sense to realize that he is not fit for the place. If it was a bluff, it has been quickly called by Villa, who, it is to be said in justice to him, has at once protested that he did not desire the position and only sought to insure that the government should hereafter be a civilian instead of a military one, and should carry out the great reforms to which the revolution was pledged. This view is clearly the right one and the purpose deserves all sympathy. But it is a pity that, if accomplished at all, it should be by violent revolutionary attitudes.—Worcester Post.

THE SPELLBINDER

The representative contest in the 14th district, which includes ward one and Dracut, promises to be one of the most interesting that has come up locally in a long time. Last year, John W. Brennan, of Dracut, the democratic candidate, defeated ex-Senator Hibbard, although the district is reputedly by a strong majority, while the third candidate was Cecil P. Dodge, a resident of Dracut up to a year or more ago, a popular member of the progressive party and a former republican. Mr. Brennan served his first term with credit and distinction, having the good fortune to be appointed on the committee on taxation which was one of the most important and busiest committees of the session. His record for the year lay beyond adverse criticism and he was given the nomination for a second term without opposition. The republican rank, however, quite a contest developed before the caucuses. Up to the last moment ex-Senator Hibbard had not entered the field as a candidate as he had intimated that he would not run if Mr. Dodge was to be the progressive candidate, figuring that the republican had the chance with Dodge in the contest. At the 11th hour Mr. Dodge retired and in his place came Michael A. Lee, a former democrat but now a progressive, and business agent of the local carpenters' union. Then the ex-senator came in to fight for he saw an excellent opportunity to win with Lee as the third candidate. But as the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley, when the caucus votes were counted it was found that Arthur W. Colburn, a Dracut farmer and office holder, had carried the day. Prior to the caucuses, Mr. Colburn's friends claimed that ex-Senator Hibbard had had enough and should stand aside. Then some friend of Hibbard's whose mind turned toward research looked up Mr. Colburn's career and found, he claims, that it was 14 years ago that Mr. Colburn returned to Dracut from an agricultural college in New Hampshire and that out of the 14 years that have since passed he has held public office in the town of Dracut for twelve years, as he has been selectman for four years, sealer of weights and measures, on the board of registrars, in the school board and finally tax-collector for six years, the last-named plum paying about $1500 per year. But local pride came to the rescue of Mr. Colburn for the republicans of Dracut, while battling with Rep. Brennan, figured that with Mr. Lee in the field Hibbard would win out and thus deprive the town of its representation in the legislature, and hence although ordinarily comparatively few of them would attend the caucuses they turned out in full numbers and assured the town of a representative under any circumstances by nominating Mr. Colburn. Thus Dracut has the two candidates. The fact that the republicans of the town came out strongly for Mr. Colburn in the primaries, doesn't indicate, however, that they will all support him on election day. Their action was due simply to their desire to have a Dracut man at the state house, and now that Mr. Colburn is the opposing nominee many of them who are satisfied with Mr. Brennan's conduct in the house will want to give him the customary second term.

The presence of Mr. Michael A. Lee, a sincere and hard worker for the cause of organized labor gives the critics of that body and its methods, an opportunity to talk again. It is a matter of legislative history that legislation on the Massachusetts statute books, that aims to improve the conditions of the working people was fathered, fostered and finally put there by democrats and none others. Labor leaders appearing at the state house with their measures invariably have the assistance of democrats and have secured clear of the main body of republicans, and it has ever been a foregone conclusion that the election of a democratic representative meant the election of a legislator who would vote right on labor measures. Rep. Brennan's labor record during his term of office has been such as to earn him letters of commendation from the A. F. of L., with which Mr. Lee is affiliated. Although holding a position of responsibility in a powerful corporation, the American Woolen company, Rep. Brennan has not allowed this fact to interfere with his views on the needs of working people at large. He has worked in the mill all his life, rising from a menial position and knows something about what the toilers experience from day to day. His opponent, Mr. Colburn, while personally an honest exemplary citizen, is a farmer and has been through all his career having little knowledge of the conditions that exist among the workers in the mill and factories and having nothing in common with them. It could not be expected that if elected he would be interested in labor legislation. Now comes Mr. Lee into the contest without a blemish of chance to win the election. Mr. Lee, being a former democrat and a labor man, is expected that whatever strength he may show will come from democrats and labor men. Such being the case, each vote cast by democrats and labor men for Mr. Lee is a vote cast against

Mr. Brennan, the tried friend of labor in the interest of Mr. Colburn, whose views on the subject, if he had any, are not publicly known and have not been put to the test. As the district is republican under ordinary circumstances it will not take many democratic and labor votes cast for Mr. Lee to elect Mr. Colburn, and if he should be elected in this manner then the labor men of the 14th district will have gone on record as having worked against their own best interests. Let them adopt the "Safety First" slogan and elect the man who has shown them his friendship and support.

Judging from the editorial lamentations of the Courier-Citizen concerning the home-headed republicans who persist in voting "alphabetically," the "hydrocephalous" voters who mark their crosses for crooks and joke candidates and the democrats, particularly in the 8th district who nominate 22-syllable candidates, the poor editor must have come to the conclusion that the only intelligent voters left are the "Holy Ghost and Us."

Superfluous Election Officers

The payroll for the election officers who served at the recent primaries has been sent to the auditor's office and its amount, $1674, leads to the disclosure of interesting facts relative to the manner in which economy has been practiced by the commission of finance in his conduct of the affairs of the elections department.

In 1912 and in years past there were 216 precinct officers in the city. In days gone by they received $5 per day, but in 1912 they received $6 per day, which aggregated, assuming that they all served, which they did not, $8184.

In 1913 the progressive candidates for representation among the precinct officers, and as a result the number of officers was swelled to 263, and then it was thought that the limit was reached. But the list of 1914 shows that it takes 303 precinct officers, mostly "inspectors," whatever they are, at a total cost of $7772, provided they all served, though some of them didn't. In the recent caucuses, to run the elections, "The additional precinct officers appointed this year at $5 per day are not progressives, but democrats and republicans, though the city had gotten along for years with a much less number of each."

This year the commissioner of finance has appointed 40 more precinct officers than ever before and of these 40 there were 24 who didn't show up on caucus day, and hence didn't get their $5 per day for doing nothing. Probably they didn't know that they had been appointed, and won't let it happen again on the three days to come. Had they all showed up the cost of officers for the caucus alone would have been $1512, but 24 remained away and the cost was $1674.

This year it took 42 precinct officers to hold the caucuses in ward seven against 33 last year, and 24 in 1912. As this is the finance commissioner's ward it might appear that he had some doubts as to the voting ability and behavior of his neighbors. Last year there were eight progressive officers in ward seven against six this year, so that the 11 extras are democrats and republicans. Ward two had the smallest number of precinct officers this year, 26, against 25 last year and 24 in 1912. Ward five with 30 officers is the only ward in which an increase was made.

Some of these men who draw $5 per day as precinct officers, by a tremendous effort, set up before a clock on election morning, report at the polls and then go about their business until the close of the polls when they return and hang around until the votes have been counted. The list of names is interesting. In ward one there are two well known lawyers on the list, getting their $5 per day, like the lumberjack worker and the farmer. In this ward also is another precinct officer who is on the jury list as a "gentleman," which means that he doesn't have to work for a living—except, of course, four days per year, when he gives his services to the city at $8 per.

Among the precinct officers, also, are city employees, who are not supposed to draw two salaries from the city; business men who "bottle" against municipal extravagance and high taxes, and there is one precinct officer, at least, whose name will appear on the ballot as a candidate for office at the election at which he is to serve as an official. The increase in the number of officers together with the employment of additional clerks, to write tax bills, form a needless expenditure of over $1000 just at a time when the citizens are chafing over the highest tax bills that have ever been sent out from city hall, and sent by an administration whose campaign cry has been "economy and reform."

Hurting the Charter

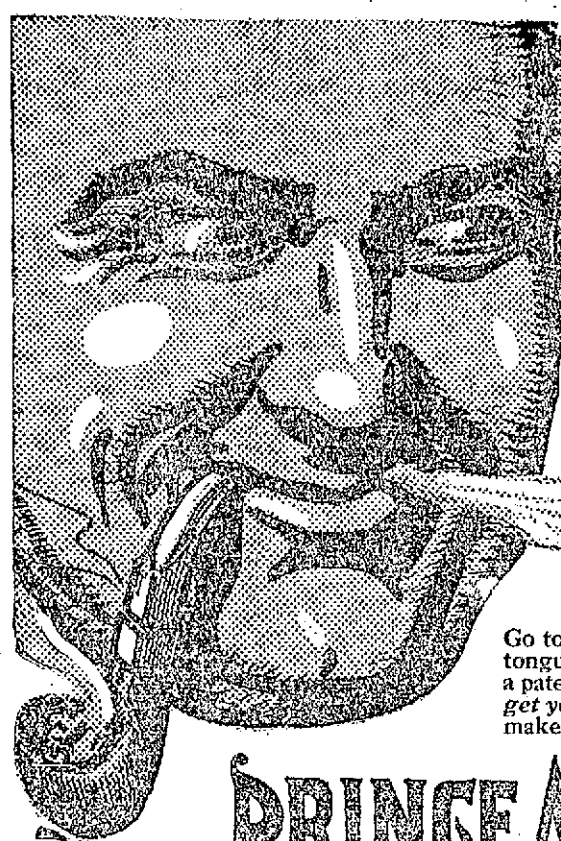

The present administration is doing more to make the charter unpopular than all of its outspoken enemies who stumped the city when the change of government was proposed. The present administration is violating the promises and claims of the proponents of the charter and those violations consist of the severe reduction of the municipal council; doing city work by contract and the importation of outside labor to do the work together with the violation of other promises such as that made to the board of trade to reduce the cost of lighting, the promises to the French-American voters and finally that grand old right to equal rights for all, special privileges to none.

Call Them Off, Mr. Mayor

It is understood that certain men are abroad trying to work up a sentiment for a second term for Mayor Murphy so that in response to a call by his fellow-citizens His Honor can repudiate his campaign promise of a year ago and be a candidate again. One of the promoters of the second term scheme goes so far as to advise the friends of another probable candidate to keep him out lest the mayor defeat him. Now, Mayor Murphy hit the public right on his promise that if elected he would serve only one term. That was one of his principal issues, the one-term theory. Many who voted for him on this theory regret the fact that it wasn't less than one, but, however, having widely proclaimed that he would not seek nor accept a second term, His Honor can hardly go back on his word, even in response to a specially manufactured sentiment. Whether His Honor has sent out the scrolls to boom the noon gun idea or not, he should call them in and silence them, as by so doing he will have the satisfaction of retiring from office gracefully.

Recall Papers Out

A short time ago when it was reported that recall papers were out for one of the commissioners, little attention was given the report as it was believed that such a movement would die of inaction. But the papers are going, not directed against the mayor, but, it is said, against the mayor and Commissioners Carmichael and Morse, for the purpose of placing the entire administration on the ballot in the

It is said that on the papers are the names of many voters who are thoroughly disgusted at the action of the municipal council in the Putnam

Howling Over Tax Bills

There is more general complaining over this year's tax bills than has ever before been heard in this city "What are we getting for this increase?" is the cry. "What has this year's government done?" The man with the answer to these questions has as yet to make his appearance.

Call for Paving Blocks

Commissioner Morse has called for 250,000 paving blocks that should have been called for last April. Watch the cost of these blocks when the bids are opened and compare it with the cost of last year and then take a peek at your tax bill and that of a year ago. Proposition is the thief of time. Time is money; therefore procrastination is the thief of money. Quarrymen state that paving blocks could have been purchased much cheaper last April than they can be today. Commissioner Morse it is reported, motored to North Chelmsford, Tuesday and looked over a pile of paving blocks that are piled near the entrance to the Country club. As the Spellbinder pointed out recently, those blocks are owned by the Hildreth Granite Co.

They Meant Well, Anyway

Those who have heard the story are chuckling over the near-catch of a jewelry store robber by Supt. Welch and a small army of inspectors and patrolmen a few evenings ago. It is both uncharitable and unjust, however, to poke fun at the alert police in this case for their intentions were the best and had the man been a yegg bound on robbery they would have captured him, but he turned out to be an honest citizen bent on a legitimate transaction in a jewelry store after closing hours, and hence their failure to achieve further greatness. It seems that a man telephoned to a local jeweler last Thursday, stated that he would like to make the purchase of a diamond ring, or something similar, that evening. He was obliged to get it that evening and while he knew that the store was closed on Thursday, he asked if the proprietor could not accommodate him by letting him in at 8.30 p. m. The request was so unusual that the jeweler played the "safety first" game and telephoned the facts to the police station. Visions of another Norton case must have hovered thickly about the police station, for as the appointed hour approached an imposing army of police from the superintendent down to common patrolmen, all undoubtedly armed to the teeth, assembled at the jewelry store and proceeded to surround it. They were in front, behind and over the building waiting for the desperado to make his appearance, while one took a position at Towler's corner to wing him if he got by the others. He came along just as he said he would and entering the store purchased the article he had gone after, thanked the proprietor for accommodating him and went on his way rejoicing, blissfully ignorant of the fact that he had been in imminent danger of being hanged, drawn and quartered by the most imposing army of police that has been gathered together at one time since the post office inspectors came here and borrowed the local force to assist them in arresting a bunch of yeggmen in Appleton street.

And the police? Well—

"The king of France went up the hill with twenty thousand men. The king of France came down the hill, and no more went up again."

These Tardy Commissioners

A woman who recently abandoned important business temporarily so as to tend a meeting at city hall, advertised to take place at a certain hour and who after waiting an hour or more for the meeting to come to order, was informed that the matter in which she was interested would not come up until another day, in favor of amending section 23 of the charter which now reads: "All public hearings shall be held as far as is practicable, in the evening, but may be held at any time," to read "but may be held at any old time." This administration has all records broken for secret sessions in the mayor's office. One may be excused for forming the opinion that the members "can't stand the gas" as Commissioner Morse would say, of public criticism, and hence go behind closed doors to express their views on public matters. It is reported that the commissioners held a secret session in the mayor's office a few days ago at which they agreed to vote more money for sewers, but upon hearing the howl over the tax-bills they abandoned the proposition. It will be recalled that it was at a secret session that the commissioners agreed to gobble up the perpetual care fund.

Republican Love Feast

A delightful little love feast was held at the Richardson hotel dining room Tuesday evening, when Reps. Jewett and Achin, the successful candidates for the legislature in the 17th district, appreciating the old adage that the best way to get to a man is through his stomach, gave their defeated brethren, Messrs. Kilpatrick, Berard, Kew and Adams a fine dinner. The purpose of the feast was to remove any sore spots that might have held over after the primaries. The dinner was one of the best the cuisine of the Richardson affords, and that's some dinner. Entering into the spirit of the occasion Proprietor Hoban had the room decorated with forget-me-nots and a floral dove, bearing in its beak an olive branch, signifying that the storm had subsided, while Phil Lederman and Dick Noonan played that popular ballad, "Let Bygone Be Bygone," and Let Us Be Sweethearts Again. Both sides reported that the dinner was a complete success, and the story of bullets that were cast in the primaries was not brought up.

CONGRESSMAN ROGERS RAKES SOUTHERN MILLS

Says Labor Conditions in Textile Factories of the South Out- Herod Herod—Child Snatchers of Southern Mills Torture Before They Kill

Congressmen, as a rule, do not bother with texts, but Congressman John Jacob Rogers stepped out of the beaten path in congress yesterday in a speech entitled "Out Herod Herod."

"Then Herod went forth and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof. Then was fulfilled that which was spoken in Jeremiah, the prophet, saying: 'In Rama was there a voice heard in lamentation, and weeping, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.'"

The text was an appropriate one and the congressman's spirited argument for a nation-wide law governing the hours and conditions of labor of women and minors was backed by official and tabulated statistics. His facts were copper-bound and riveted. He showed that the mills of some southern states employ women and minors to such an extent that the labor laws in these states are inadequate, little enforced and wholly medieval in character. In part, he said:

"Certain states of the south today tolerate conditions which out-herod Herod. He killed swiftly and without pain; the child-snatchers of the southern mills torture before they kill. He killed the children of a tiny province; their victims are torn from a great section of a great country. He killed the body only; they too often kill mind and soul as well."

"Mr. Speaker: On July 1 last I introduced in the house of representatives a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States to the following effect: 'The congress shall have power to regulate throughout the United States the employment of women and of persons under the age of 21 years.' This resolution was referred to the committee on judiciary and is still pending in that committee."

Question of Restriction

"At the present time—and indeed throughout our history as a nation—it rests with the several states to determine what restraint, if any, shall be imposed either on the employer or the employee, or both, in entering into and continuing in operation the contract of employment. This power is vested in the states, because a part of the general police power and because never withdrawn from them by the federal constitution."

"With 18 commonwealths, each in this particular respect entirely independent of every other commonwealth as well as of the nation, it is not surprising that a vast divergence of labor-protecting legislation exists. Different states, like different individuals, vary widely in their point of view as to what constitutes necessary and proper protection of the laboring classes. Massachusetts has of late years deservedly achieved the reputation of being among the two or three most enlightened and progressive states in respect to labor legislation. Other states are equally conspicuous for their retardation in this respect."

"It is perhaps not material to discuss the causes which result in this variance; the problem is before us and demands a solution. In pointing out in some detail the precise differences between the group of states of which Massachusetts is typical and the group of states at the other extreme in labor legislation, I am especially anxious to avoid even the semblance of sectional feeling. This is solely a question of fact and in developing my arguments I shall strive throughout to rest every assertion I make, not upon the belief or opinion of any individual, but upon statistics derived at first hand from authentic and official publications readily available to any who may care to examine them."

Pair Competition Demanded

"A state can not complain if it is fairly and squarely outdistanced in keen competition for the business of the nation and of the world. Competition is necessarily keen, and no state can complain provided it is also fair. Massachusetts and New England as a whole are manifestly being outstripped today by the southern states in the race for industrial supremacy. The only question which under these circumstances Massachusetts has the right to ask its rivals is 'Are you competing fairly?'"

"It is human nature on the part of every community and state and nation to strive to win the prize. There is no doubt that the states of the southeast are keenly alive to the possibilities of the hour and are striving every nerve to reap the fullest harvest. They are not to be criticized in this, provided only, as I say, they live up to the ideals of a civilized nation in the methods which they pursue. I have hitherto alluded to a remark made on this floor by the gentleman who is generally expected to be the majority leader in the next house. His name is from North Carolina and in discussing the textile situation he spoke as follows:

"We in the south intend to make the New England mills come down and put their mills there or else go out of business."

"That was a straightforward utterance, and the gentleman who made it cannot be accused of seeking to fight in the dark or of failing to have the personal interest of his constituents at heart. But at the same time it is hardly to be expected that the great states of the north, dependent as they are in large measure upon the prosperity of the textile industries there, should co-operate with the gentleman from North Carolina as he seeks to achieve his purpose. Rather should we, while ourselves living up to the rules of the game, insist that our rapidly growing rivals on the South Atlantic should also conform to those rules which the enlightened mind of the nation, whether resident in the north or in the south, have come to accept as representative of the standard of decency and right living."

Adult Males Omitted

"It will be observed that my resolution gives congress power to legislate only for women and children. It says nothing about adult males. The reasons for this distinction are perhaps obvious, but may be stated briefly in the words of Secretary William B. Wilson, of the department of labor, with whom I discussed this very resolution before introducing it. After making it plain that he was speaking for himself, and not for the administration, he said, in substance, that inclusion of this sort, while in principle desirable, was not a desirable one insofar as it concerned the nation, whether resident in the north or in the south, have come to accept as representative of the standard of decency and right living."

"The Massachusetts laws for the protection of women and children, as I have shown, are numerous and elaborate. An appropriation of from $100,000 to $200,000 a year is made by our legislature for their strict enforcement. The Neill investigators examined 22 factories in Massachusetts and found but one child out of over 38,000 employees who was employed under the age of 16. In Georgia, on the other hand, the Neill investigators found that 11 children under 16 were employed in the state."

In Georgia, on the other hand, the Neill investigators found that 11 children under 16 were employed in the state."

The Statutory Situation

"Summing up the statutory situation throughout the United States, it may be broadly stated that the following points deserve especial emphasis:

"First. Although 40 out of 48 states prohibit child labor under 14 in mills and factories, including all six New England states, not one of the four southern states is considered in the number."

"Second. Although 13 states, including Massachusetts, limit the hours of labor of children under 16 to eight hours a day in mills and factories, not one of the four southern states just enumerated has such a law."

"Third. Although night work is forbidden under 16 in mills and factories in 33 states, including Massachusetts, Georgia does not appear in the list. Fourth. Although there are workmen's compensation acts in 24 states, including Massachusetts, not one of the four southern states enumerated has such a law; and generally speaking, it is probably not too much to say that the legislation characteristic of the more advanced of the United States is to be found in the four southern states now under discussion."

"The labor laws upon the statute books of the four South Atlantic states considered are sufficiently stated in all conscience, but this statement by no means tells the whole story. The further question arises as to the extent of the enforcement of such laws as there are. Obviously the mere existence of a law is wholly valueless unless honestly and conscientiously enforced to make it effective."

Age-Limit Laws Violated

"The Neill report, under the caption 'Employment of children under legal age in the southern states,' says: 'The age-limit laws in effect at the time of the investigation were widely

AMATEUR DIAMOND NEWS

Past Season Has Demonstrated That the Local Amateurs Have a Large Following of Fans

With the coming on of cool weather the amateur baseball players of the city are tucking their toes away for another season. The warm, summer-like days after the concluding of the New England schedule made it possible, however, for two games at Spaulding park which resulted in a great deal of local interest.

Amateur baseball throughout the country is always a big attraction. At a recent game played in New York city just two blocks away from where the Giants were batted for the pennant in the National league, 37,000 people congregated to see two amateur teams while organized ball drew less than 15,000.

In St. Louis a week ago last Saturday the papers of that city stated that 57,000 fans witnessed a game played on one of the huge playgrounds between the two best amateur ball clubs of the city. And there have been many amateur games played this summer where over 20,000 spectators have been in attendance.

Reason For Popularity

The reason for the popularity of the amateurs upon the diamond is the same as that for any other branch of amateur athletics. The fans like to see a game between players who are not paid for their efforts and who are not paid for the spectators themselves.

Of course, when brought down to fundamentals, amateur sport has been the foundation of all sport of a professional nature. Professional baseball would not be possible if it were not for amateur baseball.

To begin with there would be no professional ball players if there were not first amateurs. In the second place there are very few American men who have not played ball at some time or other in their lives. And this is just the reason of the great popularity of the game. The fans who watch two professional teams battling know the game in a limited degree, because they have played it themselves as amateurs.

The Local Amateurs

This city is no different than any other city or town of its size in its attitude toward amateur baseball. The past season has amply demonstrated the fact that Lowell appreciates amateur ball.

On Saturday afternoon or holidays a trip to either the North or South commons is sufficient to acquit anyone of a disbelieved in the previous statement. On either common, as a rule, more spectators are to be found than at the New England league park.

Law of supply and demand, to reduce the wage unit.

"These statements are not merely theoretical, but are substantiated by the elaborate report of the Neill investigators. For example, they say: 'Of the mill operatives employed in the southern mills investigated, the greater number in any wage group were earning between $3.00 and $3.50.'"

"The average earnings per hour in Massachusetts for all occupations were 14.9 cents in the case of males, and 12.6 cents in the case of females. The corresponding figures for North Carolina were 9.7 cents and 8.7 cents. In other words, the earnings per hour in North Carolina are about two-thirds of those in Massachusetts."

Massachusetts is handicapped

"As the labor cost forms a large proportion of the total cost of the commodities produced by the respective states, there is readily seen the tremendous handicap under which Massachusetts labors in competing with North Carolina. To do so is to compete with the north shall be a handicap of 16 cents per hour."

"The problem, then, is national; let the nation, through its congress, promptly seek its wise and permanent solution. Success will mean a better, gentler and a better nation; it will mean better wages, better health, better homes, better descendants and better citizenship; it will mean that we have saved the south from itself."

MURRAY IS POSTMASTER

TOOK CHARGE OF BOSTON OFFICE

FIELD

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—Hon. William F. Murray took charge of the Boston post office at midnight last night, succeeding B. C. Mansfield, who had been postmaster six years and had been connected with the office 11 years of the last 14 years. His first service from 1900 to 1905 was as assistant postmaster under the late Postmaster Henry A. Thomas.

There was no ceremony of any kind last night attending the transfer of the responsibilities of the Boston postal district to Mr. Murray. He and the retiring postmaster were together in the office all the evening learning the details of the checking up of the accounts of the office and branches by the force of postoffice inspectors called to Boston for the purpose. The inspectors worked to a late hour last night, and will probably have considerable to do before their work is ended.

When Mr. Mansfield went home after midnight he had severed his connection with the service. Mr. Murray will take up the duties this morning.

This year there has been a very successful league of amateur ball players in operation. The Mercantile league was formed among teams composed of the employees of the city's various establishments and played their games off on Thursday afternoons on the various open diamonds used by the amateurs.

This Mercantile league was productive of very good sport in most cases. Of course disputes are bound to arise where any contest or series of contests is to be played and the Mercantile league was no different in this respect than any other organization. But all the way through, the league scored a victory. It was its first season and, although minor changes will be enacted next year, it is safe to say that the Mercantile league is now on a permanent basis.

Without mentioning the death of amateur organizations which flock to the empty lots for a game on Saturday afternoons, let us look at the weather conditions made it possible, however, for two games at Spaulding park which resulted in a great deal of local interest.

The first contest in the New England park was between the C. M. A. C. team and a club composed of players who are employed by the Lawrence Manufacturing Co. This game resembled, in point of attendance, a clash between two professional clubs.

Last Saturday the P&Q South Ends met the C. M. A. C. team, the latter having been victorious in the game with the Lawrence Co. team. In a game which was billed as the city's amateur championship contest, again a large crowd turned out although it was so cold as to handicap the players for those same fans who attended last Saturday's game and were accordingly returned the amateur champions of the city.

Of course it was not the finished work of the players of either team which attracted the crowds. Far be it from us to detract from the ability of these players, and these two clubs contain some really good ball tossers. For those same fans who attended last Saturday's game would not think of going out to Spaulding park on such a day to see a collection of Ty Cobbs and Nap Lajoies. It was the amateur sport which appealed to them and the partisanship induced by it.

Let's have more of amateur sports. Amateur baseball, of course, has passed for another season but basketball, bowling and various other winter pastimes of an athletic nature can be made just as popular. The managers and those at the head of amateur organizations will find, as they have in the past, that the sporting public will patronize clean amateur athletics.

Lowell Cotton Mills

"I have shown at some length the importance to Massachusetts of this question. At present she is every day being more and more penalized for the humanity and progress which she has written into her statutes. It may be said that she should reduce the cost of production so that she may be able to meet the competition of the south. Can she do this? Take the case of the Lowell cotton mills, for example. An examination of their dividends for the past eight or ten years shows an average for all of between 4 and 4.2 per cent, per share—about the Massachusetts savings bank rate. It is said that the reproductive cost of the plants alone of these mills exceeds their capitalization."

"If, then, the profits are not unduly swollen or the stock watered, how can the cost of production be cut down? Of course, the greatest single item which enters into the cost of goods in Massachusetts must not reduce her wage scale. Similarly, if we should take up, one by one, the various elements entering into the cost of production of those articles in the manufacture of which Massachusetts has a comparative advantage, we should find that, as a practical matter, there could be no real hope of an appreciable saving."

"The only solution seems to be, therefore—certainly from the standpoint of Massachusetts—that the terms upon which the south is able to compete with the north shall be modified so that the competition shall be fair."

"The problem, then, is national; let the nation, through its congress, promptly seek its wise and permanent solution. Success will mean a better, gentler and a better nation; it will mean better wages, better health, better homes, better descendants and better citizenship; it will mean that we have saved the south from itself."

FIELD

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—Hon. William F. Murray took charge of the Boston post office at midnight last night, succeeding B. C. Mansfield, who had been postmaster six years and had been connected with the office 11 years of the last 14 years. His first service from 1900 to 1905 was as assistant postmaster under the late Postmaster Henry A. Thomas.

There was no ceremony of any kind last night attending the transfer of the responsibilities of the Boston postal district to Mr. Murray. He and the retiring postmaster were together in the office all the evening learning the details of the checking up of the accounts of the office and branches by the force of postoffice inspectors called to Boston for the purpose. The inspectors worked to a late hour last night, and will probably have considerable to do before their work is ended.

When Mr. Mansfield went home after midnight he had severed his connection with the service. Mr. Murray will take up the duties this morning.

Rolloff at Kittredge's Al- leys Resulted in Fast Competition

Last night's weekly rolloff for cash prizes at Kittredge's alleys resulted in some remarkably tight bowling with the city's leading rollers in competition.

Three men, Mason, Dwyer and Martel, were tied for first place with three string totals of 331 each. Hoban and F. O'Brien were tied for the next two places. The five prizes ranged from $7 to $11.

The day's high total for a single string was captured by Tommy Hoban with a mark of 150 pins for his ten boxes. Several other local bowlers were close behind Hoban's mark when he turned in his winning string. The scores of the rolloff are as follows:

THRILLS CROWD OF 10,000

Directum 1 Beats William at Columbus in Fastest Race Ever Paced—Time 1.58 and 2.00

COLUMBUS, Oct. 1.—Turf history was made at the Columbus track yesterday afternoon, the match race between Directum 1 and William not only providing a racing feature that thrilled a crowd of 10,000, but turning out also to be a world's record event and a distinct upset as a betting proposition.

Directum 1 was splendidly on edge, and his winning miles in 1.58 and 2.00 gave him the honor of having won the fastest race ever paced in the open, either in a race or exhibition without windaid.

The betting saw the first dozen tickets go at $500 on William to $350 on Directum 1. Auctioneering continued thereafter at 200 to 150 on William until the race started. After the first heat, the selling was at 50 to 17, with the red stallion the favorite.

At Great Rapids, Directum 1 drew the pole and lost in the first 30 yards. A stiff breeze was blowing up the back stretch and Snedeker chose to trail by a length and permit William to breast the breeze.

The quarter was passed in 29 seconds and the half in 59 3/4. The three-quarter pole saw a two-minute clip maintained. After the pair squared away in the home stretch Directum 1 was pulled out and, in a track burning performance, passed William, winning by a length and a half in 1.58 flat. The last quarter was in 25 seconds.

In the final mile, William gave a stiffer argument in the home stretch, forcing Directum 1, again trailing, to pace the final quarter in 27 1/2 seconds (separately timed) to win.

The crowd was the largest paid attendance that ever witnessed a horse race here. The summary:

HELPFUL ELLA

Once upon a time a little girl said: "I like Ella better than any of my other friends. She is always so pleasant and is willing to help you even if it does come in her play hours."

"Why, just the other day she told me she was going to make her doll a new dress and had planned just how it was to be made, and when I came over to her house and asked her to help me do my sums for the next day, she put away her doll's clothes and explained it to me so that I could do them myself."

"Then she started to make the doll's dress and I helped her sew and I found I could do quite well after Ella told me how. We had a nice afternoon and I am going over to see her again soon."

"Ella said she would tell me how to make my doll a new dress for she needs one badly."

"The one she has on now is spoiled because I left dolly out all night and it rained and her dress got all wet and dolly had a bad cold and I had to put her to bed and give her some medicine that mother gives me when I have a cold."

"I was sorry I forgot and left her out in the rain. Mother says she hopes it will teach me a lesson to be more careful."

"Ella says it is hard at first to remember but if you try it comes easier each time and I am going to try very hard."

Mike Wren announces that he will be unable to run his charge, Chester Hartigan, Oct. 12, on account of an injury received by the latter in training Tuesday evening.

Bill Ferguson, the genial hat salesman at the Talbot Clothing store is receiving many compliments on his classy selection of headgear for the young men this year.

Miss Frances Clayton, a prominent young lady employed as a clerk at the J. L. Chaffin department store, can still recall pleasant memories of her vacation spent this year at Salisbury beach.

The Primrose campers, a gathering of young men employed in the factories in and around Lowell will hold forth in their annual dancing party one week from tomorrow night and to judge from the compliments paid them in the past there will be an overflow attendance on the night of the affair.

Walter Cleary of the Lowell Bleachery is developing into quite a boy with the padded mitts and his friends predict much success for him if he enters the roped arena. Last evening he put the quietus on a local lightweight well known in the boxing fraternity at a local club. The stunt was pulled off in two rounds which makes it all the more worthy of mention.

The Fairmount bowling team of the Y. M. C. I. is out with a challenge to the Tremont & Suffolk pin tossers and would be much pleased, they write, if the management of the mill team could spare the time to make arrangements for a colloquy to be held Oct. 3. Manager Farrell of the Tremont & Suffolk boys can get in touch with Manager Gills by telephone at the Y. M. C. I. rooms any evening before that date after 7:30.

Take Action on Death of Member

The local union of street car employees held a special meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of John Bourke, one of the most prominent members and for many years a conductor on the various lines. The attendance at the meeting was very large and spoke eloquently of the friendship of the members for the deceased member. It was voted to draft the charter of the local for a period of thirty days and a committee was appointed to draft resolutions of condolence and a delegation was appointed to attend the funeral.

Carpenters' Union Held Meeting

Last evening in Carpenters' hall in the Rancible building the members of Carpenters' union, local 1511, held a most enthusiastic meeting. Business of considerable importance was transacted and three applications for membership were received. They were turned over to the investigation committee and will be reported on at the next regular meeting. One new member was admitted. It was announced that next week the quarterly meeting will be held and much important business will come up for transaction. Several of the members spoke on the good of the union and the secretary reported that nearly all of the members were working despite the fact that the present season of the year is rather slack in the building trades. He also reported the union to be in a very good financial condition.

GEORGE STALLINGS HAS A GOOD LOT OF YOUNG PITCHERS FOR BIG SERIES

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—While Rudolph, James and Tyler are the best known twirlers on George Stallings' staff, he has a nifty lot of second string pitchers in whom he has confidence. And if Stallings has confidence in a ball player the fans are beginning to learn that they may share that confidence without risk. Eugene Cocreham, who pronounces his name as if it were spelled "Corryham," is twenty-six years old and was born in Lufkin, Tex. He has not been used often, but he may get a chance in the game against the Athletics. Ensign Cottrill is the same age as Cocreham. He was born in Hoosick Falls, N. Y. He may not be a second Rudolph, and then again he may be. At any rate, the fact that he is on the payroll of the Braves shows that he is worth watching.

facturing town nine miles southeast of Antwerp and Heyst-op-den-Berg (a town near Liere). In Liere the tower of the church of St. Gommarius, the convent of the Blanc sisters and some houses have been struck by shells and four women have been wounded. Most of this district has been completely deserted by the civilian population.

The correspondent further says four wounded men and two women were killed by a shell which pierced the roof of a hospital at Liere yesterday during the German bombardment. The wounded men were completely wrecked.

The church of St. Gommarius, one of the finest late Gothic churches in Belgium, was built in 1255 and completed in 1557. Recently it was restored. Three of its nine stained glass windows were presented by Emperor Maximilian.

JOHN McGRATH BEGINS DUTIES AT AMESBURY TODAY AFTER WARMS CONTEST FOR THE PLACE

AMESBURY, Oct. 1.—After decided opposition within his own party, and following a warm contest, John McGrath, one of the best-known democrats in this section of the state became postmaster at Amesbury this morning, the position carrying with it a salary of $2200 per year.

Mr. McGrath has been the leader of the democratic party here for many years. He has met with opposition of late from a local faction supporting Charles I. Pettigall, democratic candidate for senator from the 4th Essex district. Mr. McGrath, through his endorsement of citizens in general, was enabled to overcome the opposition that included preferring of charges in Washington.

PATROLMAN LEAPS INTO AUTO TO GET CHAUFFEUR

Thrilling Auto Ride Through Roxbury Ends With the Arrest of Chauffeur on Charge of Assault and Battery—Many Narrow Escapes

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—Patrolman Daniel P. O'Neil of the Roxbury Crossing division had an exciting experience yesterday afternoon when he fought desperately to overpower a chauffeur, while they both rode wildly along Tremont street, through Roxbury and the South End, in an automobile. The machine was going at a speed estimated at more than 45 miles an hour. The thrilling ride and encounter terminated in Rutland square, South End, fully a mile from where it began, when Daniel Munneryn, the chauffeur, aged 32, was shot through the right hand in a struggle to obtain possession of the revolver which O'Neil had drawn when the former tried to start the auto again after the policeman had succeeded in bringing it to a standstill.

Munneryn was locked up at the Roxbury Crossing station charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, a blackjack, and today Patrolman O'Neil will place against him the additional charge of assault and battery on a public officer.

Munneryn has been living in Clifton, but is well known in Roxbury, where he lived for a number of years. On complaint of Edward Walters, aged about 35 years and living at 43 Hammond street, the Roxbury court last Saturday morning issued a warrant for the arrest of Munneryn, charging him with assault and battery on Walters last Friday afternoon. The two, it is stated, got into an argument over a woman.

About 2:30 yesterday afternoon the police of the Roxbury Crossing station learned that Munneryn was standing at Kendall and Tremont streets. Sergeant Fisher gave the warrant to Patrolman O'Neil and sent him and Patrolman Jordan to get the man.

Patrolman Leaps for the Car

According to the police, O'Neil has never before arrested Munneryn, who yesterday recognized him as he came along Tremont street, accompanied by Patrolman Jordan. Munneryn jumped into his employer's machine, which stood by.

While the auto was just beginning to start away from the curb, O'Neil made a dash for it and leaped over the left side step. Then the officer jumped into the tonneau of the touring car.

O'Neil threw his arms around Munneryn's neck, shouting to him to stop the car. Munneryn paid little heed, and even increased the speed while he fought off the policeman with one hand.

O'Neil then reached over the side

SANGUINARY FIGHTING IN RUSSIAN POLAND

Petrograd Reports That Russians are Advancing—Two German Divisions Destroyed—Bodies Found Hanging to Trees

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The correspondent of the Telegraph at Petrograd telegraphing regarding the operations in Russian Poland near the East Prussian border says:

"The triangle formed by joining Stishutshin, Augustow and Ossowetz is little more than a vast swamp, making military operations difficult even in the best weather. Rain has been falling heavily for the past two days but the Russians nevertheless are pushing on determinedly.

"The recent fighting has been sanguinary, two German divisions having been destroyed in the battle of Druskenki. In the west of Russian Poland the brushes between the advance guards continue.

"The Polish peasants are extremely bitter against the Germans and this feeling has been increased by the contact with German humor. As an instance, the Germans everywhere pretended to pay for supplies with documents written in German, which the peasants do not understand. When translated the peasants found that these papers had inscribed thereon that whoever presents this at the end of the war will be hanged.

"There probably has been sullying by the civilian population as the bodies of six peasants were found hanging to a tree in a Polish town a few days ago. Their fellow townsmen vowed to have revenge and two days later a German scouting party found the bodies of 22 German soldiers hanging from the same tree.

"A letter received here from a Russian officer who is camping on the estate of Emperor William at Reminten, eastern Prussia, says:

"William's estate is magnificently equipped and we have everything at our disposal which we could wish. We are enjoying particularly delicious dinners prepared by his fine cooks.

"His park swarms with rare animals and birds. We are teaching his parrots the Russian language and they are learning to address their imperial master with compliments. I should blush to repeat in company."

DOGGED COURAGE OF FRENCH TROOPS IS PRAISED BY CORRESPONDENT

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Amiens under date of Sunday in describing the heavy fighting around Peronne, which has been taken and retaken at various times, says that it is impossible to hear of the dogged courage of the French troops without a thrill of admiration.

"All at once one morning," he says, "the French advance was subjected to a terrible concentrated fire and it seemed impossible for the troops to hold their ground. The French artillery had to abandon position after position.

"At 2 o'clock the shells began to fall around the cross roads where the staff was located and the general in command was urged to quit. 'No,' he said, 'so long as I stay here we cannot retreat and we have simply got to hold on.'

"He said the same thing when three farms close by were in flames. He said it and meant it and he saved the day. At 3 o'clock he was still there and his men held their own. At 4 o'clock the German line slackened a little and an infantry attack was pushed forward. That evening the French guns were occupying the positions which the German guns had held all day. The general had held on."

FOOD QUESTION IS A GRAVE ONE IN AUSTRIA—PRICE OF CORN DOUBLE AND GOING UP

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The food question is a grave one in Austria, according to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Chassau, Switzerland. The Austrian emperor has issued an edict empowering the government to take all measures necessary to alleviate the situation. The price of corn is double that of normal times and is increasing at the rate of three per cent. daily. German and Austrian dealers are traveling in neutral countries, the despatch says, trying to buy corn and announcing at the same time that it is intended for other countries. Italy has demanded that the fullest guarantee be given that corn purchased there is not to go to Austria.

Roumania's embargo on the export of corn has caused consternation in Austria, according to the despatch, and it is said that Austria is now making desperate efforts to get wheat from the United States, but the blockade of the Adriatic makes relief from this quarter doubtful. The shortage of food is also felt in the German army, the despatch declares.

GERMAN WESTERN FLANK FORCED BACK—FEATURES OF LAST NIGHT'S DESPATCH

BERLIN CLAIMS ALLIES REPULSED AT ALBERT

Allied Forces Advancing North and South of Albert, France, Repelled—Admits Setback in Circle From Scheldt to Senne

LONDON, Oct. 1.—An official statement issued from German general headquarters under date of the evening of Sept. 30 is given in a despatch to Reuter's Telegram Co. from Berlin, via Amsterdam. It says:

"The hostile forces advancing to the north and south of Albert, a town of France, 15 miles northeast of Amiens, have been repulsed. The front battle line is without news.

"In Argonne our attack is progressing steadily, though slowly. At the outer forts on the Meuse the line is without change.

"Yesterday the enemy advanced in Alsace and Lorraine. In the central Vosges hills attacks were repulsed. The eastern theatre is without news.

FLIRTS WITH DEATH

AVIATOR LINCOLN BEACHEY GIVES REMARKABLE EXHIBITION AT BROCKTON FAIR

BROCKTON, Oct. 1.—New England day at the Brockton fair, always one of the highest and best days of the famous outdoor show, was marred yesterday by continual morning rains, which lasted just long enough to keep most of the out-of-town thousands away, but before the noon the sun came out. By this time, however, people living some distance away from the city had given up hope of attending the fair.

The noon trains from Boston, however, brought thousands of visitors here. Their confidence in the management was such that they felt that the program would not be curtailed, and such was the case. Despite the bad weather, the horse show was started early, and as soon as the track was in shape the harness races were started, but owing to the lateness of the hour, only one race was finished.

Beachey, the big attraction, went into the air and kept the crowd on edge for six minutes. The vaudeville acts were given on wet and slippery stages. The midway was the same as if it had never rained. Sports were held in the oval and on the slender track. Not a single feature of the big show was omitted because of the weather, but the rain had a dampening effect on the entire show.

His aircraft wholly repaired following yesterday's accident, Lincoln Beachey again flirted with death by performing some stunts that were not on the program yesterday. This intrepid birdman showed the fair patrons the triple loop and twice flew upside down, the second time going the entire length of the grounds.

Beachey started from the south end of the oval just before 3 o'clock and was in the air six minutes. But he made the time count. After rising to a height of about 1000 feet, he circled the track three times and then rose higher and flew over the grounds toward Forest avenue. Upon his return he executed a single loop over the athletic score boards opposite the grandstand. He then swung south of the grounds, rose to a height of about 4000 feet and, while directly over the horse barns, executed his triple somersault. This was followed by flying upside down over the race track, after which he did a single loop, flew upside down once more and then landed like a bird in the oval, while thousands of people crowded around and cheered. The flight was notable because there was a strong wind blowing across the grounds.

Beachey intended to make another flight at 5 o'clock, but the management had seen a wonderful performance and decided that comparatively few would be at the grounds at that hour.

AIRSHIP AMERICA

Secured by British, Will be Used for War Service, it is Said

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The mammoth aeroplane America, with which Lieut. Porte had expected to fly across the Atlantic, was shipped to England yesterday aboard the steamer Mauretania, and it is said will be used by the British government for war service.

The America, said to be the world's most powerful aeroplane, was tested at Hammondsport, N. Y., last summer before the European war crisis caused a postponement of the proposed flight.

On one occasion the America flew with 10 men and a quantity of gasoline aboard, her lift approximating 2000 pounds. She was equipped with two 100-horsepower engines and plans were in the making to add a third engine of the same power to her equipment.

Lieut. John C. Porte, who expected to make the trip across the Atlantic in the America, was an officer in the British navy. Soon after war was declared he returned to England. The impression prevailed here, yesterday, that because of his familiarity with the working of the America he might be selected as her pilot should she be used for military purposes.

Several Others Ordered

Officials of the Cunard Line, when asked yesterday to name the individual or firm in England to which the America had been consigned, declined to do so, saying the matter was one which they did not care to discuss.

Later in the afternoon the Cunard line officials said that the aeroplane had been shipped by a well-known firm in this city, "to order." This, it was explained, meant that the aeroplane would be surrendered on the other side to the person who presented the bill of lading, which had already been sent forward by mail.

It is understood that the aeroplane had been purchased by a private individual and would be turned over to the British government upon its arrival in Liverpool.

It was further reported that several other aeroplanes of the same type as the America had been ordered by the American's purchaser, and that these, too, would be presented to the British government.

LOCAL GREEK SCHOOL

PRESIDENT OF GREEK COMMUNITY WILL TRY TO HAVE IT RE-OPENED

An effort will be made by Peter Tavoularis, president of the local Greek community to obtain permission from the board of health to reopen the school in the basement of the Greek Orthodox church in Jefferson until the new building in Worthen street, which is being converted into a school is ready for occupancy.

Last summer the officials of the Greek community received orders from the board of health to close their school which was being conducted in the basement of the church and immediately steps were taken for the erection of a new school. However, it was deemed advisable to purchase the Plunkett residence in Worthen street and convert it into a school building. The property was purchased, but as is the rule in the Greek community nothing was done in regard to changes until the ready cash was on hand. The building is now being remodeled and will be ready for occupancy in about three months and inasmuch as the parents do not wish to send their children to the public schools the board of health will be asked to allow the reopening of the condemned school until the other building is ready.

O'SULLIVAN SAYS:

Here is a little item of news that ought to interest the ladies. You know that the current styles of fancy mixtures coats for girls and young women practically require no alterations and the current practice in Lowell is to include the cost of alterations in the price of the garments. This is a burden on those that buy the coats as had.

To relieve our customers of this burden we eliminate the cost of alteration, representing a tidy saving to you in every case. Coats that would be ordinarily priced at $10.00 are marked $8.75, and at this price there is here represented fancy mixtures in grays, browns, tans and blues. At this price we consider them exceptionally attractive values.

LADIES' DRESSES—Charmeuse and satin, all colors and sizes priced $12.75. These dresses at this low price deserve your special attention as one of our manufacturers has concentrated all his strength on this price dress and we fancy the price and the garment will appeal to you.

WOOL SERGE DRESSES—Navy, Copen, and Black, $4.95, $5.95, $10.00, $12.50 and $15.00—These are low prices for us to name, but the problem of getting money from its hiding places is our incentive.

LADIES' WHITE COATS—Are scarce. Manufacturers are not able to secure the goods. This week we received a few more from one of our New York coat makers and the price is $10.75 and $14.75 while they last. We keep weekly in touch with the New York market on ladies' garments and we believe it will be for your interest to keep in touch with our window showings for individual styles in Suits, Coats and Dresses at inviting prices.

French War Office Reports Progress of Allies on Left to North of

TERRIBLE DEFEAT OF GERMANS AT SEDAN

French Troops Exacted Bloody
Revenge for French Defeat 44 Years Ago—Germans Led Into Trap Which Cost Them Thousands of Men.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—During the strategical retreat of the allies southward from the Belgian frontier the French troops exacted from the Germans bloody revenge for the French defeat at Sedan 44 years before. On this same battlefield, according to the Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail, the Germans suffered one of the worst defeats of their present invasion. They were led into a trap which cost them thousands of men, he says. The French could have held their position indefinitely but strategy required them to continue falling back with the remainder of the allies along the line.
Here is the story of the second battle of Sedan as told by the correspondent:
"The French general has ordered his troops to fall back across the river and take up positions on the opposite heights. The bridges were mined but were left standing in order to deceive the Germans into thinking that the French were retreating hastily. The ruse succeeded. The Germans advanced across the bridges in close formation. When several German regiments had crossed, the French blew up the bridges and the French artillery ran down the German lines which retreated hastily to the river, only to find the bridges gone.

"The French regiments then advanced with quick fire and the mer-
Many Germans threw down their arms and attempted to swim the river and large numbers were drowned. When nightfall came, the French brought up searchlights and continued the work of carnage.
"The artillery threw shells at the rate of a dozen rounds a minute into the German ranks and varied its tactics by throwing incendiary shells into the forest where part of the German force had taken refuge. The burning woods lit up the whole front of 15 miles.
"In the morning an armistice of two hours was granted to allow the Germans to bury their dead. The French had suffered the loss of only a handful."

New Russian Army of 1,000,000 Men Joins Forces in Poland

Slight advances by both wings of the allies are indicated in an official statement issued by the French war office at 2.45 o'clock this afternoon.
At the same time the general situation is described as unchanged.
We have, nevertheless, says the statement, made progress on our left to the north of Somme and on our right in the southern Woevre district.
The brief announcement from Paris affords the only light from official sources thrown on the great struggle in northern France today. London and Berlin were still silent in the late afternoon and what unofficial reports reached this country by way of the captains of the belligerents contained little to indicate the course of events on the different battlefields. Not since the war began has the censorship been so severe.
The latest Berlin announcement made last night said that the allies had been repulsed at Albert, 18 miles northwest of Amiens and that the German attack in Argonne was progressing steadily though slowly. The most recent word from the Belgian war office, also given out last night stated that the Belgians were successfully repulsing the attack of the Germans on Antwerp.
Fighting in the Far East has begun in earnest with an attack by the German warships on the land positions of the Japanese, who are besieging Tsing Tau in furtherance of their campaign against the district of Kiao Chow in China.
An official statement issued at Tokyo today says that Japanese attacks sunk a German torpedo boat destroyer and that a Japanese mine sweeper was sunk off the harbor and a Japanese supply ship damaged. The statement gives the impression that the battle continues without definite result thus far.

Nothing is made known of the progress of the fighting in the eastern theatre of the war today. A news despatch from Petrograd under yesterday's date says that a German squadron bombarded Windau, a Russian seaport in the Baltic on Sept. 24.
The forts replied to the fire of the ships which after destroying the light-house withdrew.
Despatches from Switzerland state that Austria is confronted with a serious shortage of food supplies.
A Paris correspondent, referring to the events of yesterday, says that the Germans continue a fierce attack on the allies in the angle formed by the rivers Oise and Aisne in the direction of Trancy-Le-Mont. Yesterday's statement by the French war office said that the Germans were repulsed at Trancy-Le-Mont.
A French national committee is appealing for winter clothing for the troops.
A German casualty list, published today, contains the names of 8000 officers and men killed, wounded or missing.

WING DEFEATED
LONDON, Oct. 1.—The scene of sacrecy erected by the censorship almost entirely across northern France and behind which military craftsmen for the past three weeks have been figuratively speaking, fashioning the rough outline of a new map of the eastern hemisphere stands today almost unlin-palred. It has, however, judging from indications in London, been pierced here and there with holes which permit some inkling of the events happening on the stage behind it.

From what can be deduced from these fragmentary glimpses there appear to be justification in the opinion of British observers for the confident, even seemingly inspired optimism on the part of the allies. This describes events as shaping themselves for a repetition of history as it was written on the river Marne when the allied forces sent the Germans back on their tracks.
All the brilliantly skilful tactics employed by General Von Kluck, the commander of the German right wing, to counter or break through the band of bayonets constantly reaching northward behind his extreme right has thus failed.

Germans to Reinforce Right Wing
These attempts, however, have by no means ceased, and the German general staff, it is felt in London, probably will risk something elsewhere in order to reinforce this wing before the end of the chapter is written. Heretofore reinforcements have been met by reinforcements in this critical quarter of the battlefield.
The Germans nearly got through the allied ring near Albert, to the northeast of Amiens, but after two days of fierce struggle for the mastery, they failed. These incessant assaults on the part of the Germans have, according to the allied commanders, whose reports are augmented by statements from independent sources, cost the assailants such appalling losses in men that even allowing for reinforcements their ranks must have been materially weakened.
The announcement from France of

Second Edition PUBLIC MARKET FOR THE CITY OF LOWELL

Question to Appear on Ballot at State Election as Result of Bill
Introduced by Representative
Dennis A. Murphy

Will Lowell have a public market?
This question will appear on the ballot at the state election and great interest is being manifested at this time. The farmers are in favor of a public market. That much was ascertained at a hearing held at city hall, April 9, 1912. The Lowell board of trade had addressed a communication to the municipal council and the hearing was on the communication.
About all of the granges in the vicinity of Lowell were represented, and while grange masters and others differed somewhat in their views as to what should constitute a public market, they were all in favor of it. Nothing tangible, however, was arrived at the matter stood at a standstill until Rep. Dennis A. Murphy took the legislature providing that the matter be submitted to the people of Lowell at the state election this year. The act is contained in chapter 153 of the acts and resolves and reads as follows:

An Act to Authorize the City of Lowell to Acquire and Rent Suitable Structures for a Municipal Market.
Be it enacted, etc., as follows:
Section 1. The city of Lowell is hereby authorized to take land and buildings, or to acquire the same by purchase or otherwise, or to build structures on land owned or acquired by the said city, and to rent any such land or structures for use as a municipal market.
Section 2. The damages occasioned by the taking of lands, easements or rights under the authority of this act shall be determined in the same manner as in the case of the taking of land for highway purposes.
Section 3. This act shall be submitted to the voters of the city of Lowell at the annual state election in the current year, and shall take effect upon the official ballot in the following form: "Shall the city of Lowell acquire or rent suitable structures for a municipal market?"

(Approved March 11, 1914.)
At the hearing held last year, several suggestions were offered by men representing the granges, and others.
It was called to the attention of the municipal council that a great many cities throughout the country had public markets and that the markets were giving good satisfaction.
One of the suggestions offered at the hearing was that the city should prepare a building and rent stalls. The idea seemed quite general that the market ought not to be in the open that the farmers ought not to be obliged to cover and uncover their produce. One man said that the peddlers were getting the cream because they were allowed to go from door to door and he suggested that the peddlers, too, should be obliged to use the public market.
One man offered a very original idea. He suggested that the Suffolk canal be covered and used as a public market between Moody and Merrimack streets, with entrances from Hanover and Suffolk streets. Some of the council members were inclined to look upon this as a very feasible plan, but there was some doubt as to whether the Locks and Canals would sanction it.
The board of trade will renew its interest in the public market scheme next week, when the committee on municipal affairs will take the matter up. The committee will meet on Wednesday. The question, however, is up to the voters to decide and it seems to be quite the general belief that a majority of the voters will favor a public market.

AGT. WADELY RESIGNS FROM LOCAL CARPET CO.

Wide regret is very generally felt today on the resignation of Mr. Harold E. Wadely as agent of the Bigelow carpet corporation which is merged today with the Hartford Carpet corporation.
Few men of Mr. Wadely's age have made the remarkable showing which he has during the last few years. Mr.
Wadely entered the service of the Bigelow Carpet company in November, 1911, where his unusual ability immediately attracted the attention of the late Treasurer Fairbanks, so much so that the following May Mr. Fairbanks appointed him agent of the Lowell branch.
On assuming the position of agent, he went to work with vigor and in his

ENGLISH CHILDREN IN WAR

They Give Street Demonstrations and Pray for Victory—The Boy Scouts on Picket Duty

(Correspondence of The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 29.—English children are playing a prominent part in the present war and manifest greater enthusiasm than many of their elders. Some extreme peace advocates express regret that youth should display such a militant spirit, but many prominent educators and churchmen rejoice in the interest children are displaying in England's fight and are taking steps to have all children in schools, Sunday schools and churches proper instruction concerning the history and progress of the war.

One prominent bishop recently advised that every child in England should be taught to thank God for every meal for the British navy, which has made it possible for Englishmen to have an uninterrupted food supply.

The young son of a prominent English official recently told his governess that if God let the Kaiser get into Paris he would know there was no God and quit saying his prayers. And the little chap's sister, on being twitted because she was a girl and could not go to war, retorted: "When I grow up I shall be a soldier's sweetheart and I will make him fight."

Thousands of children, many of them boys and girls scrawled out of the cradle, march through the slum sections of London armed with wooden swords and carrying the flags of the allies. Frequently the little folks sing the Tipperary marching song so popular with "Tommy Atkins," and keep step with tin-can music.

To English children the war is an immensely personal affair. The Kaiser is supposed by most young English children to be leading the German troops and it is a great mystery to many little Britons why King George is not in the field.

A general movement has been inaugurated for daily instruction in primary as well as secondary schools concerning the progress of the war and London papers are filled with letters from prominent educators, who point out the magnificent opportunity teachers will have for practical lessons in geography and history because of the various parts of the world in which the English troops are engaged.

With the opening of schools next month most of the Boy Scouts will be relieved of picket duty throughout England. Their work in protecting canals, railways, bridges and public buildings has been of great assistance to military forces engaged in preparation for foreign service and the little chaps who have frequently stood on duty in pairs at night, relieving terrified parents from such trying work, will doubtless be the heroes of all public and private schools.

THE RABBIT'S FOOT

BY GWEN SEARS

ROUND SHOULDERS

It is rather depressing to watch the long procession of rounded shoulders everywhere one looks on the city streets.

The general appearance of one afflicted with round shoulders and flat chest is quite familiar to the observer. The head projects forward, the shoulders droop and the chest is narrow and flat. The shoulder blades stick out prominently and the abdomen protrudes. Children with round shoulders are as a rule below the average in muscular development and lack vigor, are clumsy in their movements and walk heavily.

There are three kinds of round shoulders—the ordinary round back, the round hollow back, and the round back due to forward displacement of the shoulders. During the years of growth, posture will usually take care of itself, if constant changes are allowed.

Change is instinctive and automatic in the child and the varied activities are sufficient to lead it along normal lines. If, from inherent weakness or the confinement of school life without the relief of games and play, this normal development be hindered, the result will soon show in the spine.

The causes of round shoulders are those general conditions which produce muscular or constitutional weakness, like rapid growth, overwork, bad air in schools or the home, acute illness, unhygienic surroundings or general lack of exercise. It is probable that a weakness of the will is a more important cause than weakness of the muscles.

Round shoulders are not likely to be outgrown, as the victims usually become permanently and structurally set in the faulty position, with flattened chest walls and distorted figures.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE ALUMNI GAVE DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE IN NASHUA

A group of local amateurs, all members of St. Joseph's college alumni, scored a great hit in Nashua, N. H., last night, when they presented the four-act drama entitled "Le Comptable," and the one-act comedy, "Apartment a Louer." The presentation was given in the parochial school hall of the Infant Jesus parish, for the benefit of the church, and was largely attended.

It was through the efforts of Edmund S. Desmarais of this city, a close friend of the pastor, Rev. G. J. A. Juras, that the entertainment was given, and the young man was well repaid for his troubles, for the financial end of the performance was very gratifying, while the production of both plays could not have been better.

The trip to the New Hampshire city was made by automobiles graciously furnished by the following Lowells: Frank Ricard, John B. Morin, Joseph Albert, Antoine Dragon, Paul Vincent, Charles Bourret, and E. S. Desmarais. Present at the performance from this city were Mesdames W. P. Calise, Jr., E. S. Desmarais, Frank Ricard, C. E. Bourret, E. J. Laroche and Mr. and Mrs. Edouard Tetreault.

"NAP-A-MINIT"

USED BY DR GAGNON IN HIS SUPERIOR PORCELAIN DENTISTRY

Take a good look at these pictures—they tell the story of TWO KINDS OF DENTISTRY. The left hand picture is of a man being treated in the old, harsh method employed to this day by many dentists. Note the rigid position of the patient as he sits upright, gripping the doctor's arm, hindering him in his work, and making his own pain necessarily greater. Every nerve in his body is on edge—every muscle tense—he is indeed the personification of fear and pain. THIS IS DENTISTRY AS I DO NOT DO IT.

Now turn to the picture on your right. Here you see restfulness and relaxation, a patient that feels no pain, yet is in control of every other sense. He can talk and hear and watch the doctor, unhindered, do his very best work. This is an example of DENTISTRY AS I DO PRAC-TISE IT. This is what "Nap-a-Minit" has done for all my PATIENTS. "Nap-a-Minit" is a positive pain destroyer and absolutely eliminates all pain in dentistry. With its use, one may have teeth and roots extracted, nerves removed, cavities prepared and filled, crowns and bridge-work inserted and every conceivable kind of dental operation performed without the slightest fear or dread because IT WILL NOT HURT.

Now that you have seen the two pictures and know the story that they tell, it is up to you to CHOOSE if you have dental work to be done. Will you have pain and harsh treatment or will you have "Nap-a-Minit" and no pain at all in my offices? There is little doubt about your answer and when you come here you will find the greatest service and value-giving dental offices in New England.

SHOOTING OF PHEASANTS

Local Hunters Getting Ready for Big Game—Deer Season Opens in Maine

If you have been out in the country within the last few days you probably have heard the popping of guns; not the fierce fighting guns of the Germans or the allies, but just plain "hunting pieces," and they do tell that the war being waged by the hunters is not a legal one.

The law has declared war on the pheasants, but the war is not supposed to begin until Oct. 12. Some hunters, however, are accused of having opened war on these charming birds more than a week ago. These hunters, it is claimed, did not ask permission to cross neutral territory, but went any old place where a pheasant showed its head.

The shooting of pheasants before Oct. 12 is a dangerous proceeding and quite a heavy penalty attaches if the hunters should fall into the hands of the wardens. There are those who claim that the game wardens or their deputies are not doing their whole duty. One man said today that while at Crystal Lake a few days ago he heard considerable shooting in the woods and he supposed that hunters were after pheasants.

It has been said that foreigners who go into the woods are not familiar with the game laws. This may be true in some cases but the fact remains that a great many foreigners apply at the city clerk's office for hunting licenses and about all of them, it is stated, are quite familiar with the Massachusetts fish and game laws.

The fall hunters are beginning to take out their licenses now and they are all talking pheasants. It seems almost a pity to kill so beautiful a bird as the pheasant but, hunters are hunters, and law is law. Every fellow in Lowell who is in the habit of carrying a gun into the woods is polishing up the barrel for the pheasant season. If the poor birds could be made to understand that the law would not protect them for one month they would probably devise ways and means to get out of the way. They might employ Germans to build entrenchments for them.

The men who are looking forward with the glad expectation of the hunter to the day that the law will relax its hold on the pheasant have picked their hunting grounds in advance. Each and every one of them knows just where to find a flock of pheasants and a good many disappointments are looked for inasmuch as the whereabouts of a certain flock is known to more than one hunter.

No hunter, if he observes the law, will take more than two pheasants in one day or more than six in one season. This open season, as heretofore stated, is from Oct. 12 to Nov. 12, inclusive, in the counties of Barnstable, Norfolk, Middlesex, Essex, Worcester, Hampden and Berkshire. Only shotguns can be used and each killing must be reported in writing to the state fish and game commission within 24 hours, stating day, town, number and sex killed.

Open Deer Season

The open deer season in Maine began today and the weather was all that the heart of the hunter could desire. The law remains off about ten weeks.

There is an abundance of deer in the state, according to reports received at the fish and game commissioner's office, and as many moose as at any time during the last five years.

Moose hunting, by the way, is legal during the 30 days of November only. Partridges are unusually plentiful. The experienced sportsman needs no advice at this time, but it seems necessary, year after year, to warn the amateur to exercise extreme caution while handling firearms in the woods.

Don't blaze away toward moving underbrush!

Never shoot until you see what you are shooting at!

Behind fluttering leaves and awaying branches may be a fellow man. The prevention of all accidents is impossible, of course, but there should be none in autumn of 1914 due to gross carelessness or recklessness. The deer season in Massachusetts opens at sunrise on the third Monday of November and remains open until sunset on the following Saturday.

LAWRENCE MAYORALTY

CITY COUNCIL TRYING TO FIND OUT THE LEGAL MODE OF FILLING VACANCY

In Lawrence they are still discussing how they will fill the vacancy for mayor which is being temporarily filled by Paul Hannigan. This accommodating gentleman is willing to serve the city indefinitely in the capacity of mayor without election.

An opinion from City Solicitor D. J. Murphy does not seem to clear the atmosphere as to the meaning of the city charter in reference to the election of mayor.

The city council asked the opinion of the solicitor on the following questions:

(1) Whether or not the city council has a right to elect a mayor for the balance of the unexpired term of the late mayor's term and whether there should be a special election by the people to elect a mayor?

(2) Would it be illegal for the city council to call a special election December 8th, 1914 for the purpose of choosing a candidate to be elected mayor by the city council?

(3) Is it mandatory requiring the city council to elect a mayor to act until January 1st, 1915?

The answers to these questions depend upon what interpretation may be placed upon those sections of the charter that deal with vacancies, especially Section 60, which is as follows:

Section 60. "If there be a vacancy, by failure to elect or otherwise, in the city council the council shall by its remaining members, call a special city election to fill the vacancy or vacancies for the unexpired term or terms, except that if such vacancy or vacancies occur less than four months prior to the annual city election, the city council shall, by its remaining members, fill the vacancy or vacancies for the unexpired term or terms respectively. A person elected to fill any such vacancy shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, take oath before the city clerk or a justice of the peace faithfully to perform the same."

The late Mayor Scanlon died August 16, 1914. The annual city election is fixed by the charter as the second Tuesday of December, which this year will be December 8th. There is then between these two dates a period of less than four months. The question then arises whether there is within the meaning of the statute such a vacancy occurring less than four months prior to the annual city election as will entitle the members of the city council to fill the vacancy for the unexpired term.

After a tedious discussion of charter provisions the solicitor answers thus:

In answer to the three questions submitted, in my opinion, I would say,

(1)—There should be a special election.

(2)—It would be illegal.

Respectfully yours, Daniel J. Murphy, City Solicitor.

Now the aldermen ask the solicitor the blunt question whether it would be illegal to elect a mayor at the city election December 8 and his reply is awaited with anxiety by some candidates for the position.

CARDINAL FERRATA BETTER

WADLEY RESIGNS

usual characteristic clean-cut business way, he quickly established himself in a strong position, carrying out the business of the company on aggressive business lines calculated to give satisfaction to his superior officers, and at the same time making it possible for the operatives in the mill to earn the fullest amount of wages possible, consistent with efficient manufacturing.

He made such a remarkably good showing that, the following January, Treasurer Fairbanks placed the Clinton Mill also under Mr. Wadley's charge, where again the results have been very gratifying. Mr. Wadley was able by his personal influence to bring the two mills closely together, playing the strongest class of team work to get results.

During the late Treasurer Fairbanks' sickness, still further responsibilities were put upon Mr. Wadley's shoulders, but once more he was ready to show himself able to carry the burden; and after the death of the treasurer, his advice in connection with the general running of the business was sought by the directors of the company.

In considering Mr. Wadley's progress in the United States, it is interesting to note what hard work, application of detail, and research, backed by logical reasoning and unswerving purpose, can do in so short a time.

Mr. Wadley is in the early thirties, and was born in Kildermister, England. He came to Canada in 1903, where he secured a position with the Brinton Carpet company, a branch of an English carpet manufacturing concern. There, as in his experience with the Brinton Carpet company, his ability and forcefulness quickly got him to the front, and within two years of his joining the Brinton people, changes in their organization came about and he was appointed manager, in charge of the manufacturing and selling, and the business developed and grew in his hands.

The Canadian Dry Goods Review of March, 1911, in an article on the carpet trade, speaking of Mr. Wadley, says, in part: "He threw out all the old designs and reorganized the business; he gave lectures on the 'House Beautiful'; he visited the customers to find out their wants, and supplied them; he surrounded himself with brainy men and women whom he entrusted with his own optimism; he scoured Europe for new ideas, and created new designs; he impressed his working people with his sense of equity and justice, and they trusted him—with a result that he turned a losing industry into a paying one, and increased his hands a hundred per cent. This is competency."

Asked as to what his plans are for the future, Mr. Wadley stated that he did not wish to discuss future plans at the present time; that he was planning to take a short vacation first. Mr. Wadley is probably one of the best posted men in the states today on carpet fabrics, both domestic and foreign.

It is understood W. Lyford of Thompsonville, son-in-law of A. D. Higgins, vice-president of the company, has been appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Wadley.

YOM KIPPUR FESTIVAL

Or Day of Atonement Solemnly Observed by the Jews, Closed at Sundown Last Night

The feast of Yom Kippur, or Day of Atonement, ended last evening at sunset with the blowing of the "shofar" in the three synagogues in this city. Nobody observing the customs of the Jewish faith either ate or drank anything during the 24 or 26 hours which the observance lasted. The day is one of solemn contemplation on the past, present and future, with prayers for guidance and help.

Files Papers for Alderman and Will Make Hot Fight

Newell F. Putnam, former superintendent of streets, has taken out his nomination papers for alderman. Mr. Putnam is the first and only one to file nomination papers up to date and his friends declare that he will make as lively a campaign as Lowell has witnessed for many a long day. Mr. Putnam has never qualified as a public speaker, either in hall or at street corner, but he allows there are ways of campaigning other than orating from soap boxes or lunch carts.

Other candidates whose names are mentioned in the nomination fight, but who have not yet taken out nomination papers, include Andrew E. Barrett, W. W. Duncan, James F. Miskella, Abel R. Campbell, John Daley, Jeremiah Connors, Harry Clapp, Herbert L. Chapman, James Gallagher and Charles J. McKenzie.

B. & M. R. R. OBJECTS

WILL NOT ACCEPT THE NEW HAMPSHIRE FREIGHT RATES—WANT A REHEARING

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 1.—The Boston & Maine railroad has notified the New Hampshire public service commission that it will not accept the schedule of freight rates which was framed by the commission and which has been filed with the railroad.

By the terms of the act of the legislature of 1913, the public service commission was to try its operation until Oct. 1 and then either accept it or return to the rates in force prior to the consolidations of 1883 and 1889.

The determination of the railroad to return to the old rates is based on the decision of the supreme court in the case of the New Jersey theatre at Chough, and Martin against the railroad, whereby the railroad is allowed to fix such rates upon any commodity as in the aggregate shall not be higher than the aggregate of the rates charged upon the commodity prior to the consolidation.

The Boston & Maine has also asked the public service commission for a rehearing in the matter of the commission's refusal to allow an increase in mileage long passenger rates.

If the commission does not change its decision in this matter the railroad will take an appeal to the supreme court, where the case will be heard in connection with the pending appeal of the Maine Central railroad from the decision of the commission, requiring it to issue 599-mile books at $10. The same case was argued at the Boston & Maine now seeks to raise.

ENDORSED BY WILSON

PRESIDENT FAVORS SENATORS SHIVELY AND CHAMBERLIN FOR REELECTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—President Wilson today signed his letter writing campaign for the election of senators and representatives. He wrote letters endorsing Senator Shively of Indiana and Senator Chamberlin of Oregon.

Others will be written in the near future.

In his letter to Senator Owen endorsing Senator Chamberlin, the president declared that the maintenance of the democratic majority in the senate is of the utmost importance to the country if the present policies and program of the government are to be sustained and continued and I take it for granted that voters everywhere will feel the force of this statement.

The letter endorsing Senator Shively was addressed to Majority Leader Kern of the senate and was as follows:

"I am genuinely surprised that any question should have arisen as to whether I want Senator Shively re-elected. I do most decidedly wish it. I have admired Senator Shively's steadfast devotion to duty and to the standards of the party and his unflinching loyalty in all matters of public policy, as all his party associates have and I learned to have a very warm personal feeling and admiration for him."

Secretary Bryan today announced he would speak in Ohio, Indiana and Nebraska. He said he had not considered speaking in Illinois but added that he probably would speak in accordance with the wishes of the democratic congressional committee.

A request from Senator Pomeroy that he speak in Ohio, President Wilson today reiterated his determination not to go on the stump. He told the senator he felt he must remain actively at the head of the government in Washington.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Michael Haggerty and Miss Catherine O'Brien, both popular young residents of this city, were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the rectory of St. Michael's church, by Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor. The bride party, assembled at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. Timothy McNamara, of 448 Gorham street, shortly before 5 o'clock and journeyed to the church. After the ceremony a reception was held at 16 Chace street, the future home of the young couple. A wedding supper was served at the large number of relatives and friends present. Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty received many beautiful and useful gifts. They departed early in the evening for New York city and will be at home at 16 Chace street after an extended wedding tour.

THE NEW JEWELL THEATRE

It is because of the never lacking high quality of the entertainment furnished at the New Jewell theatre at the corner of Merrimack and Tremont streets that the number of the patrons of that up-to-date amusement house has increased with each succeeding week. Friday and Saturday, the big favorite, "Million Dollar Mystery" is the main feature. The program includes "Silent Valley," "Aztec Treasure," and a Sterling comedy. A special new program will delight Sunday patrons. On Monday and Tuesday of next week, King Baggot will be shown in "The Man Who Was Understood," while Mary Pickford, another favorite, will appear in "The Burglar, M. D." The third feature for these days is "The Three Against Brokers," one of the greatest series of photoplays ever made, will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday, together with a Sterling masterpiece comedy in two parts, "The Shooting Match."

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

Just contrary to the system of Geo. Stallings is the method used by Connie Mack.

In the game with the senators yesterday the Athletics were represented by substitutes for the most part while the regulars took a layoff. The series will possibly tell which man has the better judgment.

The Federal league race is once more tightening up. Indianapolis is only one and a half games behind the Chicago Tintons. Joe Tinker's club could do nothing with Cy Falkenberg yesterday who shut out the leaders by a 3-0 score. These two clubs are playing to tremendous crowds.

The Red Sox are certain to finish second in the American league race, the Senators being as far behind Currier's team as are the Athletics in front. With a better start at the season's opening the Red Sox would be in the running for the flag if not well in the lead.

Helm Wagner, for years the idol of Boston fans as captain and shortstop of the Red Sox, will have charge of Providence next season. It has been announced, "Wild" Bill Donovan, formerly one of the best players in the American league and manager of Providence last season, will succeed Frank Chance in the Yankee camp.

The national commission decided yesterday to play the first world series game on Friday instead of Thursday as was at first intimated. That will give Boston a game on Monday and Tuesday. Monday being Columbus day there will probably be one of the largest crowds at Fenway park that ever witnessed a ball game.

Joe Cronin did a very creditable job in his handling of the last two amateur ball games at Spaulding park. Few people realize the difficulties which arise for a decision maker in an amateur game. The umpires cannot fine a man nor inflict any hardship upon him when he grows abusive. It's a tough job, Joe, and you have our sympathy.

BOSTON BASEBALL WRITERS NAME R. E. McMillan TO ACT AS OFFICIAL SCORER

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—The baseball writers of this city have chosen Ralph E. McMillan of the Journal to act as one of the three official scorers for the world series games between the Braves and the Athletics.

He will serve with J. G. Spink of St. Louis, who was appointed yesterday by the national commission and a reporter to be chosen by the baseball writers of Philadelphia.

REPUBLICANS OPPOSED

DO NOT WANT RECESS OF CONGRESS FROM OCT. 10 TO NOV. 16—NOTHING DECIDED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Republican senators oppose the democratic plan for recess of congress from Oct. 10 to Nov. 16, and are insisting on an adjournment. Some democratic members favor their plan. Nothing was decided today.

WILSON PROMISES HELP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Bishop Curran of Matanzas, Cuba, made representation today to President Wilson and Secretary Bryan asking seizure of Catholic church property in Mexico by constitutionalists and against alleged killing and robbing of priests and nuns. The president told him that every possible effort would be made to relieve the situation.

upon him when he grows abusive. It's a tough job, Joe, and you have our sympathy.

Connolly did some sticking yesterday. Out of four times at bat in the first game the Braves' left fielder hit safely three times for a total of four. In the second game he did even better. He was up five times and made the ball for two singles and two triples. The Boston fans are looking toward Connolly for some slugging during the series.

The Saco-Lowell bowling league are getting in readiness for their season's activities and all of the teams in the organization are eager for the start. Klitredge's allies on the 3d floor, have been engaged by this league for each Monday night up to the end of the league's schedule. There were some very good rollers in this circuit last season and Secretary Collins predicts even a faster season this year.

The fast stopping of the grand circuit's paces keeps up to the promise of the season's start. A world record fell by the wayside yesterday when Dillredge, Jr. was made at Detroit about William and crossed the judges' line of vision in 1.58 in the first heat. The second heat was nearly as fast. It was the first time that William had ever tasted defeat. The record previous to yesterday was held by Frank Bogash, Jr. and made at Detroit about two weeks ago. If the "racker" keeps at it the mile mark may go still lower.

Manager Stallings wouldn't be a night at the European battlefront, judging from his work yesterday. He showed down right cruelty by humbling the Giants in their own back yard, driving Tesreau off the rubber in the first game. In the second contest of the duo affair the best the Braves could get was a drawer, which under the circumstances was plenty. It wouldn't be at all surprising to see the club club with all of their games from now on.

CASE OF ARSON

Lover's Dispute Over
Girl Aired

The case of Bipoletti Rusiewicz, who was arrested last week on the charge of arson, came up today on continuance but was once more continued. Two additional complaints were made today against Rusiewicz.

The Concordia Insurance company of Milwaukee and the New Jersey Insurance company of Newark, in which Rusiewicz was insured through W. J. Dodge, their local representative, charged that the defendant did attempt to defraud them. All of the complaints were put over until Oct. 11. The ball for the defendant was lowered from $5000 to $4000.

Milk Inspector's Cases

Two more examples of the milk inspector's activity appeared when George Leblanc and Herman F. Pasut were arraigned for selling milk below the standard. Both men were fined $10.

Fine of $50

Catherine O'Connor, upon whose premises the police made a liquor seizure recently, was charged with the illegal sale of liquor and was fined the first offender's penalty, a fine of $50.

Jilted Lover's Revenge

"She loves me, she loves me not," quoth John J. Barreira to himself one day last June and then proceeded to pound his successful rival over the cranium with a club. The club proved harder than the cranium and Dr. Johnson was in court to testify as to the result of the fall which was received by John Kunes, the winner of the hand of the fair maiden in dispute. As soon as he had completed his stroke of revenge upon the head of

John, the assailant swiftly shook the dust of Lowell from his garments and fled him with great rapidity to Buffalo. It was safer, thought John J., to leave this part of the country for a while at least.

Now John J.'s diagnosis of the situation was absolutely correct but he slipped up on one particular. He should have taken up a permanent residence elsewhere. But still John J. was in love with the girl who loved John and he returned.

John J. was arrested yesterday upon his return here and was arraigned today on a charge of assault and battery upon John. Worst of all from the prisoner's viewpoint there was the maiden right on side of John and all ready to testify in behalf of the government and John J. pleaded not guilty. But he didn't.

The trial proceeded in a halting manner due to the use of an interpreter. The interpreter himself acted as though he needed help on several occasions. However, it was eventually straightened out, and Judge Enright ordered John J. to come across with $25 and find a bond of $200 by which taken he is to keep the peace and be of good behavior.

Morse Savigne was in the employ of Michael F. Murphy and grew very fond of the carpenter tools he was handling. In fact he grew so exceedingly affectionate with them that they seemed just like his own. A warrant for larceny brought him out of his trance.

The defendant has spent rather a varied career, according to the police records and Judge Enright could not find any exonerating features about the case. He was sentenced to serve two months in the house of correction.

Another larceny case tried today was that of Albert Theriault, who was charged with a larceny of a sweater. The defendant is not yet out of his teens.

The boy's father interceded for him and saved him from summary justice at the hands of the court. The young fellow did not seem to be particularly impressed with his predicament and even grinned as he made his way toward the probation office. Judge Enright fined him $12 and told him that if he did not go to work and pay the fine that he would send him to the house of correction.

FELL FOUR STORIES

CHILD AT HOSPITAL MAY DIE OF HIS INJURIES—SKULL FRACTURED

James Spanos, 15 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Spanos of 25 Decatur street, was probably fatally injured this noon when he fell from the fourth story of the building. The little fellow is suffering from a fractured skull and the physicians at the Lowell hospital, to which the boy was removed, entertain very little hope for his recovery.

As far as could be learned, shortly after 12 o'clock today the boy was playing on the piazza while the mother was engaged in her household duties. He went too near the opening of the stairs and rolled down a few steps. His shouts attracted the attention of the mother, who rushed to the piazza just in time to see her son roll from the stairs into the open. The little fellow landed on the concrete yard headfirst.

The child was carried into the office of Undertaker Amodeo Archambault, next door, and Dr. L. V. Rochette was summoned in haste. The physician tendered the child first aid and under his advice the boy was removed to the Lowell hospital.

RAILWAY CONFERENCE

NO RESULT REPORTED—BARNMEN TO BE CLASSED UNDER NEW AGREEMENT

The conference between the committee representing the employees of the Bay State Street Railway and the company officials was resumed in Boston this afternoon as no agreement was reached at yesterday's session. The new agreement was to go into effect today in this city and 15 other cities, throughout the system but it seems that the agreement prepared by the employees' committee was not acceptable to the Bay State company, which asked that there be many modifications made.

The decision of the Bay State men is awaited with no little interest by local street railway employees. When the present agreement was adopted, there were no provisions made for the barnmen, but in the agreement now under consideration, several articles appear concerning the classification of the barn men, including the number of hours that they shall be employed and the wages they shall receive. President Fred Crowley of the local union is attending the conference again today.

GRASP THE OPPORTUNITY

W. P. G. Harding Confident the Americans Will Take Advantage of Flow of Business

LENEX, Oct. 1.—"I firmly believe that American pluck and American energy are going to reassert themselves, and that American farmers, merchants, bankers and manufacturers will co-operate with their government and with each other in solving present problems, and that they will put themselves in a position to grasp the opportunities that the future is bound to offer."

With this expression of confidence W. P. G. Harding, a member of the federal reserve board, concluded an address before the semi-annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers last night.

After referring to the disarrangement to the cotton industry caused by the European war Mr. Harding said: "Sooner or later, however, even should the war continue, the level of the obstruction will be reached and the few of business, except in some of the countries actually engaged in war, will again become normal. Restoration of peace would act as a removal of obstructions and would release a large volume of business now being held back, so that we are justified, if we look ahead, in taking a more cheerful view of conditions which appear at this time to be depressing.

Mr. Harding spoke of the great cotton production in the south this year and of the agitation for curtailment in average next year, and added: "No well informed men on southern conditions will deny that further diversification in southern farming is desirable. But it would be most unfortunate if, by any chance, the production of cotton next year should be so small as to make the trade dependent upon the present crop for the greater portion of two years' supply. I shall not undertake to hazard any guesses as to the probable consumption of cotton within the next few months, but I will be bold enough to predict that as the season progresses there will be a steadily increasing demand for raw cotton by the mills, with a marked increase in the demand for export. Practically all the obstacles in the way of exports to all foreign countries, except Germany and Austria-Hungary, have been removed.

"I am violating no confidence when I state that rapid progress is now being made in the organization of the federal reserve banks, and it is my personal opinion that the system will become effective during the ensuing month. The secretary of the treasury has acted with wonderful celerity throughout the crisis, and he asks only the intelligent and unselfish co-operation of the business community, which he confidently expects to aid him in the speedy restoration of normal financial and commercial conditions throughout this country. The tremendous waste incident to war will, of course, be felt all over the world, and losses will inevitably ensue, but there is no reason why those losses should not be so uniformly distributed that they will not fall with crushing force upon any section or upon any industry."

SPEND NIGHT AT BANGOR THE THEFT OF $16,697

DR. DUDLEY AND THREE WOMEN DEFENDANTS WILLING TO TALK ABOUT THE SULLIVAN CASE

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 1.—Dr. L. E. Dudley, Rita and Alice Pelletier and Kate Michaud, all of Presque Isle, arrested in the case of the missing Mildred Sullivan of Bangor, reached here yesterday afternoon in the charge of Everett police. Edgar T. Palmer of the Everett police on a charge of robbing the wife of his employer in this city of $16,697 on Aug. 30. The police found on his person a big roll of bills amounting to $11,900 and 72 cents in change.

The woman whom he robbed was Mrs. William Pray of Locust Park, West Everett. When put through examination by Chief of Police William J. Hill at police headquarters here last night, Cega, it is alleged, confessed to the crime and made a full statement of the affair.

Cega had been employed by Mr. Pray as chauffeur for two months prior to the robbery. On Aug. 29 Mrs. Pray withdrew from a Boston bank $16,000 and took the money to her home. Cega assisted her in counting the money and saw her put it away in the chest of her bedroom in a small tin box.

The next day Cega disappeared and the money was missing. No report of the robbery was made to the police and the local officials had no knowledge of it until yesterday. Private detectives were employed by Mr. Pray, who is a mason contractor, with offices on Devonshire street, Boston, and traced Cega to New York on Sept. 2. He had been tracked since that time and he returned to Boston about two weeks ago.

Yesterday the detective agency believed matters ripe for action and took the matter up with Chief of Police William J. Hill. A warrant was sworn out in the Malden court and the arrest followed.

THE MILK TRAFFIC

LAWRENCE CITY PHYSICIAN ADVOCATES PERMITS FOR MILK DEALERS

LAWRENCE, Oct. 1.—City Physician George W. Dow advocated at the regular session of the board of health yesterday that all milk producers sending milk into Lawrence should be required to have a permit issued by the local board of health.

Dr. Dow declared that at present not more than one-third of the milk producers were known to the board of health and that such a regulation would tend to facilitate the board's work in handling the milk traffic.

TEXTILE ALUMNI SMOKER PEACE PLANS REJECTED

ENJOYABLE SOCIAL GATHERING IN THE ASSEMBLY HALL—SEVERAL SPEAKERS HEARD

A delightful smoker was held last evening by the Textile Alumni association in the assembly hall of the school with an exceptionally large gathering of alumni as well as undergraduates present.

The event is always an epoch in the school life of the Textile students and has been an annual affair for the past few years. The objective of the smoker was the introduction of the entering class to the members of the other two classes as well as to the alumni.

A. J. Hennigan, the president of the Textile Alumni association, gave a very comprehensive talk of the freshmen on their school life at the Textile and dwelt humorously upon some of the incidents which he experienced while attending the Moody street institution. Mr. Hennigan is the New England representative for the Talbot Manufacturing Co. and also gave a very comprehensive talk on the phases of the textile industry which greet a graduate of the Textile school.

A. G. Cumcock, president of the board of trustees at the Textile school, spoke to the new men of the life upon which they were entering and then proceeded to give a very interesting account of his European experiences after the outbreak of the present war.

Principal Barnes welcomed the incoming class for the faculty and explained the intent of the school and its instructors with reference to the students. Short talks were then given by Arthur Varnum and Cecil P. Dodge, sporting editor of The Sun and coach of this year's Textile school football team. The remainder of the evening was devoted to a general good time with formalities cast aside.

FOUR LOWELL BOYS GOT INTO TROUBLE IN AYER AND WERE GIVEN SENTENCES TO INSTITUTIONS

William Barry and Leo Willett, of Lowell, were sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory and Charles Sculley and Harry Kennison, also of this city, were sent to the Shirley industrial school in the Ayer police court for setting fires contrary to the state law.

Willett and Kennison also pleaded guilty to an attempt to break and enter the Boston & Maine railroad station at Groton in a night train. The boys admitted setting the fires but said that they had no intention of doing damage as they started the fire to keep themselves warm. They said they slept in the woods throughout the night. Each appealed from the sentence imposed and held in $200 surety for the superior court.

TOLD TO AID MISSIONS CATHOLICS ALSO URGED TO SUPPORT SCHOOLS AND PRESS—SEND PROTEST TO PRESIDENT

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 1.—The convention of Federated Catholic societies held here yesterday adopted resolutions urging all Catholics to support more faithfully all home and foreign missions and to avoid any connection whatever with secret societies forbidden by the church. The resolutions also ask that Catholics support better the Catholic press.

A report of the educational committee showed that during the last few years Catholic schools throughout the country have advanced rapidly. After hearing the report the delegates passed resolutions asking parents to see that their children receive Catholic education.

A society to be known as the Congress of Catholic Fraternal Insurance Societies was organized under the auspices of the Social Service Commission of the Federation.

The object of this organization is to study questions pertaining to insurance legislation and to unite more fully all Catholic beneficial associations.

Following a conference yesterday with Cardinal Gibbons, bishops in attendance at the convention adopted a report protesting against the recognition by the United States of any government in Mexico that does not guarantee religious liberty.

This report was later adopted by the convention, and it was decided to send a delegation to Washington to lay the whole matter of alleged atrocities upon Catholics in Mexico before President Wilson.

A great parade of Catholic men, numbering into the thousands, was held today. Cardinal Gibbons and other church dignitaries reviewed the procession at the cathedral.

COLORADO MINE HEAD REFUSES PROPOSAL ENDORSED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 1.—J. F. Welborn, president of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, issued a statement yesterday reiterating that the operators of the Colorado coal fields could not accept the peace proposal drawn by Lywell Davies and W. R. Fairley and endorsed by President Wilson.

Mr. Welborn recently discussed with President Wilson the proposal to declare a truce in the Colorado coal strike and is expected to report the result of his conference to the operators at a meeting which probably will be held this week.

Further replies to the president's letter urging acceptance of the Davies-Fairley plan may be sent, it was said, but so far there has been no indication that the mine owners could accept the peace proposal without radical amendments.

Money goes on interest Saturday, October 3, at The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank.

CARRANZA TO RESIGN WITHOUT AWAITING OUTCOME OF PEACE CONFERENCE REPORT—CALDERON MAY BE SUCCESSOR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Despatches reaching the constitutionalist agency here from Mexico City last night indicate that General Carranza would tender his resignation as first chief of the constitutionalists to the convention of leaders in Mexico City today, without awaiting the outcome of the peace conference about to begin at Zacoatecas.

It is understood here, however, that the convention will delay action on the resignation and take no steps whatever toward settling up the new provisional government until some word has come from the conferees.

In official and diplomatic circles it is believed that the Zacoatecas conference will end the revolt of General Villain by approving the choice of Fernando Iglesias Calderon as provisional president, and that this action will be followed by Calderon's election by the Mexico City convention.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and had headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times."

An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

MARIE TELLS HOW TO SPICE FRUITS

"Whatever are you doing, Marie?" chirped Marjorie as she bounced into the kitchen. "My, but it smells bully."

"Just spicing some peaches," answered Marie.

"Oh how do you do it? I must learn how and do some myself right away. Father would love them, I'm sure," and Marjorie sank down in a chair all out of breath.

"I will gladly tell you how to do peaches and some other spiced fruits, too, if you like," said Marie.

"For the peaches pure yellow ones are best, but do not remove the stones. Make a syrup. For seven pounds of peaches, four pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar and spice with cloves, cinnamon, allspice, mace and ginger root; using all these spices, or but two if you prefer."

"Divide spices and tie up in cheesecloth, and boil in the vinegar and sugar syrup. When syrup boils and the peaches are hot, then take from the fire and let stand over night in a cool place. Next day drain off all syrup and slowly re-heat and again pour over the peaches and allow to remain until next day, then repeat the process for nine consecutive days if you wish to have them just right."

"The last time boil down the syrup until you have just enough to cover the fruit. It should be thick and rich. If the syrup boils away too much add more of the sugar and vinegar syrup made in same proportion as given, but do not add more spice unless your taste requires."

"Spiced grapes are nice, too," continued Marie. "Take six pounds of grapes, six pounds of sugar, two quarts strong vinegar, three lemons, chopped, two teaspoonfuls each of cinnamon, mace and cloves. Stem the grapes and pulp them."

"Place skins in a granite kettle, press the pulp through a wire sieve to remove the seeds, and add the skins with the sugar, vinegar, lemon and spices, tied in thin muslin. Cook gently for an hour and then seal up in glasses or jars."

"Spiced apples are also fine. Put three quarts of sweet apples, pared, cored and quartered, into a jar with sugar sprinkled between, make a syrup with a quart of strong cider vinegar and quart of sugar, spicing it with two tablespoonfuls each of cloves, allspice, cinnamon and little crushed nutmeg or green ginger, bruised."

"When this syrup boils, pour it over the apples and let them stand until morning. Pour off the syrup and re-heat and again pour over the apples. Repeat this until the apples are clear and rich color."

MISS "IDEAL" CHAMPION LADYDIVER AND SWIMMER OF THE WORLD APPEARING AT KEITH'S THIS WEEK

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. P. KEITH'S THEATRE

"Miss Ideal," the noted swimmer and diver, and who possesses the nearly ideal figure, will give her address on health and beauty to all women who attend the performance at the B. P. Keith theatre this afternoon. This is an event not to be overlooked, for "Miss Ideal" knows whereof she speaks, and she is the living example of the rules she has promulgated for the conduct of life. Because she has followed a set regime so carefully for a number of years and is in possession of strength and health surpassed by almost none of her sex. Her act gives more than an inkling of the severe strain she is subjected to, for truthfully, no performer appearing in public works at such high speed or in such a variety of ways as does she. Her diving is a thing of beauty, all of the time, and her swimming strokes are given in flawless manner. Another act on the bill which will excite favorable comment is "The Willing Worker," played by Lewis and Clark. And another winning point is "The Mysterious Will," a complicated comedy which it followed carefully, will cause proxyms of laughter. Hiram Vernon, a dainty singer, has a remarkable voice. His register is uncommonly high. Buchanan & Holmes in a shining skit are always good, and Leonard, a clever comedian, is a hit. The Dogs complete the bill. Good seats for all performances may be obtained in advance. Phone 28.

THE OPERA HOUSE

There is a complete change in the program opening today and continuing for the balance of the week. "Tom and Jerry" is the title of the new bill and there is nothing but laughs from start to finish. James P. Lee plays the part of an Irish gentleman in this piece, and in this particular character he has a number of laughs. The new bill, being compared with Walter C. Kelly who at the present time is starring in the Winter Garden New York City. The theatre-goers of this city and Marie Barber also appear in the cast in clever parts and with up to date songs and dances. Raymond Fox will be known as "Wilson," a blackface character that has created a riot wherever presented. Mr. Teal is no stranger to the theatre-goers of this city, having appeared here with the "Primrose and Dockett" the old "Haverly," "H. Henry" and Wm. M. West. Here and in here, the eight baby dolls have several surprises which are bound to meet with popular approval. Tomorrow night is the big tango dancing contest for the champion of the Merrimack valley between Mr. Harry McWilliams and Miss Amelia Warner, and Mr. Duncan Hark, and Lady. This is positively the last appearance of Mr. McWilliams in this city for six months as he leaves here Saturday for a tour of all of the principal cities of the middle west, giving exhibitions in the latest craze of crazes, the tango. Seats may be reserved by calling on the Corcoran street box office in person, or telephone, 361.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Sam A. McBarry in the role of the husband in "A Fool There Was," which is the attraction this week at the Merrimack Square theatre, is doing by far his best work since coming to Lowell. He gives to the role a depth of feeling, while the final act, in which he is called upon to display his ability to the fullest degree, he has really surprised his most ardent followers. As the husband's friend, Wm. B. Freeman is also seen to advantage. It is upon these two that the real brunt of the story falls and they tell it in a most convincing way. Other members who appear are Eva Marsh, Eugene Peterson, Robert Lee, Thomas Carroll, Valente Jenkins, and Miss Sadie Galloway who plays "the vampire." The staging of the play is also good. Seats now on "Grand," "A Mother's Choice," in two parts, "Her Duty," "The New Janitor," a Keystone with Charles Caplin and others. You should not miss this show, it's fine.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Another corking good program of toppy feature pictures is the attraction at the Academy of Music today.

Tomorrow night is Amateur Night. B-e-nough said! Saturday afternoon will be the first of a series of special Kandy Koncerts for the kiddies. Every boy and girl attending the Saturday matinee will be presented with some delicious confectionery. A special program will be presented for the children and the price of admission for the kiddies on this occasion will be five cents to any part of the house.

GALE HALTS COMMUNICATION

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A Central News dispatch from Copenhagen says that all cable connections between Sweden and Germany have been interrupted as a consequence, it is stated, of the great gale prevailing.

SENATE WILLING AND STRONG MAJORITY IN HOUSE ALIGNED WITH MOVEMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Continued conferences among the democrats in both houses yesterday gave strong indication of the success of the plan to adjourn of congress by the middle of October. Nearly all majority members of the house, except a few headed by Representative Henry of Texas, are aligned with the movement undertaken by Democratic Leader Underwood, to put off the administration ship purchase bill until after the November elections.

The proposal is that the house shall begin recessing three days at a time next week so that most of its members may go to their home districts immediately and that congress shall adjourn about October 15. The ship-ping bill would be taken up as soon as congress reconvenes, either at the regular session in December or at a special session called for the purpose in November.

Republican members of both houses also are in accord with this plan and there is a general determination to maintain quorums so as to carry it through. Representative Underwood said last night he probably would be able in a few days to enter into a pact with Republican Leader Mann, with the necessary unanimous consent for the adjournment of congress. This would be the "gentleman's agreement" to take up only routine business after the recesses begin.

Senators of both parties are anxious to co-operate in any movement that will bring relief from legislative cares for a few weeks.

Senator Kern, the majority leader, said the senate would be ready to take a recess or to adjourn within two weeks if a quorum was kept to expedite business.

WAR CHECKS IMMIGRATION

New York Has 22,000 Arrivals in September Compared to 105,504 in Same Month of 1913

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The European war has cut down immigration into the United States to the lowest point in many years, only 22,000 aliens entering the port of New York in September compared with 105,504 this month a year ago on figures obtained yesterday at Ellis Island.

More American refugees arrived during the month than immigrants—about 35,000. Immigration had been falling off, however, before the war began. There was a noticeable decrease in June and July for which the immigration officers said they were unable to account.

Ellis Island, with normal accommodations for 1800 to 2000 persons, is now a temporary home for 300 aliens, about one-third of whom have been ordered deported to Germany, Russia and Austria. Others are under investigation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The European war has cut down immigration into the United States to the lowest point in many years, only 22,000 aliens entering the port of New York in September compared with 105,504 this month a year ago on figures obtained yesterday at Ellis Island.

More American refugees arrived during the month than immigrants—about 35,000. Immigration had been falling off, however, before the war began. There was a noticeable decrease in June and July for which the immigration officers said they were unable to account.

Ellis Island, with normal accommodations for 1800 to 2000 persons, is now a temporary home for 300 aliens, about one-third of whom have been ordered deported to Germany, Russia and Austria. Others are under investigation.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

If cross, feverish or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given. "California Syrup of Figs" is out-of-order, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look! Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that it's little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mother can rest easy after giving this harmless "Fruit Laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little stomach, liver and bowels, and sweeten the stomach and thereby lifts its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed

TAX RATE COMPARISONS

It is a gratifying fact that papers throughout the state in commenting on the political conditions of various communities are devoting themselves more and more to economic considerations. A general effort seems to be on foot to ascertain if the people in the cities of Massachusetts are getting returns in adequate measure for what they are compelled to pay towards the expenses of city government. With the recent publication of our indented tax bills, the subject is of far more than usual importance to citizens of Lowell, and all who take any interest in the financial affairs of their city will find food for thought in a comparison of conditions locally with those of other communities.

The Springfield Republican in a recent editorial answer to the boast of the mayor of that city—who had declared that Springfield has a lower tax rate than any other city in the commonwealth with this exception of Beverly—called the attention of the executive to the fact that the per capita tax is of more importance in determining a city's status than the mere tax rate. It quoted a table of tax comparisons which we subjoin in an abbreviated form, retaining those cities which may be fairly compared to Lowell because of population, industrial character or other point of resemblance:

	Tax rate	Per capita Tax payment
Brockton	22.70	21.03
Cambridge	21.40	26.10
Chicopee	18.70	13.55
Everett	21.30	22.13
Fall River	23.20	19.88
Pittsburg	21.00	20.64
Gloucester	22.00	23.37
Haverhill	18.60	17.83
Holyoke	18.80	20.66
Lawrence	18.00	14.72
Lowell	21.90	24.57
Lynn	20.00	20.22
New Bedford	23.20	25.92
Newburyport	20.60	17.10
North Adams	19.10	14.34
Northampton	17.80	16.49
Pittsfield	19.80	24.77
Quincy	22.20	27.85
Salem	20.00	18.06
Somerville	21.10	20.22
Springfield	16.50	23.32
Waltham	18.60	20.24
Worcester	19.60	23.13

A study of this table is far from reassuring to a Lowell citizen. Out of the 23 cities given, 17 have a lower tax rate than Lowell, and 15 have a lower per capita tax. The average per capita is $21.24, beside which the $24.57 of Lowell does not make a good showing. Thus, aside from the fact that our tax rate took its sudden rise during an "economic" regime, we cannot get away from the fact that as compared with like cities of Massachusetts we make a most discreditable showing.

The only thing that could possibly excuse the abnormal tax rate and per capita tax of Lowell would be some unusual civic expenditure which, though costly, would appeal to our population as a good municipal investment. Tax rates, of themselves, mean nothing, for as The Sun has long contended, if a city gets an adequate return for a high tax rate, it is better off than the city that gets a slight return for a low tax rate. As the Newburyport Herald remarked in a recent editorial: "It is better to pay a $25 tax rate and get $25 worth of improvements and civic activities than to pay a $15 tax rate and only get $10 value in return."

Applying this truth to local conditions we may well ask: Is Lowell giving its citizens an adequate return for the $21.90 tax rate or for the $24.57 per capita tax payment? If so, where is it to be seen? Since a municipal body pledged to retrenchment went into office, all civic initiative has been most virtuously frowned upon, and the best that can be said of our administration is that it has gone on doing the routine business of conducting a city—and doing it with a greater expenditure than former regimes that gave us something worth while in return. Apologists for the administration—if there are any—may harp insincerely on law and order and emotional appeals, but they cannot get away from the tax rate or the fact that we have nothing to show for it.

HARVEY ON WILSON

In a logical, unimpassioned and complete analysis of the Wilson administration in general and of its ruling personality in particular, Col. George Harvey, editor of the North American Review, gave a page article to the Boston Herald last Sunday, which, without glossing over any fault or weakness of the administration, summed up the record of achievement as a personal triumph for the chief executive. "Has President Wilson kept the faith," asks Col. Harvey, and after going into detail concerning the tariff, the currency bill, the income tax, the Mexican situation and the other great influences of the Wilson period, to date, he answers himself, as follows: "Mr. Wilson, as president has justified the great expectations and realized the high hopes of those whose faith was strong in his intellectual and moral attributes. In all large essentials he has, indeed, kept faith with his conscience and the people."

Of the Mexican situation which, in some of its aspects is still unsettled, Col. Harvey says: "The present outcome of President Wilson's conduct of our relations with Mexico calls for special felicitations." He then takes each move of the administration, step by step, blending a small amount of censure with a great deal of commendation, and winds up with the following notable tribute: "The relative parts played by prescience and good fortune in realizing so promising an outcome need not be considered. Rather let full and ungrudging tribute be rendered to the president under whose guidance, in the most stressful and trying of circumstances, it was attained." Of the Mexican situation, as of all other phases of the administration achievements, Mr. Harvey declares that the pre-eminent excellencies hide the small defects.

It was to be expected that he who gained such splendid results from past efforts should, in the eyes of Col. Harvey, promise still more for the future—a future which calls for a president in whom the entire country can place full confidence, born of experience. At no time since President Wilson took up the duties of chief executive does he loom greater than at this critical time when world conflicts call for coolness, tact and deliberative ability. Col. Harvey winds up his review by calling on all Americans to uphold the president at this time when America needs his service. There is something that eliminates party differences or petty sectionalism of any kind in the closing sentences: "That he (President Wilson) will prove his mastery of the situation need not be doubted, but he needs the help of all. His hands should be strengthened by a vote of confidence, not weakened by seeming division. Now more than ever before, or perhaps ever again, it behooves our country to stand behind its leader united before the world." Such a tribute coming from a man with whom President Wilson had on open rupture when a candidate for election, is doubly appreciable because coming from a wholly disinterested source.

MEXICO'S FUTURE

The one and only comforting feature of the Mexican situation in so far as it affects this country is the firmness and optimism of the government at Washington—a firmness and optimism which have broken down all barriers

of opposition and have induced Americans of all shades of political opinion to confidently leave the solution of the troublesome problems to those directly concerned. Those who lose sight of the skilful handling of Mexican affairs thus far and look at the present status of the distracted country may well feel that hope of anything like constitutional government is vain until revolution and sedition have spent themselves and have lain down from sheer exhaustion.

From dwelling on the many phases of the Mexican situation for a long period many sensible people—including a few editors—seem to forget that it is an American question only very indirectly and that it has been, is now, and must always remain a Mexican problem. America may deplore, may suggest, may threaten, may even resent anything that would menace American interests, but behind it all, America cannot ignore the fact that it is Mexico's own business to attend to Mexican affairs and that when this country steps in to settle it, the United States will have departed from its traditional policy and will have assumed a new obligation before the world. Anything like active intervention in Mexican affairs, therefore, must be frowned on by all who respect American ideals and have the best interests of their country at heart.

Latest reports from Mexico are anything but reassuring. The split between Carranza and Villa is widening and there are not many indications of a settlement. This country may just as well realize that Villa will always oppose anything like a settled regime; he is a virile hand-to-hand fighter without a civilized outlook on national affairs. He is the king maker of Mexico, and he glories in the sense of his brutal ability to throw down what he has reared. Carranza, on the other hand, seems to have a sense of disinterestedness, as shown by his willingness to retire, if Villa retires from the leadership of the army of the north. He who will bring peace to Mexico must rule with a strong hand, but first of all he must get rid of men of the type of Villa. Otherwise revolution and anarchy will be Mexico's portion until its people advance further in civilization.

GOLDEN AUTUMN TIME

Who, in our teeming population, has not felt the spell of early autumn as it comes in the cool breeze that scatters the withered leaves and brings hints of ripe apples and wild grapes? He has not felt it who, muffled up carefully, waits sulkily for the car that is to bring him to his office, waits at his office for the car that is to bring him home and spends the rest of his time huddled up in a comfortable corner or in bed. Timeless to speak to such an atrophied being of the glories of autumn. His delights are weighed in the scales of an abnormal selfishness and seen in the light of a false existence. For him there will be no thrill in the sight of the pearly gates or of the crystal sea that stretches through all eternity without a ripple to mar its serenity.

He who would understand the spirit of autumn is the sturdy fellow of six or sixty who hears a friendly voice in every rustle of the leaves underfoot and finds a treasure greater than gold nuggets in the glossy chestnuts that poop from the thorny burr. To such, the present season is a season of carnival joy. Roads that were only dun and gray have taken on a mantle of rainbow jewels; brilliant beams of sunlight come through the birches and maples with a glory like unto the glory of cathedral glass; crimson apples and purple grapes hint at the pastoral joys of Arcady. Before his wandering feet flies the Goddess of Plenty, her corn-colored hair flying in the breeze, her hands full of the treasures of garden, farm and orchard.

In autumn time any road from Lowell leads into a land of enchantment. He who carries with him the cares of business or memories of the war in Europe will see its delights only through a misty veil. He who would revel in its transcendent pleasures must leave all cares behind him and, forgetting that it is a workaday world and that we all grow old, tramp out into the country, which in September and October has the power to roll away the years and give us the glories of perpetual youth.

TO AVERT STRIKES

Delegates of six international unions in the building trades have just completed an alliance in New York which is meant to do away with strikes in the building trade. The unions represented include 500,000 workers in the United States and Canada. The spirit that prompted this action is a spirit that should be cultivated by employers and unions alike, for though strikes are legitimate and sometimes necessary, they rarely bring unalloyed good. Many strikes have sacrificed permanent advantage for the sake of some transitory concession. When such strikes are finally brought to a close, those who take part in them wonder why they dragged on so long and the realization grows that with mutual forbearance and intelligence, they could have been averted with advantage to all concerned. He who strives

Whatever the reasons assigned for the resignation of Messrs. Rockefeller, Baker, Brook and Elton from the directorship of the New Haven road, their action will be accepted by the public with the same alacrity with which it was accepted by the road officials. Past circumstances made it impossible that the somewhat venerable, if not venerated, gentlemen could retain public confidence, and their connection with the road could neither help it or themselves for the future.

Star chamber conferences seem slightly out of date in our Lowell city government and the public will not approve of them. It is doubtful if the tax payers would permit any municipal group to juggle matters behind closed doors, and it is very certain that they will not permit the present body to do so long. Where there is no apparent reason for secrecy, why the secrecy?

It is most fitting that nature should enter into the war by a terrific equinoctial storm across the North sea. In olden days the winds often favored England, and the same may be true today. If only the murderous mists were swept somewhere beyond the North pole, the commercial world would rejoice.

If only the strict law regarding garages could be applied to all who use them, how much safer the world would be.

Lowell may not be strictly beautiful, but let's clean it up and make it at least presentable.

SEEN AND HEARD

The newest fourflusher is the fellow who was going abroad if the war hadn't broken out.

Anyway, since the high cost of living got a half-nelson on this country, you don't know as much about the fellows who were trying to keep two dats on one salary.

No matter what the status of the war in Europe on October sixth of this year, you've got to leave the darn thing that's on its back and take up the great American battle—which introduces the world's series.

We await patiently the arrival of the man who sent us the following note: "After you have run upstairs and straightened out the German's right flank for the editorial folks, dashed down to the press room to tell 'Fred' to get more ink on page six, fired Tommy for smoking cigars around the benzine barrel, and fixed up your income tax tangle—I want five minutes of your time."

SOCKS FOR SOLDIERS

Ray F. Webster, the Centerville druggist, has returned from a trip to Prince Edward Island and, like many another returning from the maritime provinces, tells of the patriotism of the people for England and their great interest in the European war. In their minds there isn't the remotest possibility of Germany coming out on top and they await from day to day the news that Germany has surrendered or sued for peace. The women are knitting socks and hats for the British soldiers and farmers' clubs are sending provisions to England. They are not one who less patriotic than the Britishers themselves.

STARTING SOMETHING

Leavitt was sitting in the den one night glancing over the sporting pages. Opposite him sat little wifey making something with a knitting needle. Suddenly mother glanced up.

"John Henry," said she, "drop that paper a minute. I want to ask you a question."

"What is it, dear?" was the obedient response of John Henry.

"It's just this," returned wifey. "If you were single and I were single again, would you ask me to marry you?"

"Look here, Mary," exclaimed father a little excitedly. "What do you want to start something for when we have settled down for a nice quiet evening?"

A DISLOYAL PARROT

The doorkeeper at one of the places the king and queen of England were expected to visit had two pet parrots—one rather stupid and the other very intelligent and talkative.

Very carefully he taught the talkative parrot to say: "God save the king!" in honor of the royal visitors, and the parrot was so delighted with the new phrase that it would say nothing else, repeating it at breakfast at breakfast and at dinner at dinner.

The other parrot, on the contrary, refused to say a word, maintaining a cold and dignified silence.

HEADACHE STOPS, NEURALGIA GONE

Dr. James' Headache Powders give instant relief—Cost dime a package.

Nerve-racking, splitting or dull, throbbing headaches yield to just a few moments to Dr. James' Headache Powders which cost only 10 cents a package at any drug store. It's the quickest, safest headache relief in the whole world. Don't suffer! Relieve the agony and distress now! You can. Millions of men and women have found that headache or neuralgia misery is needless. Get what you ask for.

Instantly the other parrot, having disgustedly turned its back on the royalties, croaked out: "Silly ass! Shut up!"

THE COMMON SIN

My conscience is unhampered by the sin that men count common now, to wit: The sin of dress extravagance that curses our world race. The schemes to gild the nickels from the greedy populace; The sin of greed, or skimping and of dabbling in wine. Beset a host of fellows, but there's no use of them if they don't mind. I have no sin or vice at all, unless the saints indict. The sin of spending twenty when there's only ten in sight.

In ways unostentatious I begin my common day. Resolved to buy me nothing new for which I cannot pay; When I get from shelves obscure in some dusty shop The rarest books and geo-gaws from their hiding places hop! My vows and resolutions of the morn'g I forget.

In frenzied contemplation of the tempting prices set; And ere I fairly know it, then my record's black as night. With the sin of spending twenty when there's only ten in sight. "It's not a sin," you tell me! Well, although perhaps it's not, At night when slumber mocks me and the willow weeps for me, The Grand High Judge of Conscience and his jury, grim, sedate, Assemble at my footboard in most solemn high estate: They weigh the circumstances and ere slumber plays its trump They vote me seven asses and a nickel-plated clump! Then, slowly, they file past me and by halcyon they tread. On a charge of spending twenty when I had but ten in sight!

—John D. Wells, in Buffalo News.

AUTO'S KILLINGS

The report of the state highway commission for the seven months of 1914 shows that 86 persons were killed and 1472 injured by automobiles. A fraction over 37 per cent of those killed were occupants of automobiles. The remainder were either pedestrians or occupants of other vehicles. More than seven out of ten of the auto's victims were pedestrians who were struck on the highways. For this high rate of mortality the responsibility is divided between drivers of machines and pedestrians and others who use the streets.—Worcester Gazette.

VIRGINIA CLUBS

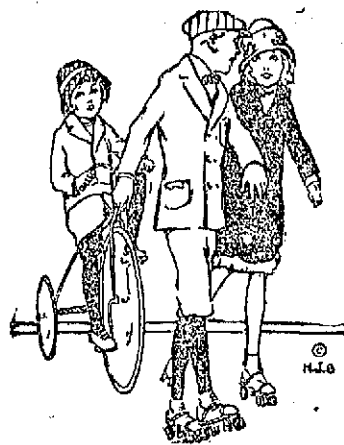

Virginia's new prohibition law, effective to the state's club members to keep liquor in lockets and to allow the brewing of "beer" of not over three and a half per cent of alcohol. It seems like a fair but to figure that Richmond will have more "clubmen" than New York after that law takes effect.—Brockton Enterprise.

DANCE CENSORSHIP

The plan of Maiden women's elvish league for a dance matron, employed by the city and paid by the proprietors of dance halls, may be good in its way, but it calls only for a shifting of responsibility. Parents, if they choose, could stop objectionable dancing simply by taking an interest in their daughters. The dances which do not depend for patronage upon girls of the age of inexperience are few. Censorship is or should be, a last resort.—Brockton Times.

AMERICAN APPLES

The American apple crop this year, according to the statistics and the crop report experts will foot up approximately 210,000,000 bushels. This is rather more than two bushels for each man, woman and child in the United States, and more than all that it is some 65,000,000 bushels in excess of last year's crop. This report, and the comparison with last year's figures, are especially interesting from the fact that last year thousands upon thousands of bushels of apples were permitted to rot upon the ground because the price would not yield the profit to which the apple-growers were entitled. This year, however, true, in the east to some extent, but

PRO VILLA

Gen. Villa's formal announcement, through Consul General Carruthers that he will not be a candidate for president or vice-president of Mexico ought to bring an easy end of the renewed trouble in that war-torn country. Carranza is reported to have declared that he would not be a candidate if Villa should not. Apparently this was a bluff on the view that he has been prevalent that Villa lacked the sense to realize that he is not fit for the place. If it was a bluff, it has been quickly called by Villa, who, it is to be said in justice to him, has all along protested that he did not desire the position and only sought to insure that the government should hereafter be a civilian instead of a military one, and should carry out the great reforms to which the revolution was pledged. This view is clearly the right one and the purpose deserves all sympathy. But it is a pity that, accomplished at all, it should be violent revolutionary attitudes.—Worcester Post.

THE SPELLBINDER

The representative contest in the 14th district, which includes ward one and Draught promises to be one of the most interesting that has come up locally in a long time. Last year, John W. Brennan, of Draught, the democratic candidate, defeated ex-Senator Hibbard, although the district in reputation by a strong majority, while the third candidate was Cecil P. Dodge, a resident of Draught up to a year or more ago, a popular member of the progressive party and a former republican. Mr. Brennan served his first term with credit and distinction, having the good fortune to be appointed to the committee on taxation which was one of the most important and busiest committees of the session. His record for the year is beyond adverse criticism and he was given the nomination for a second term without opposition. In the republican ranks, however, quite a contest developed before the caucus. Up to the last moment ex-Senator Hibbard had not entered the field as a candidate as he had intimated that he would not run if Mr. Dodge was to be the progressive candidate, figuring that a republican had the chance with Dodge in the contest. At the 11th hour Mr. Dodge retired and in his place came Michael A. Lee, a former democrat but now a progressive, and business agent of the local carpenters' union. Then the ex-senator came in, in full force, and an excellent opportunity to win with Lee as the third candidate. But, as the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft a-gley, when the caucus votes were counted it was found that Arthur W. Colburn, a Draught farmer and officeholder had carried the day. Prior to the caucus Mr. Colburn's friends claimed that ex-Senator Hibbard had had enough and should stand aside. Then some friend of Hibbard's whose mind turned toward research looked up Mr. Colburn's career and found, he claims, that it was 14 years ago that Mr. Colburn returned to Draught from an agricultural college in New Hampshire and that out of the 14 years that have since passed he has held public office in the town of Draught for four years, senior mayor, village clerk, on the board of registrars, in the school board and finally tax-collector for six years, the last-named plum paying about $1500 per year. But local pride came to the rescue of Mr. Colburn for the republicans of Draught, while the aid of Mr. Brennan, figured that with Mr. Lee in the field Hibbard would win out and thus deprive the town of its representation in the legislature, and hence although ordinarily comparatively few of them would attend the caucuses they turned out in big numbers and secured the town of a representative under circumstances by nominating Mr. Colburn. Thus Draught has the two candidates. The fact that the republicans of the town came out strongly for Mr. Colburn in the primaries, doesn't indicate, however, that they will all support him on election day. Their aid was due simply to their desire to have a Draught man at the state house, and now that Mr. Colburn is the opposing nominee many of them who are satisfied with Mr. Brennan's conduct in the house will vote to give him the customary second term.

WHEN AND HOW THE BODY POISONS ITSELF

The underlying cause of much headache, particularly migraine, or sick headache, bilious attacks, vertigo, or dizziness, is intestinal auto-intoxication. This process, recognized only in recent years, is the absorption into the blood of poisons produced in the intestines from the residue of food. The two most prominent factors in causing this condition are constipation and excessive meat eating. It can therefore be largely avoided by care in the diet and the use of a laxative which will clear away the fermenting residue of food which is generating the poisons. Pinklets, the new laxative, are admirably suited to protect the body against the dangers of auto-intoxication for they gently assist nature and do not irritate the system in a worse condition than they find it but Pinklets give just the stimulation to the organs of excretion that is needed to produce natural action and if they are used regularly for a time they will really correct constipation. Your druggist sells Pinklets or they will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 25 cents per bottle by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Send today for booklet and free sample.

WM. E. LIVINGSTON CO.
15 THORNDIKE ST. Established 1829

Rep. Brennan, the tried friend of labor, in the interest of Mr. Colburn, whose views on the subject, if he has any, are not publicly known and have not been put to the test. As the district is republican under ordinary circumstances it will not take many democratic and labor votes cast for Mr. Lee to elect Mr. Colburn, and if he should be elected in this manner then the labor men of the 14th district will have gone on record as having worked against their own best interests. Let them adopt the "Safety First" slogan and elect the man who has shown them his friendship and support.

Only a Few Left
Judging from the editorial laments of the Courier-Citizen concerning the boneheaded republicans who persist in voting "alphabetically," the "hydrocephalous" voters who mark their crosses for crooks and joke candidates and the democrats, particularly in the 8th district who nominate 25-calibre candidates, the poor editor must have come to the conclusion that the only intelligent voters left are the "Holy Ghost and Us."

Superfluous Election Officers
The payroll for the election officers who served at the recent primaries has been sent to the auditor's office and its amount, $1674, leads to the disclosure of interesting facts relative to the manner in which economy has been practiced by the commissioner of finance in his conduct of the affairs of the elections department.

In 1912 and in years past there were 216 precinct officers in the city. In days gone by they received $5 per day, but in 1913 they received $6 per day, which aggregated, assuming that they all served, which they did not, $6184.

In 1913 the progressives demanded representation among the precinct officers, and as a result the number of officers was swelled to 363, and then it was thought that the limit was reached. But the list of 1914 shows that it takes 363 precinct officers, mostly "inspectors" whatever they are, at a total cost of $7272, provided they all served, though some of them didn't. In the recent election the number of officers was swelled to 363, and then it was thought that the limit was reached. But the list of 1914 shows that it takes 363 precinct officers, mostly "inspectors" whatever they are, at a total cost of $7272, provided they all served, though some of them didn't.

This year the commissioner of finance has appointed 40 more precinct officers than ever before and of these 40 there were 24 who didn't show up on caucus day, and hence didn't get their $6 per day for doing nothing. Probably they didn't know that they had been appointed, and won't let it happen again on the three days to come. Had they all showed up the cost of officers for the caucus alone would have been $1813, but 24 remained away and the cost was $1674.

This year it took 32 precinct officers to hold the caucuses in ward seven against 33 last year, and 24 in 1912. As this is the finance commissioner's home ward it might be said that he has some doubts as to the voting ability and behavior of his neighbors. Last year there were eight progressive officers in ward seven against six this year, so that the 11 extras are democrats and republicans. Ward two had the smallest number of precinct officers this year, 26, against 28 last year and 21 in 1912. Ward five with 30 officers is the only ward in which no increase was made.

Some of these men who draw $6 per day as precinct officers, by a tremendous effort, get up before 6 o'clock on election morning, report at the polls and then go about their business until the close of the polls when they return and hang around until the votes have been counted. The list of names is interesting. In ward one there are two well known lawyers on the list, getting their $6 per day, like the humblest worker in the ranks. In this ward also is another precinct officer who is on the jury list, a "gentleman" who has been elected by the people to serve on a jury, but who doesn't have to work for a living—except, of course, four days per year, when he gives his services to the city at $6 per day.

Among the precinct officers, also, are city employees, who are not supposed to draw two salaries from the city; business men who "holter" against municipal extravagance and high taxes, and there is one precinct officer, at least, whose name will appear on the ballot as a candidate for office at the election at which he is to serve as an official. The increase of precinct officers, together with the employment of additional clerks, to write tax bills, form a needless expenditure of over $1000 just at a time when the citizens are chafing over the highest tax bills that have ever been sent out from city hall, and sent by an administration whose campaign cry has been "economy and reform."

Hurting the Charter

The present administration is doing more to make a charter unpopular than all of its outspoken enemies who stumped the city when the change of government was proposed. The present administration is violating the promises and claims of the proponents of the charter and those violations consist of the secret meetings of the municipal council, the city work by contract and the importation of outside labor to do the work together with the violation of other promises such as that made to the board of trade to reduce the cost of lighting, the promises to the French-American voters and finally that grand old promise of equal rights for all, special privileges to none.

Call Them Off, Mr. Mayor

It is understood that certain men are abroad trying to work up a sentiment for a second term for Mayor Murphy so that in response to a call by his fellow-citizens His Honor can repudiate his campaign promise of a year ago and be a candidate again. One of the promoters of the second term scheme goes so far as to advise the friends of another probable candidate to keep him out lest the mayor defeat him. Now Mayor Murphy hit the public right on his promise that if elected he would serve only one term. That was one of his principal issues, the one-term theory. Many who voted for him on this theory regret the fact that it wasn't sold against the mayor, and, having widely proclaimed that he would not seek nor accept a second term, His Honor can hardly go back on his word, even in response to a specially manufactured sentiment. Whether His Honor has sent out the agents to boom the second term idea or not, he should call them in and tell them, as by so doing he will have the satisfaction of retiring from office gracefully.

Recall Papers Out

A short time ago when it was reported that recall papers were out for one of the commissioners, little attention was given the report as it was believed that such a movement would die of inanition. But the papers are going, not directed against one commissioner, but it is said, against the mayor, and Commissioner Carmichael and Mayor, for the purpose of placing the entire administration on the ballot in the

Call for Paving Blocks

Commissioner Morse has called for 250,000 paving blocks that should have been called for last April. Watch the cost of these blocks when the bids are opened and compare it with the cost of last year and then take a peek at your tax bill and that of a year ago. Procrastination is the thief of time. Time is money; therefore, procrastination is the thief of money. Quarrymen state that paving blocks could have been purchased much cheaper last April than they can be today. Commissioner Morse it is reported, motored to North Chelmsford, Tuesday and looked over a pile of paving blocks that are piled near the entrance to the Country Club. As the Spellbinder pointed out recently, those blocks are owned by the Hildreth Granite Co.

They Meant Well, Anyway

Those who have heard the story are chuckling over the near-catch of a jewelry store robber by Supt. Welch and a small army of inspectors and patrolmen a few evenings ago. It is both unfortunate and unjust, however, to poke fun at the alert police in this case for their intentions were the best, and had the man been a yegg bound on robbery they would have captured him, but he turned out to be an honest citizen bent on a legitimate transaction in a jewelry store after closing hours, and hence, their failure to achieve further greatness. It seems that a man telephoned to a local jeweler last Thursday, stating that he would like to make the purchase of a diamond ring, or something similar, that evening. He was obliged to get it that evening and while he knew that the store was closed on Thursday, he asked if the proprietor could not accommodate him by letting him in at 8:30 p. m. The request was so unusual that the jeweler played the "safety first" game and telephoned the facts to the police station. Visions of another Norton case must have hovered thickly about the police station, for as the appointed hour approached an imposing army of police from the superintendent down to common patrolmen, all undoubtedly armed to the teeth, assembled at the jewelry store and proceeded to surround it. They were in front, behind and over the building waiting for the desperado to make his appearance, while one took a position at Tower's corner to wing him if he got by the others. He came along just as he said he would and entering the store purchased the article he had gone after, thanked the proprietor for accommodating him and went on his way rejoicing, blissfully ignorant of the fact that he had been in imminent danger of being hanged, drawn and quartered by the most imposing army of police that has been gathered together at one time since the post office inspectors came here and borrowed the local force to assist them in arresting a bunch of yeggmen in Appleton street.

The Police? Well—

These Tardy Commissioners

A woman who recently abandoned important business temporarily, to land a meeting at city hall, advertised to take place at a certain hour and who after waiting an hour or more for the meeting to come to order, was informed that the matter in which she was interested would not come up until another day, is in favor of amending section 23 of the charter which now reads: "All public hearings shall be held as far as is practicable, in the evening, but may be held at any time" to read "but may be held at any old time." This administration has all records broken for secret sessions in the mayor's office. One may be excused for forming the opinion that the members "can't stand the gaff," as Commissioner Morse would say, of public criticism, and hence has been closed doors to express their views on public matters. It is reported that the commissioners held a secret session in the mayor's office, a few days ago at which they agreed to vote more money for sewers, but upon hearing the howl over the tax-bills they abandoned the proposition. It will be recalled that it was at a secret session that the commissioners agreed to gobble up the perpetual care fund.

Republican Love Feast

A delightful little love feast was held at the Richardson hotel dining room Tuesday evening, when Reps. Jewett and Ashlin, the successful candidates for the legislature in the 17th district, appreciating the old adage that the best way to get to a man is through his stomach, gave their defeated brethren, Messrs. Killpatrick, Berard, Kew and Adams a fine dinner. The purpose of the feast was to remove any sore spots that might have held over after the primaries. The dinner was one of the best of the cuisine of the Richardson affords, and that's some dinner. Entering into the spirit of the occasion Proprietor Hoban had the room decorated with forget-me-nots and floral decorations, and in his back an olive branch signifying that the storm had subsided, while Phil Lederman and Dick Noonan played that popular ballad: "Let Bygones be Bygones; and Let Us Be Sweethearts Again." Both sides reported that the dinner was a complete success, and the story of bullets that were cast in the primaries was not brought up.

Says Labor Conditions in Textile Factories of the South Out-Herod Herod—Child Snatchers of Southern Mills Torture Before They Kill

Congressmen, as a rule, do not bother with texts, but Congressman John Jacob Rogers stepped out of the beaten path in congress yesterday in a speech entitled "Out Heroding Herod." His text:

"Then Herod went forth and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof. Then was fulfilled that which was spoken in Jeremy, the prophet, saying, 'In Rama was there a voice heard in lamentation, and weeping, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.'"

The text was an appropriate one and the congressman's spirited argument for a nation-wide law governing the hours and conditions of labor of women and minors was backed by official and tabulated statistics. His facts were copper-bound and riveted. He showed that the mills of the southern states employ women and minors to such an extent that the labor laws of these states are inadequate, little enforced and wholly medieval in character. In part, he said:

"Certain states of the south today tolerate conditions which out-Herod Herod. He killed swiftly and without pain; the child-snatchers of the southern mills torture before they kill. He killed the children of a tiny province; their victims are torn from a great nation of a great country. He killed the body only; they too often kill mind and soul as well."

"Mr. Speaker: On July 8 last I introduced in the house of representatives a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States to the following effect: 'The Congress shall have power to regulate the employment of women and of persons under the age of 21 years.' This resolution was referred to the committee on judiciary and is still pending in that committee."

"It may not be inappropriate to set forth some of the considerations which have led me to believe that nothing short of an amendment to the constitution of the United States will adequately remedy the conditions attending the employment of women and children now prevailing throughout the United States."

"At the present time—and indeed throughout our history as a nation—it rests with the several states to determine what restraint, if any, shall be imposed either on the employer or the employee, or both, in entering into and continuing in operation the contract of employment. This power is vested in the states, because a part of the general police power and because never withdrawn from them by the federal constitution."

"With 45 commonwealths, each in this particular respect entirely independent of every other commonwealth as well as of the nation, it is not surprising that a vast divergence of opinion and of legislation exists. Different states, like different individuals, vary widely in their point of view as to what constitutes necessary and proper protection of the laboring classes. Massachusetts has of late years deservedly achieved the reputation of being among the two or three most enlightened and progressive states in respect to labor legislation. Other states are equally conspicuous for their retardation in this respect."

"It is perhaps not material to discuss the causes which result in this variance; the problem is before us and demands a solution. In pointing out in some detail the precise differences between the group of states of which Massachusetts is typical and the group of states at the other extreme in labor legislation, I am especially anxious to avoid even the semblance of sectional feeling. This is solely a question of fact; and in developing my

Past Season Has Demonstrated That the Local Amateurs Have a Large Following of Fans

With the coming on of cool weather the amateur baseball players of the city are tucking their toes away for another season. The warm, summer-like days after the concluding of the New England schedule made it possible, however, for two games at Spalding park which resulted in a great deal of local interest.

Always an Attraction

Amateur baseball throughout the country is always a big attraction. At a recent game played in New York city just two blocks away from where the Giants were battled for the pennant in the National League 37,000 people congregated to see two amateur teams while organized ball drew less than 15,000.

In St. Louis a week ago last Saturday the papers of that city stated that 87,000 fans witnessed a game played on one of the huge playgrounds between the two best amateur ball clubs of the city. And there have been many amateur games played this summer where over 20,000 spectators have been in attendance.

Reason For Popularity

The reason for the popularity of the amateurs upon the diamond is the fact that for any other branch of amateur athletics. The fans like to see a game between players who are not paid for their efforts and who are on a par with the specialists themselves.

Of course, when brought down to fundamentals, amateur sport has been the foundation of all sport of a professional nature. The amateur base-ball would not be possible if it were not for amateur baseball.

To begin with there would be no professional ball players if there were not first amateurs. In the second place there are very few American men who have not played ball at some time or other in their lives. And this is just the reason of the great popularity of the game. The fans who watch two professional teams battling know the game, in a limited degree, because they have played it themselves as amateurs.

The Local Amateurs

This city is no different than any other city or town of its size in its attitude toward amateur baseball. The past season has amply demonstrated the fact that Lowell appreciates amateur ball.

On Saturday afternoon or holidays a trip to either the North or South commons is sufficient to acquaint anyone of a disbeliever in the previous statement. On either common, however, more spectators are to be found than at the New England league park.

FINE BOWLING THRILLS CROWD OF 10,000

Rolloff at Kittredge's Alleys Resulted in Fast Competition

Last night's weekly rolloff for cash prizes at Kittredge's alleys resulted in some remarkably fine bowling with the city's leading rollers in competition.

Three men, Mason, Deyer and Martel, were tied for first place with three string totals of 331 each. Hoban and F. O'Brien were tied for the next two places. The five prizes ranged from $7 to $1.

The day's high total for a single string was captured by Tommy Hoban with a mark of 155 pins for his ten boxes. Several other local bowlers were close behind Hoban's mark when he turned in the winning shot. The scores of the rolloff are as follows:

Names	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	Total
Mason	105	120	106	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	1000

Directum 1 Beats William at Columbus in Fastest Race Ever Paced—Time 1.58 and 2.00

COLUMBUS, Oct. 1.—Turf history was made at the Columbus track yesterday afternoon, the match race between Directum 1 and William not only producing a racing feature that thrilled a crowd of 10,000, but turning out also to be a world's record event and a distinct upset as a betting proposition.

Directum 1 was splendidly on edge and his winning miles in 1.58 and 2.00 flat gave him the honor of having won the fastest race ever paced and won the fastest mile ever paced in the open either in a race or exhibition without windmill.

The betting saw the first dozen tickets go at $500 on William to $350 on Directum 1. Auctioneering continued thereafter at 200 to 150 on William until the race started. After the first heat, the selling was at 50 to 15, with the red stallion the favorite.

As at Grand Rapids, Directum 1 drew the pole and lost it in the first 30 yards. A stiff breeze was blowing up the back stretch and Snodder chose to trail by a length and permit William to breast the breeze.

The quarter was passed in 29 seconds and the half in spite of the wind, reached in 59 1/2. The three-quarter pole saw a two-minute clip maintained. After the pair squared away in the home stretch Directum 1 was pulled out and in a track burning performance, passed William, winning by a length and a half in 1:58 flat. The last quarter was in 25 seconds.

In the final mile, William gave a stiffer argument in the home stretch, forcing Directum 1, again trailing, to pace the final quarter in 27 1/2 seconds (separately timed) to win.

The crowd was the largest paid attendance here that ever witnessed a horse race here. The summary:

SPECIAL MATCH RACE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP OF PACING STALLIONS

And freely violated in every state visited.

"An appended table shows that, exclusive of children under 12 employed under legal exemption, 8.3 per cent. of all children employed were illegally employed. Some children so employed were as young as seven years of age."

"The 'halper system' is a subterfuge very commonly found in the south whereby a law prohibiting the employment of children under a certain age is evaded. If the name is omitted from the pay roll, the employer argues that he is not employing the child. The facts that the child has an assigned task, that the work is done by the manufacturer's direction, and for his benefit, and that the employer pays him in a relative's pay envelope fail to alter his conclusion. Of course where the law provides that a child under a certain age shall not be 'permitted to work,' it cannot be evaded in this way; thus far, however, such a provision has been kept out of the laws in the states where the child-labor evil is most prevalent."

"In certain southern mills the Nell investigators found that children under the legal age of employment were found in a proportion as 7 per cent. of the employees, this circumstance being possible in part through the present use of the 'halper system.'"

"The Massachusetts laws for the protection of women and children, as I have shown, are numerous and elaborate, an appropriation of from $100,000 to $200,000 a year is made by our legislature for their strict enforcement. The Nell investigators examined 22 factories in Massachusetts and found but one where a child under 18, and one where a child under 16, was employed. It cannot be said that Massachusetts seeks to force others to practice that which it is not willing itself to do."

Lowell Cotton Mills

"I have shown at some length the importance to Massachusetts of this question. At present she is every day being more and more penalized for the humanity and progress which she has written into her statutes. It may be said that she should reduce the cost of production so that she may be able to meet the competition of the south. Can she do this? Take the case of the Lowell cotton mills, for example. An examination of their dividends for the past eight or ten years shows an average for all of between 4 and 4.3 per cent. per year—about the Massachusetts savings bank rate. It is said that the reproductive cost of the plants alone of these mills exceeds their capitalization."

"If, then, the profits are not unduly swollen or the stock watered, how can the cost of production be cut down? Of course, the greatest single item in such cost is the cost of labor. But surely Massachusetts must not reduce her wage scale. Similarly, if we should take up, one by one, the various elements entering into the cost of production of these articles in the manufacture of which Massachusetts has met and must meet the competition of the south, I believe that we should find that as a practical matter, there could be no real hope of an appreciable saving."

"The only solution seems to be, therefore—certainly from the standpoint of Massachusetts—that the terms upon which the south is able to compete with the north shall be so modified that the competition shall be fair."

"The problem, then, is national; let the nation, through its congress, promptly seek its wise and permanent solution. Success will mean a better south and a better nation; it will mean better wages, better morals, better schooling, better health, better homes, better descendants and better citizenship; it will mean that we have saved the south from itself."

DYNAMITE IN BIG FIRE

EXPLODED DURING SERIOUS BLAZE IN BARN IN LAWRENCE—AUTO DESTROYED

LAWRENCE, Oct. 1.—Damage, estimated at $200, including a barn with all its contents, among which was a 1912 Chalmers two passenger automobile, was done by fire of unknown origin in a barn occupied by James Crowley, a contractor, on Andover street, opposite Brookfield street, shortly before 11 o'clock yesterday. In the barn was about eight or ten tons of hay which was destroyed, an old sleigh and contractors' tools, also destroyed.

When the firemen, responding to an alarm from box 116, corner of South Broadway and Andover street, arrived at the barn was a mass of flames from one end to the other. Four lines of hose were laid and tons of water poured into the burning building. One engine was brought into use, until the fire was under control. Owing to hay, however, three streams were played onto the fire until noon. The hay had to be thrown out and turned over and this made progress very slow.

An early stage of the fire a loud explosion occurred which tore off clapboards from the side of the building, some of which narrowly escaped hitting Chief Carey, Lieut. O'Neil, Captain

WALL STREET CLERKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The banks and trust companies were requested to assist in finding positions for Wall street clerks who have been laid off as a result of the time when the stock exchange closed soon after war was declared in Europe. Yesterday Wall street which seldom feels the pinch of hard times experienced by employees of commercial and manufacturing concerns saw the unusual spectacle of a hundred clerks, among them three women, standing in line waiting to apply for aid.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

The temperature of the nursery should be about 65 degrees Fahrenheit. It is wise to have a thermometer in the room. This precaution is well worth taking, for a not infrequent cause of dyspepsia in the very young is the over heating of the nursery.

The night temperature should be about 62 degrees Fahrenheit. As the child grows older it is not necessary to keep the temperature of the room about 58 degrees Fahrenheit.

The windows should always be kept open when the child is absent from the nursery and each evening before the child is put to bed. This practice should be followed for a few minutes.

To secure adequate ventilation, if there be an open fireplace, is not difficult, either by having the window opened very slightly at the top or by means of the floor. It is an excellent idea where practicable to have an adjustable ventilator in the window itself. Currents of air are to be avoided.

For amusement on a stormy day, let the child cut pictures from magazines and circulars. Arrange them in different groups as they relate to country life, work, play, boys, girls, animals, etc., placing them neatly in blank books.

Everything required for the furnishing of a cardboard doll house can be made of paper.

Chairs, tables, or beds may be devised with a little ingenuity.

Many small things, such as saucers, plates, clocks, candlesticks, etc., can be made.

Cut the smaller articles out flat, leaving extra pieces of paper at the bottom of each. These pieces, when bent back, make a stand.

The furniture may be painted with water colors to look like wood, brass, tapestry and painted knobs and handles may also be added.

The very first item in the training of the day old infant is the matter of regular and punctual feeding.

Inexperienced mothers little realize the importance of this seeming trifling, both for their own comfort and for their baby's physical welfare.

Once get a baby into the habit of taking it up and feeding it every time it happens to cry, and you have indeed started trouble for yourself.

It is on this rock that young mothers often wreck much of their own and their household's peace.

In teaching children to be careful let us not make the mistake of encouraging them to use flasks. A number of accidents should be impressed upon your little ones. For example: Don't drink soda out of dirty glasses. Don't buy candy exposed to dust, flies or fingers. Don't buy highly colored candies. Don't buy in dirty stores.

This is sensible advice, for children or anyone else. If we need medicine cups anywhere we need them in the soda fountains. These glasses used in stores get only a rinsing in cold water.

The children should be taught also the dangers of lamp black in kerosene and kerosene, glue in gumdrops and soapuds in soft drinks.

Of course the most important room in the house where King Baby reigns supreme is the nursery. This room should be selected with care and should be as sunny as possible.

The sun is the great purifier of the atmosphere and nothing should be done in the nursery which tends to contaminate the air.

There must be no drying or washing of babies' clothes in this room; the clothes should not be allowed to burn all night, but a night light used.

An open fire, if it is possible to have one, is the very best source of heat.

Most children have the bad habit of throwing down anywhere they can. These seldom to be found together when again wanted. Rubber shoes are kicked off hurriedly and left wherever they happen to fall.

The suburban mother protests and perhaps she scolds about having so much mud brought into the house, and possibly good effects result from both; but in all probability, in a carelessness will soon be shown again.

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—Hon. William F. Murray took charge of the Boston post office at midnight last night, succeeding E. C. Mansfield, who had been postmaster six years and had been connected with the office 11 years of the last 14 years. His first service from 1900 to 1905, was as assistant postmaster under the late Postmaster Henry A. Thomas.

There was no ceremony of any kind last night attending the transfer of the responsibilities of the Boston postal district to Mr. Murray. He and the retiring postmaster were together in the office all the evening learning the results of the checking up of the accounts of the four city branches by the force of postoffice inspectors called to Boston for the purpose. The inspectors worked to a late hour last night, and will probably have considerable to do yet before their work is ended.

When Mr. Mansfield's last home after midnight he had covered his connection with the service. Mr. Murray will take up the duties this morning.

Your Fall Coat Needs Attention

No use to fuss and try to wear it out. It will wear you out instead. Take Dr. King's New Discovery, relief follows quickly. It checks your cough and soothes your throat. Pleasant, antiseptic and healing. Children like it. Get a 50c bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and keep it in the house. "Our family doctor," writes J. W. LOCAL ARMORY NEW HAVEN ROAD

May be Used by Boy Scouts or Other Organizations

The fact that the legislature has provided that boy scout organizations can use all state armories for drilling and other purposes in connection with their maneuvers, under certain restrictions, indicates that during the coming season boy scout maneuvers in this city will increase and that the Westford street armory will probably be used by local troops.

At the last legislature, when there was considerable talk about using the state armories for other than strictly military purposes by the state militia, this fact of the activities of boy scout troops all through the state was touched upon, with the result that a petition was introduced to allow such organizations to use armories for their purposes.

Like the other bill passed some time ago, allowing the use of armories for other than military purposes, the whole matter is left practically in the hands of the governor who, in military phraseology, is called the commander-in-chief. Of course, the act does not name the boy scouts specifically, but is framed to cover all organizations of boys under 18 years of age. It is understood that the governor or the commander-in-chief has instructed the adjutant general to look into the matter and to frame up a set of rules and regulations, which will carry into effect the purpose of the new act which reads as follows:

"Upon application to the commander-in-chief, approved by the adjutant general, any organization of boys under 18 years of age, which may conform to regulations and training prescribed by the commander-in-chief, with a view to preparing the members thereof for military or naval service, shall be permitted to use such armory upon the payment of a sum sufficient to cover all expenses thereof, and such use shall be regarded as a military purpose."

"Upon application to the commander-in-chief and on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by him, such organizations may be permitted to use, for parade or drill purposes, such grounds owned by the commonwealth as are used by the adjutant general or city in which the organization is located, and such use shall be regarded as a military purpose. Such organization shall reimburse the officer or authority responsible for any damage to or loss of any property or equipment."

PEACE AND HOME RULE

WANTED BY LITHUANIANS—BOSTON DELEGATES START FOR BROOKLYN CONVENTION

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—"Peace and Home Rule" was the slogan of the 40 delegates representing the Lithuanian societies of Boston who left early last evening for the national convention which is to open in Brooklyn, N. Y., today.

It is the first representative gathering of that race ever held in this country, and the Bay State sends 10% of the delegates that will sit in the assembly. At the head of the Boston delegation are Fortunatus J. Bagocius, Charles Sidlauskas, George J. Geguzis and Stanley Michelson.

The war in Europe finds the Lithuanians at home about equally divided as to the Germans and Russians, and the convention is twofold: First, immediate establishment of a fund sufficiently large to insure a branch of the Red Cross that will give direct care and treatment to Lithuanian soldiers; second, at the close of the war and through the kind offices of President Wilson and the United States to make Lithuania a principality with local self government, whether it be under Russian rule or the Kaiser's dominion. The convention will continue for three days.

GOV. WALSH GREETED

UNHERALDED, EXECUTIVE VISITS BOLTON FAIR DURING DRIVE—FIRST SPEECH SINCE ACCIDENT

BOLTON, Oct. 1.—The 39th annual fair of the Bolton Farmers and Mechanics' association took place yesterday on the grounds adjacent to the town hall, more than 3000 people attending. The exhibits in the hall were larger in number and of a better grade than ever before shown here, but threatening weather kept many of the midway vendors away.

The program of the day began with a parade to the plowing grounds, where contests were held. Grover Quimby won in a swiftness plowing match, with Edward E. Noyes second. Nathan Carville was winner with the sulky plow. In a pulling contest, Charles E. Mace won, with Nathan Carville, second. The results in the work-horse parade were E. A. Hackett, first; Charles E. Mace, second; William L. Felton, third.

In addition to the usual prizes, a silver cup was offered for the best display of corn, not less than 20 ears, the cup to become the permanent property of an exhibitor winning it twice in succession. It was captured by William M. Brigham.

A sprayer for the best exhibit of a half bushel of potatoes was won by Leonard L. Brigham. Aluminum ware to the value of $3 was offered to the best maker of white bread, and $2 worth to the second best. Mrs. Lewis E. Day, Bolton, and Mrs. Whitney Brigham, respectively, were the winners.

There was music throughout the day by a Hudson band, and at noon a farmers' dinner was served.

In the afternoon Gov. Walsh favored the fair with his presence, making his first public address since leaving the hospital, and being the first governor to ever attend a Bolton fair. He made two addresses, one inside the hall, the other on the grounds from an automobile in which he drove over from his home, the neighboring town of Clinton. His coming was unheralded, and was part of his afternoon's drive for air and recreation. He spoke wholly on what Massachusetts is doing for the agriculturist and was given a grand reception.

Miss E. Hurlbut was marshal of the day and was aided by Reuben E. Randall and Chester Paine.

Minute Books Secured by the Federal Grand Jury

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The special federal grand jury investigating at President Wilson's suggestion the management of the New Haven road to ascertain if criminal laws had been violated by those in authority, retained possession today of the road's minute books and other documents. These were placed before the jurors by Assistant Secretary Hemstead of the railroad company and it is understood will be held for several days for consideration by the grand jury.

Charles S. Melton expected to continue his testimony this afternoon. He has already been on the stand for two days. It is understood that his testimony dealt chiefly with the financial phases of the road's affairs rather than the actual operation of the road. How long Mr. Melton would remain on the stand and who would be the next witness were not divulged.

COL. ROOSEVELT TALKS

PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT PROGRESSIVE CONVENTION AT DAY CITY, MICHIGAN

DAY CITY, Mich., Oct. 1.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt was the principal speaker at the progressive state convention here yesterday. He spoke in the same hall where the republican and progressive factions split at a republican state convention here two years ago, when state troops were called out to preserve order.

"They stole it from us," was the expression of the colonel during his address, alluding to that convention incident. "They took the delegates by force, but when the votes of the people were counted, we had them beaten two to one."

The colonel repeatedly declared against the return of progressives to the republican fold. "You can't be loyal to the principles of Abraham Lincoln by voting the republican ticket," he said. "You can't be loyal to the principles of Jefferson by voting the democratic ticket."

"I guess the names of Lincoln and Jefferson aren't mentioned when the followers of Lorimer, republican, and Sullivan, democratic, hold their conferences, the standstillers, the reactionaries of the republican party, are the real aids to democratic power."

"They hold their power by fraud and violence. They started that fraud and violence in this very building two years ago. They ask us to come to them. Why, we will not, together with some just like a policeman gets together with a burglar. I ask you to combine against them."

CHELMSFORD

A meeting of the Chelmsford Centre water district was held last night in the town hall with a large attendance. The most important item on the warrant was to see if the district will vote to reimburse Thomas Bruno for the financial loss (estimated by him to be $4,366.82) actually sustained by him in the performance of his contract for laying of water pipes as per his agreement entered into with the commissioners of the district under date of Aug. 19, 1913. This article after considerable discussion was dismissed.

The meeting was presided over by Chairman Charles E. Bartlett. It was voted to extend the service in Woodbine street to the residence of H. C. Hooker at a cost of about $200. The article calling for an extension of the service in Fletcher street at a cost of about $2000 was dismissed.

The article in reference to the reimbursement to Thomas Bruno was taken up. The chairman explained the situation, stating that Mr. Bruno claimed he has expended the sum of $4,366.82 over the amount included in the contract and he (Mr. Bruno) claims he should be reimbursed. A vote was taken and the result was in favor of the dismissal of the article.

SHIPMENT OF "AMERICA"

Has Raised New Question of International Law—No Protest Has Been Made

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Shipment of the hydroplane "America" from England to New York on the Mauretania has raised a new question of international law.

If classed as munitions of war, the aeroplane would be subject merely to seizure as contraband. Should it be classed as a warship, the United States might be charged with responsibility for its departure from a neutral port. No protest has been made and the vexing question has not yet come up officially.

A FIGHT ON COTTON

OPPOSED BY HOUSE BANKING COMMITTEE—MEXICAN PERSECUTION OF PRIESTS DESCRIBED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—That no further financial legislation is to be expected in the present session of congress was a statement made yesterday by Congressman Phelan of the banking and currency committee, who generally is regarded as confident and right-hand man to Chairman Carter Glass. At the same time Congressman Henry of Texas announced that he would oppose adjournment of congress until his bill or some other measure for the relief of the cotton growers of the south was passed.

Henry's bill provides that the government shall deposit $500,000 in national and state banks in nine cotton states to be loaned at 3 per cent. on cotton collateral to producers or land owners.

"I am opposed to the bill," said Mr. Phelan. "The committee is opposed to the bill and it will not be reported favorably." Mr. Phelan also said the committee was opposed to a bill to permit state banks to issue emergency currency under the Aldrich-Vreeland act without the tax of 10 per cent.

On the other hand, President Wilson yesterday told a committee of congressmen from cotton states that he would discuss this measure with Secretary McAdoo.

Information was lodged both at the White House and at the state department yesterday as to atrocious violations of Catholic rights and wrongs in Mexico by guerrillas on both sides. Under the guidance of Congressman Gallivan of Massachusetts, a committee composed of Henry V. Cunningham of Boston, Rev. Dr. Tierney, editor of America, and Hon. John Wheelan, formerly corporation counsel for New York, representing the Federated Catholic Charities of America, which has been holding a convention in Baltimore, called at the White House and had an audience with President Wilson.

The committee presented, startling and authenticated instances of atrocities practiced on individuals and on the destruction of church property in Mexico. The committee went from the White House to the state department and had a personal interview with Secretary Bryan.

PATROLMAN LEAPS INTO AUTO TO GET CHAUFFEUR

Thrilling Auto Ride Through Roxbury Ends With the Arrest of Chauffeur on Charge of Assault and Battery—Many Narrow Escapes

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—Patrolman Daniel P. O'Neill of the Roxbury Crossing division had an exciting experience yesterday afternoon when he fought desperately to overpower a chauffeur, while they both rode wildly along Tremont street, through Roxbury and the South End, in an automobile. The machine was going at a speed estimated at more than 45 miles an hour. The thrilling ride and encounter terminated in Rutland square, South End, fully a mile from where it began, when Daniel Munneryn, the chauffeur, aged 32, was shot through the right hand in a struggle to obtain possession of the revolver which O'Neill had drawn when the former tried to start the auto again after the policeman had succeeded in bringing it to a standstill.

Munneryn was locked up at the Roxbury Crossing station charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, a blackjack, and today Patrolman O'Neill will place against him the additional charge of assault and battery on a police officer. Munneryn has been living in "Chitown," but is well known in Roxbury, where he lived for a number of years. On complaint of Edward Walters, aged about 35 years and living at 43 Hammond street, the Roxbury court last Saturday morning issued a warrant for the arrest of Munneryn, charging him with assault and battery on Walters last Friday afternoon. The two, it is stated, got into an argument over a woman.

HOW TO STOP STOMACH TORMENT

Sound Advice From a Well-Known Physician

Men and women who suffer from what they call "stomach trouble" usually seek regular relief in the form of some peptic pill or tablet, or other artificial digestant. This is a serious error. In nine cases out of ten, the distress is caused by the development of acids in the stomach, formed by the stomach, instead of a deficient being required, something should be taken to dissolve or neutralize this acidity, when normal digestion will follow as a matter of course. This acid matter is distinctly poisonous and unless it is dissolved, digestion merely carries the mass of fermenting food from the stomach to the intestines, where its poison is absorbed by the blood and carried all over the body. If all the great army of people who suffer after nearly every meal would make it a point to take a teaspoonful of Bismarck's Magnesia in a quarter glass of water, the stomach would be free from the formation of acidity and consequently no distress or discomfort. Sour acid, gassy stomach, heartburn, belching, bloating, etc., would then be a thing of the past. Bismarck's Magnesia is a physician's prescription. It is inexpensive and can be obtained at any drug store. It is prepared in its efficiency is that it will stop the sharpest, biting stomach distress in five minutes. It simply by dissolving the acids that have been formed there. Its action is absolutely harmless.

SANGUINARY FIGHTING IN RUSSIAN POLAND

Petrograd Reports That Russians are Advancing—Two German Divisions Destroyed—Bodies Found Hanging to Trees

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The correspondence of the Telegraph at Petrograd telegraphing regarding the operations in Russian Poland near the East Prussian border says:

"The triangle formed by Joining Stishushin, Augustow and Ossowetz is little more than a vast swamp, making military operations difficult even in the best weather. Rain has been falling heavily for the past two days but the Russians nevertheless are pushing on determinedly.

"The recent fighting has been sanguinary, two German divisions having been destroyed in the battle of Druskenki. In the west of Russian Poland the brush with the advance guards continue.

"The Polish peasants are extremely bitter against the Germans and this feeling has been increased by the contact with German humor. As an instance, the Germans everywhere pretended to pay for supplies with documents written in German, which the peasants do not understand. When translated the peasants found that these papers had inscribed thereon that 'whoever presents this at the end of the war will be hanged.'

"There probably has been sniping by the civilian population as the bodies of six peasants were found hanging to a tree in a Polish town a few days ago. Their fellow townsmen vowed to have revenge and two days later a German scouting party found the bodies of 22 German soldiers hanging from the same tree.

"A letter received here from a Russian officer who is camping on the estate of Emperor William at Rominten, eastern Prussia, says:

"William's estate is magnificently equipped and we have everything at our disposal which we could wish. We are enjoying particularly delicious dinners prepared by his fine cooks. 'His park swarms with rare animals and birds. We are teaching his parrots the Russian language and are learning to address their imperial master with compliments. I should blush to repeat in company!'

DOGGED COURAGE OF FRENCH TROOPS IS PRAISED BY CORRESPONDENT

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Amiens under date of Sunday in describing the heavy fighting around Peronne, which has been taken and re-taken at various times, says that it is impossible to hear of the dogged courage of the French troops without a thrill of admiration.

"At 11 o'clock one morning," he says, "the French advance was checked to a terrific concentrated fire and it seemed impossible for the troops to hold their ground. The French artillery had to abandon position after position.

"At 2 o'clock the shells began to fall around the cross roads where the staff was located and the general in command was urged to quit. 'No,' he said, 'so long as I stay here we cannot retreat and we have simply got to hold on.'

"He said the same thing when three farms close by were in flames. He said it and meant it and he saved the day. At 3 o'clock he was still there and his men held their own. At 4 o'clock the German fire slackened a little and an infantry attack was pushed forward. That evening the French guns were occupying the positions which the German guns had held all day. The general had held on."

FOOD QUESTION IS A GRAVE ONE IN AUSTRIA—PRICE OF CORN DOUBLE AND GOING UP

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The food question is a grave one in Austria, according to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Vienna, Switzerland. An Austrian emperor has issued an edict empowering the government to take all measures necessary to alleviate the situation. The price of corn is double that of normal times and is increasing at the rate of three per cent. daily.

German and Austrian dealers are traveling in neutral countries, the despatch says, trying to buy corn and announcing at the same time that it is intended for other countries. Italy has demanded that the fullest guarantees be given that corn purchased there is not to go to Austria.

Roumania's embargo on the export of corn has caused consternation in Austria, according to the despatch and it is said that Austria is now making desperate efforts to get wheat from the United States, but the blockade of the Adriatic makes relief from this quarter doubtful. The shortage of food is also felt in the German army, the despatch declares.

AVIATOR LINCOLN BEACHEY GIVES REMARKABLE EXHIBITION AT BROCKTON FAIR

BROCKTON, Oct. 1.—New England day at the Brockton fair, always one of the biggest and best days of the famous outdoor show, was marred yesterday by continual morning rains, which lasted just long enough to keep most of the out-of-town thousands away, but before the noon the sun came out. By this time, however, people living some distance away from the city had given up hope of attending the fair.

The noon trains from Boston, however, brought thousands of visitors here. Their confidence in the management was such that they felt that the such was not to be availed and the program would go on. Despite the bad weather, the horse show was started early, and as soon as the track was in shape the harness races were started, but owing to the lateness of the hour, only one race was finished.

Beachey, the big attraction, went into the air and kept the crowd on its feet for six minutes. The vaudeville acts were given on wet and slippery stages. The midway was the same as if it had never rained. Sports were held in the oval, and on the cinder track. Not a single feature of the big show was omitted because of the weather, but the rain did dampen the thrills on the entire show.

His aircraft wholly repaired following yesterday's accident, Lincoln Beachey again flirted with death by performing some stunts that were not on the program yesterday. This intrepid birdman showed the fair patrons the triple loop and twice upside down, the second time going the entire length of the grounds.

Beachey started from the south end of the oval just before 3 o'clock and was in the air six minutes. But he made the time count. After rising to a height of about 1000 feet, he circled the track three times and then rose higher and flew over the grounds toward Forest avenue. Upon his return he executed a single loop over the athletic score boards opposite the grandstand. He then swung south of the grounds, rose to a height of about 1000 feet and flew directly over the horse barns, executed his triple somersault. This was followed by flying upside down over the race track, after which he did a single loop, flew upside down once more and then landed like a bird in the oval, while thousands of people crowded around and cheered. The flight was notable because there was a strong wind blowing across the grounds.

Beachey intended to make another flight at 5 o'clock, but the management had seen a wonderful performance and decided that comparatively few would be at the grounds at that hour.

AIRSHIP AMERICA

Secured by British, Will be Used for War Service, it is Said

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The mammoth aeroplane America, with which Lieut. Porte had expected to fly across the Atlantic, was shipped to England yesterday aboard the steamer Mauretania, and it is said will be used by the British government for war service.

The America, said to be the world's most powerful aeroplane, was tested at Hampton, N. Y., last summer before the European war crisis caused a postponement of the proposed flight.

On one occasion the America flew with 10 men and a quantity of gasoline aboard, her lift approximating 2000 pounds. She was equipped with two 100-horsepower engines and plans were in the making to add

PUBLIC MARKET FOR THE CITY OF LOWELL

Question to Appear on Ballot at
State Election as Result of Bill
Dennis A. Murphy

Will Lowell have a public market? This question will appear on the ballot at the state election and great interest is being manifested at this time. The farmers are in favor of a public market. That much was ascertained at a hearing held at city hall, April 9, 1913. The Lowell board of trade had addressed a communication to the municipal council and the hearing was on the communication. About all of the granges in the vicinity of Lowell were represented, and while grange members and others differed somewhat in their views as to what should constitute a public market, they were all in favor of it. Nothing tangible, however, was arrived at. The matter stood at a standstill until Rep. Dennis A. Murphy took the matter up and introduced a bill in the legislature providing that the matter be submitted to the people of Lowell at the state election this year. The act is contained in chapter 153 of the acts and resolves and reads as follows:

An Act to Authorize the City of Lowell to Acquire and Rent Suitable Structures for a Municipal Market.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. The city of Lowell is hereby authorized to take land and buildings, or to acquire the same by purchase or otherwise, or to build structures on land owned or acquired by the said city, and to rent any such land or structures for use as a municipal market.

Section 2. The damages occasioned by the taking of lands, easements or rights under the authority of this act shall be determined in the same manner as in the case of the taking of land for highway purposes.

Section 3. This act shall be submitted to the voters of the city of Lowell at the annual state election in the current year, and shall take effect upon the official ballot in the following form: "Shall the city of Lowell acquire or rent suitable structures for a municipal market?"

(Approved March 11, 1914.)

At the hearing held last year, several suggestions were offered by men representing the granges, and others. It was called to the attention of the municipal council that a great many cities throughout the country had public markets and that the markets were giving good satisfaction.

One of the suggestions offered at the hearing was that the city should prepare a building and rent stalls. The idea seemed quite general that the market ought not to be in the open; that the farmers ought not to be obliged to cover and uncover their produce. One man said that the peddlers were getting the cream because they were allowed to go from door to door and he suggested that the peddlers, too, should be obliged to use the public market.

One man offered a very original idea. He suggested that the Suffolk canal be covered and used as a public market between Moody and Merrimack streets, with entrances from Hanover and Suffolk streets. Some of the council members were inclined to look upon this as a very feasible plan, but there was some doubt as to whether the locks and canals would sanction it.

The board of trade will renew its interest in the public market scheme next week, when the committee on municipal affairs will take the matter up. The committee will meet on Wednesday. The question, however, is up to the voters to decide and it seems to be quite the general belief that a majority of the voters will favor a public market.

BERLIN CLAIMS ALLIES REPULSED AT ALBERT

Today's German Casualty List Contains Names of 8000 Officers and Men Killed, Wounded or Missing

Belgians Repulse Attack of Germans on Antwerp
—German Warship Attacks Land Positions of Japanese—Japanese Sink German Torpedo-boat Destroyer—Germans Bombard Russian Seaport—Food Famine in Austria Feared—Germans Continue Fierce Attack on Allies in Angle Formed by Rivers Oise and Aisne—A New Russian Army of 1,000,000 Men Joins Forces in Poland

Slight advances by both wings of the allies are indicated in an official statement issued by the French war office at 2.45 o'clock this afternoon. At the same time the general situation is described as unchanged.

We have, nevertheless, says the statement, made progress on our left to the north of Somme and on our right in the southern Woevre district.

The brief announcement from Paris affords the only light from official sources thrown on the great struggle in northern France today. London and Berlin were still silent in the late afternoon and what unofficial reports reached this country by way of the capitals of the belligerents contained little to indicate the course of events on the different battlefields. Not since the war began has the censorship been so severe.

The latest Berlin announcement made last night said that the allies had been repulsed at Albert, 18 miles northeast of Amiens and that the German attack in Argonne was progressing steadily though slowly. The most recent word from the Belgian war office, also given out last night stated that the Belgians were successfully repulsing the attack of the Germans on Antwerp.

Fighting in the Far East has begun in earnest with an attack by the German warships on the land positions of the Japanese, who are besieging Tsing Tau in furtherance of their campaign against the district of Kiao Choy, in China.

An official statement issued at Tokio today says that Japanese alexander sunk a German torpedo boat destroyer and that a Japanese mine sweeper was sunk off the harbor and a Japanese supply ship damaged. The statement gives the impression that the battle continues without definite result thus far.

Nothing is made known of the progress of the fighting in the eastern theatre of the war today. A news despatch from Petrograd under yesterday's date says that a German squadron bombarded Wladou, a Russian seaport in the Baltic on Sept. 24. The forts replied to the fire of the ships which after destroying the light-house withdrew.

Despatches from Switzerland state that Austria is confronted with a serious shortage of food supplies.

A Paris correspondent, referring to the events of yesterday, says that the Germans continue a fierce attack on the allies in the angle formed by the rivers Oise and Aisne in the direction of Tracy-Le-Mont. Yesterday's statement by the French war office said that the Germans were repulsed at Tracy-Le-Mont.

A French national committee is appealing for winter clothing for the troops.

A German casualty list, published today, contains the names of 8000 officers and men killed, wounded or missing.

These fragmentary glimpses there appear to be justification in the opinion of British observers for the confident, even seemingly inspired optimism on the part of the allies. This describes events as shaping themselves for a repetition of history as it was written on the river Marne when the allied forces sent the Germans back on their tracks.

All the brilliantly skilful tactics employed by General von Kluck, the commander of the German right wing, to counter or break through the band of bayonets constantly reaching northward beyond his extreme right has thus failed.

Germans to Reinforce Right Wing

These attempts, however, have by no means ceased, and the German general staff, it is felt in London, probably will risk something elsewhere in order to reinforce this wing before the end of the chapter is written. Heretofore reinforcements have been met by reinforcements in this critical quarter of the battlefield.

The Germans nearly got through the allied ring near Albert, to the north-east of Amiens, but after two days of fierce struggle for the mastery, they failed. These incessant assaults on the part of the Germans, have, according to the allied commanders, whose reports are augmented by statements from independent sources, cost the assailants such appalling losses in men that even allowing for reinforcements their ranks must have been materially weakened.

The announcement from France, of the recreation of the post of marshal of France coming simultaneously with the report of General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French forces, of the satisfactory condition along the entire battle line, has been hailed by the allies as particularly significant.

In the eastern field the German navy is showing increased activity on the Baltic coast. It is in readiness to support German land forces if they succeed in forcing the passage of the river Nieman.

In the meanwhile, there has come to

Third Edition GERMANS BOMBARDED FORTS AT ANTWERP

Belgians Replied So Effectively That Attacking Forces Were Compelled to Change Position of Batteries

LONDON, Oct. 1, 5.04 p. m.—A despatch to the Evening News from Antwerp says that the German attack on Antwerp continued throughout last night with little interruption. The Belgian forts replied so effectively that the Germans several times were compelled to change the position of their batteries.

The correspondent at Antwerp adds:

The Wavre-St. Catherine forts remained silent for some time yesterday afternoon leading the Germans to believe that their bombardment had silenced them. The Germans then sent a section with field artillery to attack the forts, only to find themselves under fire. Only a few of the attacking force escaped. Following this the Belgians made a sortie and captured several guns.

WANT THAT FISHWAY AFTER THE COMMISSION—WILL SEE GOVERNOR

The Lowell Fish and Game association will meet next Tuesday evening, when further action will be taken relative to the restoration of the fishway at Pawtucket falls. The committee appointed to wait on the governor and his council for the purpose of discussing the fishway matter has everything in readiness. The conference has been delayed on account of the accident to the governor. The committee had arranged to go to Boston, but on Monday a day or two before the time for the meeting that the governor was his arm.

Certain members of the local association do not take any too kindly to the fish and game commission on account of the commission's position in the fishway matter, the commission contending that there is little use of establishing a fishway when there is no fish in the river. The commission says that the absence of fish in the river is due to the mills; that the mills pollute the water.

In offsetting this argument the local man calls attention to the fact that there were plenty of fish in the Merrimack river, including salmon, twenty-five years ago, and that there were almost as many mills then as there are today. They claim that the reason why the fish do not frequent the river as of yore is because of the absence of the fishway at the falls.

Quite a number of fish have been distributed in the Merrimack river within the last year and the ponds and brooks in and about Lowell are better stocked today than for many years. Harry Gonvalves reported today that the 250,000 white perch put in Crystal lake are doing well. He has seen schools of them and he says they average from 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 inches.

CITY ELECTION

No Change Can be Made in the Primary Hours This Year

There has been more or less discussion relative to primary election hours and the belief seems to obtain that the primary election this year can be made to coincide with the secondary election in the matter of hours. This, however, cannot be made to come to pass this year for the charter states that "at every preliminary election the polls shall be opened at twelve o'clock noon, and shall not be closed before eight o'clock in the evening."

The matter of keeping the primary polls open during precisely the same hours that regular election polls are—from 6 a. m. to 4 p. m.—was discussed when the new charter was in the process of formation, and men who had to do with the framing of the charter said they believed the hours of the primaries and election should be the same. The fact, however, remains that the hours were not changed. Everybody knows that the evening closing of the polls makes the returns deplorably slow in arriving and the count is not completed until early morning.

LADIES' AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

Ladies auxiliary, A. O. H., held a final meeting at A. O. H. hall last evening to complete all arrangements for the banquet to be held on Tuesday evening, Oct. 6, at 8 o'clock in honor of the 20th anniversary of the division.

The patrons of the Merrimack Square theatre last night crowded the auditorium and, by their applause, showed their high appreciation of the fine work of the popular stock company.

ENGLISH CHILDREN IN WAR

(Correspondence of The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 29.—English children are playing a prominent part in the present war and manifest greater enthusiasm than many of their elders. Some extreme peace advocates express regret that youth should display such a militant spirit, but many prominent educators and churchmen rejoice in the interest children are displaying in England's fight and are taking steps to give all children in schools, Sunday schools and churches proper instruction concerning the history and progress of the war.

One prominent bishop recently advised that every child in England should be taught to thank God for every meal for the British navy, which has made it possible for Englishmen to have an uninterrupted food supply.

The young son of a prominent English official recently told his governess that if God let the Kaiser get into Paris, he would know there was no God and quit saying his prayers. And the little chap's sister, on being twitted because she was a girl and could not go to war, retorted: "When I grow up I shall be a soldier's sweetheart and I will make him fight."

LOCAL AMATEUR PLAYS

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE ALUMNI GAVE DRAMATIC PERFORMANCE IN NASHUA

A group of local amateurs, all members of St. Joseph's college alumni, scored a great hit in Nashua, N. H., last night, when they presented the four-act drama entitled "Le Comptable," and the one-act comedy, "Avec un peu de laurier." The presentation was given in the parish school hall of the infant Jesus parish, for the benefit of the church, and was largely attended.

It was through the efforts of Edmund S. Desmarais of this city, a close friend of the pastor, Rev. G. J. A. Jutra, that the entertainment was given, and the young man was well repaid for his troubles, for the financial end of the performance was very gratifying, while the production of both plays could not have been better.

The trip to the New Hampshire city was made by automobiles graciously furnished by the following Lowells: Frank Bland, John B. Morin, Joseph Albert, Antoine Dragon, Paul Vigeant, Charles Barret and E. S. Desmarais. Present at the performance from this city were Melville W. P. Calise, Jr., E. S. Desmarais, Frank Bland, C. E. Barret, B. J. Laroche and Mr. and Mrs. Edouard Tetreault.

Those who took part in the presentation of the plays were as follows: W. P. Calise, Jr., Arthur Giroux, Geo. Doherty, E. J. Dupont, A. D. Lamouroux, A. L. Eno, Esq., E. S. Desmarais, George Lehoucq, J. A. N. Chretien, J. B. Richard, W. A. Dragon, Housier Gaudin, Edmund Bailey, Achille Gaudin, Eugene Bland, Paul Choquette, Napoleon Vigeant, Herve Drapenau, Arthur Drapenau, Leo Giroux and E. J. Laroche. Rev. Bro. Bouchard, principal of St. Joseph's college of this city, was stage director and to his untiring efforts is due the success of the entertainment.

At the close of the performance the Lowell people were the guests of the pastor, Rev. Fr. Jutra, who entertained a delightful party. Luncheon was served and a social hour followed.

THE RABBIT'S FOOT

ROUND SHOULDERS

It is rather depressing to watch the long procession of rounded shoulders everywhere one looks on the city streets.

The general appearance of one afflicted with round shoulders and flat chest is quite familiar to the observer. The head projects forward, the shoulders droop, and the chest is narrow and flat. The shoulder blades stick out prominently and the abdomen protrudes. Children with round shoulders are as a rule below the average in muscular development and lack vigor, are clumsy in their movements and walk heavily.

There are three kinds of round shoulders--the ordinary round back, the round hollow back, and the round back due to forward displacement of the shoulders. During the years of growth, posture will usually take care of itself, if constant changes are allowed.

Change is instinctive and automatic in the child and the varied activities are sufficient to lead it along normal lines. If, from inherent weakness or the confinement of school life without the relief of games and play, this normal development be hindered, the result will soon show in the spine.

The causes of round shoulders are those general conditions which produce muscular or constitutional weakness, like rapid growth, overwork, bad air in schools or the home, acute illness, unhygienic surroundings or general lack of exercise. It is probable that a weakness of the will is a more important cause than weakness of the muscles.

Round shoulders are not likely to be outgrown, as the victims usually become permanently and structurally set in the faulty position, with flattened chest walls and distorted figures.

"NAP-A-MINIT"

Take a good look at these pictures--they tell the story of TWO KINDS OF DENTISTRY. The left hand picture is of a man being treated in the old, harsh method employed to this day by many dentists. Note the rigid position of the patient as he sits upright, gripping the doctor's arm, hindering him in his work, and making his body pain necessarily greater. Every nerve in his body is on edge--every muscle tense--he is indeed the personification of fear and pain. THIS IS DENTISTRY AS I DO NOT DO IT.

Now turn to the picture on your right. Here you see restfulness and relaxation, a patient that feels no pain, yet is in control of every other sense. He can talk and hear and watch the doctor, unhindered, do his very best work. This is an example of DENTISTRY AS I DO PRACTISE IT.

This is what "Nap-a-Minit" has done for all my PATENTS. "Nap-a-Minit" is a positive pain destroyer and absolutely eliminates all pain in dentistry. With its use, one may have teeth and roots extracted, nerves removed, cavities prepared and filled, crowns and bridge-work inserted and every conceivable kind of dental operation performed without the slightest fear or dread because IT WILL NOT HURT.

Now that you have seen the two pictures and know the story that they tell, it is up to you to CHOOSE if you have dental work to be done. Will you have pain and harsh treatment or will you have "Nap-a-Minit" and no pain at all? There is little doubt about your answer, and when you come here you will find the greatest service and value-giving dental offices in New England.

SHOOTING OF PHEASANTS

Local Hunters Getting Ready for Big Game—Deer Season Opens in Maine

If you have been out in the country within the last few days you probably have heard the popping of guns; not the fierce fighting guns of the Germans or the allies, but just plain "hunting pieces," and they do tell that the war being waged by the hunters is not a legal one.

The law has declared war on the pheasants, but the war is not supposed to begin until Oct. 12. Some hunters, however, are accused of having opened war on these charming birds more than a week ago. These hunters, it is claimed, did not ask permission to cross neutral territory, but went any old place where a pheasant showed its head.

The shooting of pheasants before Oct. 12 is a dangerous proceeding and quite a heavy penalty attaches if the hunters should fall into the hands of the wardens. There are those who claim that the game wardens or their deputies are not doing their whole duty. One man said today that while at Crystal Lake a few days ago he heard considerable shooting in the woods and he supposed that hunters were after pheasants.

It has been said that foreigners who go into the woods are not familiar with the game laws. This may be true in some cases but the fact remains that a great many foreigners apply at the city clerk's office for hunting licenses and about all of them, it is stated, are quite familiar with the Massachusetts fish and game laws.

The fall hunters are beginning to take out their licenses now and they are all talking pheasants. It seems almost a pity to kill so beautiful a bird as the pheasant but, hunters are hunters, and law is law. Every fellow in Lowell who is in the habit of carrying a gun into the woods is polishing up the barrel for the pheasant season. If the poor birds could be made to understand that the law would not protect them for one month they would probably devise ways and means to get out of the way. They might employ Germans to build entrenchments for them.

The men who are looking forward with the glad expectation of the hunter to the day when the law will relax its hold on the pheasant have picked their hunting grounds in advance. Each and every one of them knows just where to find a flock of pheasants and a good many disappointments are looked for inasmuch as the whereabouts of a certain flock is known to more than one hunter.

No hunter, if he observes the law, will take more than two pheasants in one day or more than six in one season. The open season, as heretofore stated, is from Oct. 12 to Nov. 12, inclusive, in the counties of Barnstable, Norfolk, Middlesex, Essex, Worcester, Hampden and Berkshire. Only shotguns can be used and each killing must be reported in writing to the state fish and game commission within 24 hours, stating day, town, number and sex killed.

Open Deer Season

The open deer season in Maine began today and the weather was all that the heart of the hunter could desire. The law remains off about ten weeks.

There is an abundance of deer in the state, according to reports received at the fish and game commissioner's office, and as many moose as at any time during the last five years. Moose hunting, by the way, is legal during the 30 days of November only.

Partridges are unusually plentiful. The experienced sportsman needs no advice at this time, but it seems necessary, year after year, to warn the amateur to exercise extreme caution while handling firearms in the woods.

Don't blaze away toward moving underbrush!

Never shoot until you see what you are shooting at.

Rebelling fluttering leaves and swaying branches may be a fellow man.

The prevention of all accidents is impossible, of course, but there should be none in autumn of 1914 due to gross carelessness or recklessness.

The deer season in Massachusetts opens at sunrise on the third Monday of November and remains open until sunset on the following Saturday.

usual characteristic clean-cut business way, he quickly established himself in a strong position, carrying out the business of the company on aggressive business lines calculated to give satisfaction to his superior officers, and at the same time making it possible for the operatives in the mill to earn the fullest amount of wages possible, consistent with efficient manufacturing.

He made such a remarkably good showing that, the following January, Treasurer Fairbanks placed the Clifton Mill also under Mr. Wadley's charge, where again the results have been very gratifying. Mr. Wadley was able by his personal influence to bring the two mills closely together, playing the strongest class of team work to get results.

During the late Treasurer Fairbanks' sickness, still further responsibilities were put upon Mr. Wadley's shoulders, but once more he was ready to show himself able to carry the burden, and after the death of the treasurer, his advice in connection with the general running of the business was sought by the directors of the company.

In considering Mr. Wadley's progress in the United States, it is interesting to note what hard work, application of detail, and research, backed by logical reasoning and unswerving purpose, can do in so short a time.

Mr. Wadley is in the early thirties, and was born in Kildermister, England. He came to Canada in 1905, where he secured a position with the Brinton Carpet Company, a branch of an English carpet manufacturing concern. There, as in his experience with the Bigelow Carpet Company, his ability and forcefulness quickly got him to the front, and within two years of his joining the Brinton people, changes in their organization came about and he was appointed manager, in charge of the manufacturing and selling, and the business developed and grew in his hands.

The Canadian Dry Goods Review of March, 1911, in an article on the carpet trade, speaking of Mr. Wadley, says, in part: "He threw out all the old designs and reorganized the business; he gave lectures on the 'House Beautiful'; he visited the customers to find out their wants, and supplied them; he surrounded himself with many men and women whom he entrusted with his own opinions; he scoured Europe for new ideas, and created new designs; he impressed his working people with his sense of equity and justice, and they trusted him—with a result that he turned a losing industry into a paying one, and increased his hands a hundred per cent. This is competency."

Asked as to what his plans are for the future, Mr. Wadley stated that he did not wish to discuss future plans at the present time; that he was planning to take a short vacation first. Mr. Wadley is probably one of the best posted men in the states today on carpet fabrics, both domestic and foreign.

It is understood W. Lyford of Thompsonville, son-in-law of A. D. Higgins, vice-president of the company, has been appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mr. Wadley.

The day is one of solemn contemplation on the past, present and future, with prayers for guidance and help.

Files Papers for Alderman and Will Make Hot Fight

Newell P. Putnam, former superintendent of streets, has taken out his nomination papers for alderman. Mr. Putnam is the first and only one to file nomination papers up to date and his friends declare that he will make as lively a campaign as Lowell has witnessed for many a long day. Mr. Putnam has never qualified as a public speaker, either in hall or at street corner, but he allows there are ways of campaigning other than orating from soap boxes or lunch carts.

Other candidates whose names are mentioned in the aldermanic fight, but who have not yet taken out nomination papers, include Andrew E. Barrett, W. W. Duncan, James F. Mitchell, Abel R. Campbell, John Daley, Jeremiah Connors, Harry Clapp, Herbert L. Chapman, James Gallagher and Charles J. McKenzie.

B. & M. R. R. OBJECTS

WILL NOT ACCEPT THE NEW HAMPSHIRE FREIGHT RATES—WANT A REHEARING

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 1.—The Boston & Maine railroad has notified the New Hampshire public service commission that it will not accept the schedule of freight rates which was framed by the commission and which has been on trial by the railroad.

By the terms of the act of the legislature of 1913, the public service commission was to frame a schedule, the railroad was to try its operation until Oct. 1 and then either accept it or return to the rates in force prior to the consolidations of 1883 and 1889.

The determination of the railroad to return to the old rates is based on the decision of the supreme court in Clough and Martin against the railroad, whereby the railroad is allowed to fix such rates upon any commodity as in the aggregate shall not be higher than the aggregate of the rates charged upon the commodity prior to the consolidation.

The Boston & Maine has also asked the public service commission for a rehearing in the matter of the commission's refusal to allow an increase in mileage book passenger rates.

If the commission does not change its decision in this matter, the railroad will take an appeal to the supreme court, where the case will be heard in connection with the pending appeal of the Maine Central railroad from the decision of the commission, requiring it to issue 500-mile books at $10, the same rate which the Boston & Maine now seeks to raise.

ENDORSED BY WILSON

PRESIDENT FAVORS SENATORS SHIPLEY AND CHAMBERLIN FOR REELECTION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—President Wilson today opened his letter writing campaign for the election of democratic senators and representatives. He wrote letters endorsing Senator Shipley of Indiana and Senator Chamberlin of Oregon.

Others will be written in the near future.

In his letter to Senator Owen endorsing Senator Chamberlin, the president declared that the maintenance of the democratic majority in the senate is of the utmost importance to the country if the present policies and program of the government are to be sustained and continued and I take it for granted that voters everywhere will feel the force of that motive.

Secretary Bryan today announced he would speak during the campaign not only in Ohio but also in Indiana and Nebraska. He said he had not considered speaking in Illinois but added that he probably would speak in accordance with the wishes of the democratic congressional committee.

To a request from Senator Pomerene that he speak in this, President Wilson declared that he was in no position to go on the stump. He told the senator he felt he must remain actively at the head of the government in Washington.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Michael Haggerty and Miss Catherine O'Brien, both popular young residents of this city, were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the rectory of St. Michael's church, by Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor. The bride party assembled at the home of the bride's uncle, Mr. Timothy McNamara, of 449 Gorham street, shortly before 5 o'clock and journeyed to the church. After the ceremony a reception was held at 15 Chase street, the future home of the young couple. A wedding supper was served with a large number of relatives and friends present. Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty received many beautiful and useful gifts. They departed early in the evening for New York city and will be at home at 16 Chase street after an extended wedding tour.

A special new program will delight Sunday patrons. On Monday and Tuesday of next week, King Baggot will be shown in "The Man Who Was Undershot," while Mary Pickford, another favorite, will appear in "Mr. Burglar, M. D." The third feature for these days is "Brother Against Brother," a thrilling war drama. "The Trey of Hearts," one of the greatest series of photoplays ever made, will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday, together with a Sterling masterpiece comedy in two parts, "The Shooting Match."

ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

Just contrary to the system of Geo. Stallings is the method used by Connie Mack. In the game with the Senators yesterday the Athletics were represented by substitutes for the most part while the regulars took a layoff. The series will possibly tell which man has the better judgment.

The Federal league race is once more tightening up. Indianapolis is only one and a half games behind the Chicago Tiptops. Joe Tinker's club could do nothing with Cy Falkenberg yesterday who shut out the loaders by a 3-0 score. These two clubs are playing to tremendous crowds.

The Red Sox are certain to finish second in the American league race, the Senators being as far behind Cardigan's team as the Athletics in front. With a better start at the season's opening the Red Sox would be in the running for the flag if not well in the lead.

Heinie Wagner, for years the idol of Boston fans as captain and shortstop of the Red Sox, will have charge of Providence next season. It has been announced, "Wild" Bill Donovan, formerly one of the best fingers in the American league and manager of Providence last season, will succeed Frank Chance in the Tankee camp.

The national commission decided yesterday to play off the first world series game on Friday, instead of Thursday as was at first intimated. That will give Boston a game on Monday and Tuesday, Monday being Columbus day there will probably be one of the largest crowds at Fenway park that ever witnessed a ball game.

Joe Cronin did a very creditable job in his handling of the last two amateur ball games at Spaulding park. Few people realize the difficulties which arise for a decision maker in an amateur game. The ump's cannot fine a man nor inflict any hardship upon him when he grows abusive. It's a tough job, Joe, and you have our sympathy.

Connolly did some sticking yesterday. Out of four times at bat in the first game the Braves' left fielder hit safely three times for a total of four. In the second game he did even better. He was up five times and smacked the ball for two singles and two triples. The Boston fans are looking toward Connolly for some slugging during the series.

The Saco-Lowell Bowling league are getting in readiness for their season's activities and all of the teams in the organization are eager for the start. Kittredge's alleys on the 3d floor, have been engaged by this league for each Monday night up to the end of the league's schedule. There were some local bowlers in this circuit last season and Secretary Collins predicts even a faster season this year.

The fast stopping of the grand circuit's paces keeps up to the promise of the season's start. A world's record tell by the wayside yesterday when Dickerson I was pushed all the way by William and crossed the judges' line of vision in 1.58 in the first heat. The second heat was nearly as fast. It was the first time that William had ever tasted defeat. The record previous to yesterday was held by Frank Bozeman and made at Detroit about two weeks ago. If the "trickers" keep at it the mile mark may go still lower.

Manager Stallings wouldn't be a misfit at the European battlefield, judging from his work yesterday. He showed down right cruelty by humbling the Giants in their own back yard, driving Tesreau off the rubber in the first game. In the second contest of the duo affair the best the Braves could get was a drawer, which under the circumstances, was plenty. It wouldn't be at all surprising to see the club win all of their games from now on.

Lover's Dispute Over
Girl Aired

The case of Hipoliti Buslewicz, who was arrested last week on the charge of arson, came up today on a continuance but was once more continued. Two additional complaints were made today against Buslewicz.

The Concordia Insurance company of Milwaukee and the New Jersey Insurance company of Newark, in which Buslewicz was insured through W. E. Dodge, their local representative, charged that the defendant did attempt to defraud them. All of the complaints were put over until Oct. 11. The bail for the defendant was lowered from $5000 to $1000.

Milk Inspector's Cases

Two more examples of the milk inspector's activity appeared when George Leblanc and Herman F. Pansut were arraigned for selling milk below the standard. Both men were fined $10.

Fine of $50

Catherine O'Connor, upon whose premises the police made a liquor seizure recently, was charged with the illegal sale of liquor and was fined $50. The first offender's penalty, a fine of $10.

John's Lover's Revenge

"She loves me, she loves me not," quoth John J. Barreira to himself one day last June and then proceeded to pound his successful rival over the cranium with a club. The club proved harder than the cranium and Dr. John's man was in court to testify as to the result of the fall which was received by John Nunes, the winner of the hand of the fair maiden in dispute. As soon as he had completed his stroke of revenge upon the head of

John, the assailant swiftly shook the dust of Lowell from his garments and fled him with great rapidity to Buffalo. It was safer, thought John J., to leave this part of the country for a while at least.

Now John J.'s diagnosis of the situation was absolutely correct but he slipped up on one particular. He should have taken up a permanent residence elsewhere. But still John J. was in love with the girl who loved John and he returned yesterday upon his return here and was arraigned today on a charge of assault and battery upon John. Worst of all from the prisoner's viewpoint there was the maiden right on side of John and all ready to testify in behalf of the government. John J. pleaded not guilty. But he didn't.

The trial proceeded in a halting manner due to the use of an interpreter. The interpreter himself acted as though he needed help on several occasions. However, it was finally straightened out, and Judge Wright ordered John J. to come across with $25 and find a bond of $200 by which taken he is to keep the peace and be of good behavior. Judge Wright was in the employ of Michael P. Murphy and grew very fond of the carpenter tools he was handling. In fact he grew so exceedingly affectionate with them that they seemed just like his own. A warrant for larceny brought him out of his trance.

The defendant has spent rather a varied career, according to the police records and Judge Wright could not find any extenuating features about the case. He was sentenced to serve two months in the house of correction.

Another larceny case tried today was that of Albert Therrain, who acknowledged going into a foreigner's shop yesterday afternoon and stealing a $5 sweater. The defendant is not yet out of his teens.

The boy's father interceded for him and saved him from summary justice at the hands of the court. The young fellow did not seem to be particularly impressed with his predicament and even grinned as he made his way toward the probation office. Judge Wright fined him $12 and told him that if he did not go to work and pay the fine that he would send him to the house of correction.

FELL FOUR STORIES

CHILD AT HOSPITAL MAY DIE OF HIS INJURIES—SKULL FRAC-TURED

James Spanos, 18 months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Spanos of 25 Decatur street, was probably fatally injured this noon when he fell from the fourth story of the building. The little fellow is suffering from a fractured skull and the physicians at the Lowell hospital, to which the boy was removed, entertain very little hope for his recovery.

As far as could be learned, shortly after 12 o'clock today the boy was playing on the piazza while the mother was engaged in her household duties. He went too near the opening of the stairs and tumbled down a few steps. His shouts attracted the attention of the mother, who rushed to the piazza just in time to see her son roll from the stairs into the open. The little fellow landed on the concrete yard headfirst.

The child was carried into the office of Undertaker Amadeo Archambault, next door, and Dr. L. V. Rodette was summoned in haste. The physician tendered the child first aid and under his advice the boy was removed to the Lowell hospital.

RAILWAY CONFERENCE ANTI-TRUST PROGRAM

NO RESULT REPORTED—BARNMEN TO BE CLASSED UNDER NEW AGREEMENT

The conference between the committee representing the employees of the Bay State Street Railway and the company officials was resumed in Boston this afternoon as no agreement was reached at yesterday's session. The new agreement was to go into effect today in this city and 15 other cities throughout the system but it seems that the agreement prepared by the employees' committee was not acceptable to the Bay State company, which asked that there be many modifications made.

The decision of the Bay State men awaited with no little interest by local street railway employees. When the present agreement was adopted, there were no provisions made for the barnmen, but in the agreement now under consideration, several articles appear concerning the classification of the barn men, including the number of hours that they shall be employed and the wages they shall receive. President Fred Crowley of the local union is attending the conference again today.

GRASP THE OPPORTUNITY

W. P. G. Harding Confident the Americans Will Take Advantage of Flow of Business

LENOX, Oct. 1.—"I firmly believe that American people and American energy are going to reassert themselves, and that American farmers, merchants, bankers and manufacturers will co-operate with their government and with each other in solving present problems, and that they will put themselves in a position to grasp the opportunities that the future is bound to offer."

With this expression of confidence W. P. G. Harding, a member of the federal reserve board, concluded an address before the semi-annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers last night.

After referring to the disarrangement to the cotton industry caused by the European war Mr. Harding said: "Sooner or later, however, even should the war continue, the level of the obstruction will be reached and the flow of business, except in some of the countries actually engaged in war, will again become normal. Restoration of peace would act as a removal of obstructions and would release a large volume of business now being held back, so that we are justified, if we look ahead, in taking a more cheerful view of conditions which appear at this time to be depressing."

"Cotton goods are the cheapest of all articles and should replace during hard times finer and more expensive fabrics. There is no reason to doubt that the trade will ultimately absorb the world's production."

Mr. Harding spoke of the great cotton production in the south this year and of the agitation for curtailment in acreage next year, and added:

"No well informed man on southern conditions will deny that further dilapidation in southern farming is desirable. But it would be most unfortunate if, by any chance, the production of cotton next year should be so small as to make the trade dependent upon the present crop for the greater portion of two years' supply. I shall endeavor to hazard any guesses as to the probable consumption of cotton within the next few months, but I will be bold enough to predict that as the season progresses there will be a steadily increasing demand for raw cotton by the mills, with a marked increase in the demand for export. Practically all the obstacles in the way of exports to all foreign countries, except Germany and Austria-Hungary, have been removed."

"I am violating no confidence when I state that rapid progress is now being made in the organization of the federal reserve banks and it is my personal opinion that the system will become effective during the ensuing month. The secretary of the treasury has acted with wonderful celerity throughout the crisis, and he has only the intelligent and unselfish co-operation of the business community, which he confidently expects, to aid him in the speedy restoration of normal financial and commercial conditions throughout this country. The tremendous waste incident to war, of course, he felt all over the world, and losses will inevitably ensue, but there is no reason why those losses should not be so uniformly distributed that they will not fall with crushing force upon any section or upon any industry."

LAWRENCE CITY PHYSICIAN ADVOCATES PERMITS FOR MILK DEALERS

LAWRENCE, Oct. 1.—City Physician George W. Dow advocated at the regular session of the board of health yesterday that all milk producers sending milk into Lawrence whether directly or through a dealer should be required to have a permit issued by the local board of health.

Dr. Dow declared that at present not more than one-third of the milk produced was known to the board of health and that such a regulation would tend to facilitate the board's work in handling the milk traffic.

YOUNG CHAUFFEUR ARRESTED IN BOSTON GARAGE—$11,890 RECOVERED

EVERETT, Oct. 1.—Louis Cega, alias Samuel Elpart, a chauffeur, 24 years old, was arrested yesterday afternoon in a Boston garage by Lieut. Edgar T. Palmer of the Everett police on a charge of robbing the wife of his employer in this city of $16,697 on Aug. 30. The police found on his person a big roll of bills amounting to $11,890 and 72 cents in change.

The woman whom he robbed was Mrs. William Pray of 3 Locust Park, West Everett. When put through examination by Chief of Police William E. Hill at police headquarters here last night, Cega, it is alleged, confessed to the crime and made a full statement of the affair.

Cega had been employed by Mr. Pray as chauffeur for two months prior to the robbery. On Aug. 23 Mrs. Pray withdrew from a Boston bank $16,697 and took the money to her home. Cega assisted her in counting the money and saw her put it away in the closet of her bedroom in a small tin box.

The next day Cega disappeared and the money was missing. No report of the robbery was made to the police and the local officials had no knowledge of it until yesterday. Private detectives were employed by Mr. Pray, who is a mason contractor, with offices on Devonshire street, Boston, and they traced Cega to New York on Sept. 2. He had been tracked since that time and he returned to Boston about two weeks ago.

Yesterday the detective agency believed matters ripe for action and took the matter up with Chief of Police William E. Hill. A warrant was sworn out in the Malden court and the arrest followed.

When Fred Healy was run over by truck

While on his way to the Frost school, Westford, yesterday, Fred Healy, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Healy, fell under the wheels of an automobile truck which was used to transport children residing in the outskirts of the town, to the school and was almost instantly killed. He was rushed to the office of Dr. Wells, but life was extinct.

The auto truck which was driven by Arthur E. Wilson, is used daily to convey the children to and from their homes. It seems that Mr. Wilson was about to take the Healy boy aboard the truck, but before the machine was brought to a stop, he either tripped or fell under the wheels or attempted to jump onto the vehicle and lost his grip.

Y. W. C. A. RALLY

A rally will be held in the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium this evening for the purpose of giving Lowell girls an opportunity to get acquainted with the work that is carried on in the association throughout the winter months. Miss Washburn will act as hostess of the evening while she will have several assistants to entertain the guests.

REASON FOR CLOSING LYNN SCHOOLS, SAYS SUPT. PEASLEE

LYNN, Oct. 1.—The English high school has been closed because, declared Superintendent of Schools Frank Peaslee, the girls came to school half dressed; and requiring them to remain in school "would be conducive to severe colds."

TEXTILE ALUMNI SMOKER PEACE PLANS REJECTED

ENJOYABLE SOCIAL GATHERING IN THE ASSEMBLY HALL—SEVERAL SPEAKERS HEARD

A delightful smoker was held last evening by the Textile Alumni association in the assembly hall of the school with an exceptionally large gathering of alumni as well as undergraduates present.

The event is always an epoch in the school life of the Textile students and has been an annual affair for the past few years. The objective of the smoker was the introduction of the entering class to the members of the other two classes as well as to the alumni.

A. J. Hennigan, the president of the Textile Alumni association, gave a very comprehensive talk of the freshmen on their school life at the Textile and dwelt humorously upon some of the incidents which he experienced while attending the Moody street institution. Mr. Hennigan is the New England representative of the Textile Manufacturers Co. and also gave a very comprehensive talk on the phases of the textile industry which great a graduate of the Textile school.

A. G. Cumock, president of the board of trustees at the Textile school, spoke to the new men of the life upon which they were entering and then proceeded to give a very interesting account of his European experiences after the outbreak of the present war.

Principal Eames welcomed the incoming class for the faculty and explained the intent of the school and its instructors with reference to the students. Short talks were then given by Arthur Varnum and Cecil Deane, sporting editor of The Sun and coach of this year's Textile school football team. The remainder of the evening was devoted to a general good time with formalities cast aside.

CARRANZA TO RESIGN

WITHOUT AWAITING OUTCOME OF PEACE CONFERENCE IS REPORT—CALDERON MAY BE SUCCESSOR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Despatches reaching the consular agency here from Mexico City last night indicate that General Carranza would tender his resignation as first chief of the constitutionalists to the convention of leaders in Mexico City today, without awaiting the outcome of the peace conference about to begin at Zacatecas.

It is understood here, however, that the resignation will delay any steps toward setting up the new provisional government until some word has come from the conference.

In official and diplomatic circles it is believed that the Zacatecas conference will end the revolt of General Villa by approving the choice of Fernando Llanas Calderon as provisional president, and that this action will be followed by Calderon's election by the Mexico City convention.

COLORADO MINE HEAD REFUSES PROPOSAL INDORSED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 1.—J. F. Welborn, president of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, issued a statement yesterday reiterating that the operators of the Colorado coal fields could not accept the peace proposal drawn by Hywell Davies and W. R. Fairley and indorsed by President Wilson.

Mr. Welborn recently discussed with President Wilson the proposal to declare a truce in the Colorado coal strike and is expected to report the result of his conference to the operators at a meeting which probably will be held this week.

Further replies to the president's letters urging acceptance of the Davies-Fairley plan have been sent, it was said, but so far there has been no indication that the mine owners could accept the peace proposal without radical amendments.

MISS "IDEAL" CHAMPION LADYDIVER AND SWIMMER OF THE WORLD APPEARING AT KEITH'S THIS WEEK

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"Miss Ideal," the noted swimmer and diver, and who possesses the nearly ideal figure, will give her address on health and beauty to all women who attend the performance at the B. F. Keith Theatre this afternoon. This is an event not to be overlooked, for "Miss Ideal" knows whereof she speaks, and she is the living example of the rules she has promulgated for the conduct of life. Because she has followed a set regime so carefully for a number of years she is in possession of more strength and health than most women of her sex. Her act gives more than an inkling of the severe strain she is subjected to, for, truthfully, no performer appearing in public works at such high speed or in such a variety of ways as does she. Her diving is a thing of beauty all of the time, and her swimming strokes are played in flawless manner. Another act on the bill which will excite favorable comment is "The Willing Worker," played by Davis and Von Kaufman. And still another winning point is "The Mysterious Will," a complicated comedy which it followed carefully. Hope Vernon, a dainty singer, has more voice. Her register is uncommonly high. Buchanan and Holmes in a singing skit are always good, and Leonard, violinist and zitherist, adds to the good things. Good seats for all performances may be obtained in advance. Phone 23.

THE OPERA HOUSE

There is a complete change in the program opening today and continuing for the balance of the week. "Tom and Jerry" is the title of the new bill and there is nothing but laughs from start to finish. James P. Lee plays the part of an Irish gentleman in this piece, and in this particular character he outshines anything that he has ever done, being compared with Walter C. Kelly who at the present time is starring in the Winter Garden, New York City. Melville Winslow, Homer Long and Marie Barber also appear in the cast in clever parts and with up to date songs and dances. Raymond Teal will be a surprise to a large audience. He has created a riot wherever presented. Mr. Teal is no stranger to the theatre-goers of this city having appeared in the middle west in exhibitions in the latest craze of crazes, the "tango." Seats may be reserved by calling at the Gorton street box office in person, or telephone, 261.

MEHERRICK SQUARE THEATRE

Sam A. Meharry in the role of the husband in "A Fool There Was," which is the attraction this week at the Meherrick Square Theatre. This is far his best work since coming to Lowell. He gives to the role a depth of feeling, while the final act in which he is called upon to display his ability to the fullest degree, he has really surpassed his most ardent followers. As the husband's friend, Wm. B. Freeman is also seen to advantage. It is upon these two that the real heart of the story falls and they hold it in a most convincing way. Other members who appear are Eva March, Eugene Freeman, Robert Lee, Thomas Carroll, Verna Jenkins, and Miss Sadie Gallups who plays the vampire. The staging of the play is also good. Seats now. Next week the greatest laugh in the season in years, "Stop Thief!" will be the offering. By all means see it.

THE OWL THEATRE

In "The Kangaroo" the five-act feature shown at the Owl today, you are treated to something new and original. The disclosures of organization methods of the slavers days, just before the war, form the plot of this marvelous masterpiece. It is thrilling, instructive and altogether wonderful. No better feature is shown this week at any local theatre, and the rest of the program contains many excellent new plays, such as "Granny," "A Mother's Melodrama," comedy, farce and tragedy. "The New Junior," a Keystone with Charles Chaplin and others. You should not miss this show, it's new.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Another corking good program of lumpy feature pictures is the attraction at the Academy of Music today. A little of everything, including melodrama, comedy, farce and tragedy, is represented on this program and each item is a masterpiece in itself.

Tomorrow night is Amateur Night. Every night Saturday afternoon will be the first of a series of special Kandy Concerts for the kiddies. Every boy and girl attending the Saturday matinee will be presented with some delicious confectionery. A special program will be presented for the children and the price of admission for the kiddies on this occasion will be five cents to any part of the house.

TO OPEN TUCKERTON PLANT

Naval Experts Hope to Have Repairs at Wireless Station Completed by Tomorrow or Saturday

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The Tuckerton wireless station, which was put out of commission recently by the burning out of its generator, will resume operations either Friday or Saturday, it was learned at the navy department last night.

The naval experts expect to have the repairs completed by Friday, when it was planned to reopen the station to communicate between the United States and Germany.

GALE HALTS COMMUNICATION

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A Central News dispatch from Copenhagen says that all cable connections between Sweden and Germany have been interrupted as a consequence, it is stated, of the great gale prevailing.

It is reported that Germany has been without any foreign mail since last week. The Danish government is issuing a domestic state loan of approximately $15,000,000.

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

MARIE TELLS HOW TO SPICE FRUITS

"Whatever you are doing, Marie?" chirped Marjorie as she bounced into the kitchen. "Ally, but it smells bully."

"Just spicing some peaches," answered Marie.

"Oh how do you do it? I must learn how and save myself right away. Father would love them. They are just what Marjorie sank down in a chair all out of breath.

"I will gladly tell you how to do peaches and some other spiced fruits, too, if you like," said Marie.

"For the peaches pare yellow ones not too ripe, but do not remove the stones. Make a syrup. For seven pounds of peaches, four pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar and spiced with cloves, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg and ginger root; using all these spices, or but two if you prefer.

"Divide spices and tie up in cheese-cloth and boil in the vinegar and sugar syrup. When syrup boils add the peaches and let them get boiling hot, then take from the fire and let stand over night in a cool place. Next day drain off all syrup and slowly reheat, and again pour over the peaches and allow to remain until next day, then repeat the process for nine days. The last time boil down the syrup until you have just enough to cover

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Continued conferences among the democrats in both houses yesterday gave strong indication of the success of the plan for adjournment of congress by the middle of October. Nearly all majority members of the house, except a few headed by Representative Henry of Texas, are aligned with the movement undertaken by Democratic Leader Underwood, with the approval of President Wilson, to put off the administration ship purchase bill until after the November elections.

The proposal is that the house shall begin recessing three days at a time next week so that most of its members may go to their home districts immediately and that congress shall adjourn about October 15. The ship-ping bill would be taken up as soon as congress reconvenes, either at the regular session in December or at a special session called for the purpose in November.

Republican members of both houses also are in accord with this plan and there is a general determination to maintain quorums so as to carry it through. Representative Underwood said last night he probably would be able in a few days to enter into a pact with Republican Leader Mann, with the necessary unanimous consent for recesses by the houses. This would be a "gentleman's agreement" to take up only routine business after the recesses begin.

Senators of both parties are anxious to co-operate in any movement that will bring relief from legislative cares for a few weeks.

Senator Kern, the majority leader, said the senate would be ready to take a recess or to adjourn within two weeks if a quorum was kept to expedite business.

WAR CHECKS IMMIGRATION

New York Has 22,000 Arrivals in September Compared to 195,504 in Same Month of 1913

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The European war has cut down immigration into the United States to the lowest point in many years, only 22,000 aliens entering the port of New York in September compared with 195,504 this month a year ago on figures obtained yesterday at Ellis Island.

More American refugees arrived during the month than immigrants—about 3,000. Immigration had been falling off, however, before the war began. There was a noticeable decrease in June and July for which the immigration officers said they were unable to account.

Ellis Island, with normal accommodations for 1800 to 2000 persons, is now a temporary home for 200 aliens, about one-third of whom have been ordered deported to Germany, Russia and Austria. Others are under investigation.

TAX RATE COMPARISONS

It is a gratifying fact that papers throughout the state in commenting on the political conditions of various communities are devoting themselves more and more to economic considerations. A general effort seems to be on foot to ascertain if the people in the cities of Massachusetts are getting returns in adequate measure for what they are compelled to pay towards the expenses of city government. With the recent publication of our inflated tax bills, the subject is of far more than usual importance to citizens of Lowell, and all who take any interest in the financial affairs of their city will find food for thought in a comparison of conditions locally with those of other communities.

The Springfield Republican in a recent editorial answer to the boast of the mayor of that city—who had declared that Springfield has a lower tax rate than any other city in the commonwealth with the exception of Beverly—called the attention of the executive to the fact that the per capita tax is of more importance in determining a city's status than the mere tax rate. It quoted a table of tax comparisons which we subjoin in an abbreviated form, retaining those cities which may be fairly compared to Lowell because of population, industrial character or other point of resemblance:

	Tax rate	Per capita Tax payment
Brockton	22.70	21.03
Cambridge	21.40	26.10
Chicopee	18.70	13.85
Everett	23.30	22.13
Fall River	23.20	19.88
Mitchburg	21.00	20.64
Gloucester	22.00	23.37
Haverhill	18.60	17.83
Holyoke	18.80	20.66
Lawrence	18.00	16.72
Lowell	21.90	24.57
Lynn	20.00	20.22
New Bedford	23.20	25.92
Newburyport	20.00	17.10
North Adams	19.10	14.34
Northampton	17.80	16.49
Pittsfield	19.80	24.77
Quincy	22.20	27.55
Salem	20.00	18.06
Somerville	21.10	20.22
Springfield	16.50	33.42
Waltham	18.00	20.21
Worcester	19.60	23.13

A study of this table is far from reassuring to a Lowell citizen. Out of the 23 cities given, 17 have a lower tax rate than Lowell, and 18 have a lower per capita tax. The average per capita is $21.24, beside which the $24.57 of Lowell does not make a good showing. Thus, aside from the fact that our tax rate took its sudden rise during an "economic" regime, we cannot get away from the fact that as compared with like cities of Massachusetts we make a most discreditable showing.

The only thing that could possibly excuse the abnormal tax rate and per capita tax of Lowell would be some unusual civic expenditure which, though costly, would appeal to our population as a good municipal investment. Tax rates, of themselves, mean nothing, for as The Sun has long contended, if a city gets an adequate return for a high tax rate it is better off than the city that gets a slight return for a low tax rate. As the Newburyport Herald remarked in a recent editorial: "It is better to pay a $25 tax rate and get $25 worth of improvements and civic activities than to pay a $15 tax rate and only get $10 value in return."

Applying this truth to local conditions we may well ask: Is Lowell giving its citizens an adequate return for the $21.90 tax rate or for the $24.57 per capita tax payment? If so, where is it to be seen? Since a municipal body pledged to retrenchment went into office, all civic initiative has been most virtuously frowned upon, and the best that can be said of our administration is that it has gone on doing the routine business of conducting a city—and doing it with a greater expenditure than former regimes that gave us something worth while in return. Apologists for the administration—if there are any—may harp insistently on law and order and emotional appeals, but they cannot get away from the tax rate or the fact that we have nothing to show for it.

HARVEY ON WILSON

In a logical, unimpassioned and complete analysis of the Wilson administration in general and of its ruling personality in particular, Col. George Harvey, editor of the North American Review, gave a page article to the Boston Herald last Sunday, which, without glossing over any fault or weakness of the administration, summed up the record of achievement as a personal triumph for the chief executive. "Has President Wilson kept the faith," asks Col. Harvey, and after going into detail concerning the tariff, the currency bill, the income tax, the Mexican situation and the other great influences of the Wilson period, to date, he answers himself, as follows: "Mr. Wilson, as president has justified the great expectations and realized the high hopes of those whose faith was strong in his intellectual and moral attributes. In all large essentials he has, indeed, kept faith with his conscience and the people."

Of the Mexican situation which, in some of its aspects is still unsettled, Col. Harvey says: "The present outcome of President Wilson's conduct of our relations with Mexico calls for special felicitations." He then takes each move of the administration, step by step, blending a small amount of censure with a great deal of commendation, and winds up with the following notable tribute: "The relative parts played by prescience and good fortune in realizing so promising an outcome need not be considered. Rather let full and unshrinking tribute be rendered to the president under whose guidance, in the most stressful and trying of circumstances, it was attained." Of the Mexican situation, of opposition and have induced Americans of all shades of political opinion to confidently leave the solution of the troublesome problems to those directly concerned. Those who lose sight of the skilful handling of Mexican affairs thus far and look at the present status of the distracted country may well feel that hope of anything like constitutional government is vain until revolution and sedition have spent themselves and have lain down from sheer exhaustion.

From dwelling on the many phases of the Mexican situation for a long period many sensible people—including a few editors—seem to forget that it is an American question only very indirectly and that it has been, is now, and must always remain a Mexican problem. America may deplore, may suggest, may threaten, may even resent anything that would menace American interests, but behind it all, America cannot ignore the fact that it is Mexico's own business to attend to Mexican affairs and that when this country steps in to settle it, the United States will have departed from its traditional policy and will have assumed a new obligation before the world. Anything like active intervention in Mexican affairs, therefore, must be frowned on by all who respect American ideals and have the best interests of their country at heart.

Latest reports from Mexico are anything but reassuring. The split between Carranza and Villa is widening and there are not many indications of a settlement. This country may just as well realize that Villa will always oppose anything like a settled regime; he is a viable bandit fighter without a civilized outlook on national affairs. He is the black marker of Mexico, and he glories in the sense of his brutal ability to throw down what he has reared. Carranza, on the other hand, seems to have a sense of disinterestedness, as shown by his willingness to retire, if Villa retires from the leadership of the army of the north. He who will bring peace to Mexico must rule with a strong hand, but first of all he must get rid of men of the type of Villa. Otherwise revolution and anarchy will be Mexico's portion until its people advance further in civilization.

GOLDEN AUTUMN TIME

Who, in our teeming population, has not felt the spell of early autumn as it comes in the cool breeze that scatters the withered leaves and brings hints of ripe apples and wild grapes? He has not felt it who, muffled up carefully, waits snugly for the car that is to bring him to his office, waits at his office for the car that is to bring him home and spends the rest of his time huddled up in a comfortable corner or in bed. Useless to speak to such an atrophied being of the glories of autumn. His delights are weighed in the scales of an abnormal selfishness and seen in the light of a false existence. For him there will be no thrill in the sight of the pearly gates or of the crystal sea that stretches through all eternity without a ripple to mar its serenity.

He who would understand the spirit of autumn is the sturdy fellow of six or sixty who hears a friendly voice in every rustle of the leaves' underfoot and finds a treasure greater than gold nuggets in the glossy chestnuts that peep from the thorny burr. To such, the present season is a season of carnival joy. Loads that were only dun and gray have taken on a mantle of rainbow jewels; brilliant beams of sunlight come through the birches and maples with a glory like unto the glory of cathedral glass; crimson apples and purple grapes hint at the pastoral joys of Arcady. Before his wandering feet flies the Goddess of Plenty, her corn-colored hair flying on the breeze, her hands full of the treasures of garden, farm and orchard.

In autumn time any road from Lowell leads into a land of enchantment. He who carries with him the cares of business or memories of the war in Europe will see its delights only through a rusty veil. He who would revel in its transcendent pleasures must leave all cares behind him and, forgetting that it is a workaday world and that we all grow old, tramp out into the country, which in September and October has the power to roll away the years and give us the glories of perpetual youth.

TO AVERT STRIKES

Delegates of six international unions in the building trades have just completed an alliance in New York which is meant to do away with strikes in the building trade. The unions represented include 100,000 workers in the United States and Canada. The spirit that prompted this action is a spirit that should be cultivated by employers and unions alike, for though strikes are legitimate and sometimes necessary, they rarely bring unalloyed good. Many strikes have sacrificed permanent advantage for the sake of some transitory concession. When such strikes are finally brought to a close, those who take part in them wonder why they dragged on so long and the realization dawns that with mutual forbearance and intelligence, they could have been averted with advantage to all concerned. He who strives

SEEN AND HEARD

The newest fourflusher is the fellow who was going abroad if the war hadn't broken out.

Anyway, since the high cost of living got a half-nelson on this country, you don't hear so much about the fellows who were trying to keep two shats on one salary.

No matter what the status of the war in Europe on October ninth of this year, you've got to leave the darn thing out on its back and take up the great American battle—which introduces the world's series.

We await patiently the arrival of the man who sent us the following note: "After you have run upstairs and straightened out the Germans' right dome for the editorial folks, dashed down to the press room to tell 'Red' to get more ink on page six, fired Tommy for smoking cigars around the business barrel, and fixed up your income tax tangle—I want five minutes of your time."

SOCKS FOR SOLDIERS

Ray F. Webster, the Centralville druggist, has returned from a trip to Prince Edward Island and like many another returning from the maritime provinces, tells of the patriotism of the people for England and their great interest in the European war. In their minds there isn't the remotest possibility of Germany coming out on top and they await from day to day the news that Germany has surrendered or sued for peace. The women are knitting socks and hats for the British soldiers and farmers' clubs are sending provisions to England. They are not one whit less patriotic than the Britishers themselves.

STARTING SOMETHING

Leavitt was sitting in the den one night glancing over the sporting pages. Opposite him sat little Wiley making something with a knitting needle. Suddenly mother glanced up.

"John Henry," said she, "drop that paper a minute. I want to ask you a question."

"What is it, dear?" was the obedient response of John Henry.

"It's just this," returned Wiley. "If you were single and I were single again, would you ask me to marry you?"

A DISLOYAL PARROT

The doorkeeper at one of the places the king and queen of England were expected to visit had two pet parrots—one rather stupid and the other very intelligent and talkative.

Very carefully he taught the talkative parrot to say: "God save the king!" in honor of the royal visitors, and the parrot was so delighted with the new phrase that it would say nothing else, repeating it at breakfast at breakfast speed every time anybody looked at him. The other parrot, on the contrary, refused to say a word, maintaining a cold and dignified silence.

To its owner's delight their majesties

Whatever the reasons assigned for the resignation of Messrs. Rockefeller, Baker, Brooker and Elton from the directorship of the New Haven road, their action will be accepted by the public with the same alacrity with which it was accepted by the road officials. Past circumstances made it impossible that the somewhat venerable, if not venerated, gentlemen could retain public confidence, and their connection with the road could neither help it or themselves for the future.

Star chamber conferences seem slightly out of date in our Lowell city government and the public will not approve of them. It is doubtful if the tax payers would permit any municipal group to jungle matters behind closed doors, and it is very certain that they will not permit the present body to do so long. Where there is no apparent reason for secrecy, why the secrecy?

It is most fitting that nature should enter into the war by a terrific equinoctial storm across the North sea. In olden days the winds often favored England, and the same may be true today. If only the murderous mines were swept somewhere beyond the North pole, the commercial world would rejoice.

If only the strict law regarding garages could be applied to all who use them, how much safer the world would be.

"Useless war," says Professor Taft.

October morn.

smiling broadly paused to speak to the bird, and the parrot, apparently just as delighted, repeated his remark enthusiastically: "Godsave the king!" "Godsave the king!" "Godsave the king!"

Instantly the other parrot, having disesteemedly turned its back on the royalties, croaked out: "Silly ass! Shut up!"

THE COMMON SIN

My conscience is unhampered by the sins that men commit. The many misdemeanors that are common now, to wit:

The sin of dress extravagance that curses our world race.
The schemes to kill the nickels from the greedy populace;
The sin of greed, of shirking and of dabbling in wine.
Beset a host of fellows, but there's none of them that's mine;
I have no sin or vice at all, unless the sin of spending twenty when there's only ten in sight.

In ways unostentatious I begin my common day.
Resolving to buy me nothing new for which I cannot pay;
When I sit from shelves obscure in some dusty, musty shop
The rascal books and gee-gaws from their hiding places out
My vows and resolutions of the morning I forget.

In frenzied contemplation of the tempting prices met,
And ere I fairly know it, then my record's black as night.
With the sin of spending twenty when there's only ten in sight.

"It's not a sin," you tell me! Well, although perhaps it's not,
At night when slumber mocks me and the pillow waxes hot,
The Grand High Judge of Conscience and the jury, grim, sedate, Assembled at my footboard in most solemn high estate;
They weigh the circumstances and ere slumber plays its trump
They vote no seven asses and a nickel-plated chump!

Then, slowly, they file past me and by ballot they indict
On a charge of spending twenty when I had but ten in sight!

AUTO'S KILLINGS

The report of the state highway commission for the seven months of 1914 shows that 86 persons were killed and 1472 injured by automobiles. A fraction over 27 per cent of those killed were occupants of automobiles. The remaining were either pedestrians or occupants of other vehicles. About seven out of ten of the auto's victims are those persons whom it is the duty of the highway for this high rate of mortality, the responsibility is divided between drivers of machines and pedestrians and others who use the streets.—Worcester Gazette.

VIRGINIA CLAUDES

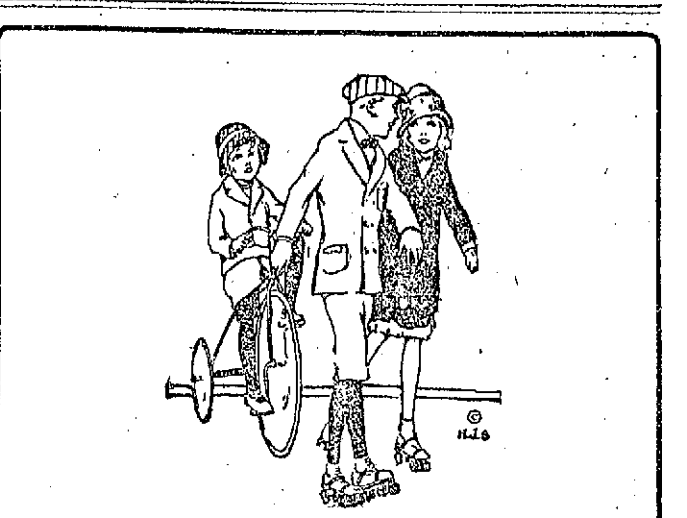

Virginia's new prohibition law, effective Nov. 1, 1915, allows club members to have liquor in lockers and allows the brewing of beer by individuals over three and a half per cent of alcohol. It seems like a fair bet to figure that Richmond will have more "clubmen" than New York after that law takes effect.—Brookline Enterprise.

DANCE CENSORSHIP

The town of Malden women's civic league for a dance matter, applied by the city and paid by the proprietors of dance halls, may be good, in that it calls only for a shifting of responsibility. Parents, if they choose, could stop objectionable dancing simply by taking an interest in their daughters. The dances which do not depend on patronage from girls under the age of independence are few. Membership is, or should be, a last resort.—Brookline Times.

AMERICAN APPLES

The American apple crop this year, according to the statisticians and the crop report experts will foot up approximately 10,000,000 bushels. This is rather more than two bushels for each man, woman and child in the United States, and more than all that is ever consumed in the history of the world. It is a record, and the fact that last year thousands upon thousands of bushels of apples were permitted to rot upon the ground because the price would not yield the profit to which the apple-growers thought they were entitled. This was true in the case to some extent, but

PRO VILLA

Gen. Villa's formal announcement through Consul General Carruthers that he will not be a candidate for president or vice-president of Mexico ought to bring an easy end of the renewed trouble in that war-torn country. Carranza is reported to have declared that he would not be a candidate if Villa should not. Apparently this was a bluff, on the view that has been prevalent that Villa lacked the sense to realize that he is not fit for the place. If it was a bluff, it has been quickly called by Villa, who, it is to be said in justice to him, has all along protested that he did not desire the position and only sought to insure that the government should hereafter be a civilian instead of a military one, and should carry out the great reforms to which the revolution was pledged. This view is clearly the right one and the purpose deserves all sympathy. But it is a pity that it accomplished at all, it should be by violent revolutionary attitudes.—Worcester Post.

THE SPELLBINDER

The representative contest in the 14th district, which includes ward one and Dracut promises to be one of the most interesting that has come up locally in a long time. Last year, John W. Brennan, of Dracut, the democratic candidate, defeated ex-Senator Hibbard, although the district is republican by a strong majority, while the third candidate was Cecil P. Dodge, a resident of Dracut up to a year or more ago, a popular member of the progressive party and a former republican. Mr. Brennan served his first term with credit and distinction, having the good fortune to be appointed on the committee on taxation which was one of the most important and busiest committees of the session. His record for the year is beyond adverse criticism, and he was given the nomination for a second term without opposition. In the republican ranks, however, quite a contest developed before the caucus. Up to the last moment ex-Senator Hibbard had not entered the field as a candidate as he had intimated that he would not. Mr. Dodge was to be the progressive candidate, figuring that a republican had no chance with Dodge in the contest. At the 11th hour Mr. Dodge retired and in his place came Michael A. Lee, a former democrat but now a progressive, and business manager of the local union. Then the ex-senator came in dining, for he saw an excellent opportunity to win with Lee as the third candidate. But, as the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley, when the caucus votes were counted it was found that Arthur V. Colburn, a Dracut farmer and office-holder had carried the day. Prior to the caucus, Mr. Colburn's friends claimed that ex-Senator Hibbard had had enough and should stand aside. Then some friend of Hibbard's mind turned toward research looked up Mr. Colburn's career and found, he claims, that it was 14 years ago that Mr. Colburn returned to Dracut from an agricultural college in New Hampshire and that out of the 14 years that have since passed he has held public office in the town of Dracut for 13 years, as he has been selectman for four years, sealer of weights and measures, on the board of registrars, in the school board and finally tax-collector for six years, the last-named plum paying about $1500 per year. But loquacity came to the rescue of Mr. Colburn for the republicans of Dracut, well satisfied with Rep. Brennan, figured that with Mr. Lee in the field Hibbard would win out and thus deprive the town of its representation in the legislature, and hence although ordinarily comparatively few of them would attend the caucuses they turned out in big numbers and assured the town of a representative under any circumstances by nominating Mr. Colburn. Thus Dracut has the two candidates. The fact that the republicans had not entered the field as strongly for Mr. Colburn in the primaries doesn't indicate, however, that they will all support him on election day. Their action was due simply to their desire to have a Dracut man at the state house, and now that Mr. Colburn is the opposing nominee many of them are satisfied with Mr. Brennan's conduct in the house will vote to give him the customary second term.

The presence of Mr. Michael A. Lee, a sincere and hard worker for the cause of organized labor gives the critics of that body and its methods, an opportunity to talk again. It is a matter of legislative history that all legislation on the Massachusetts statute books, that aims to improve the conditions of the working people was fostered, fostered and finally put there by democrats and one others. Labor has been a constant presence in the house with new measures invariably have sought the assistance of democrats and have secured clear of the main body of republicans, and it has ever been a foregone conclusion that the election of a democratic representative meant the election of a legislator who would vote right on labor measures. Rep. Brennan's labor record during his term of office has been such as to earn him letters of commendation from the A. F. of L., with which Mr. Lee is affiliated. Although holding a position of responsibility in a powerful corporation, the American Woolen company, Rep. Brennan has not allowed this fact to interfere with his views on the needs of working people at large. He has worked in the mill all his life, rising from a manual position and knowing something about what the toilers experience from day to day. His opponent, Mr. Colburn, while personally an honest exemplary citizen, is a farmer and has been through all his career having little knowledge of the conditions that exist among the workers in the mills and factories and having nothing in common with them. It could not be expected that if elected he would be interested in labor legislation. Now comes Mr. Lee into the contest without a burglar's chance to win the election. Mr. Lee, being a former democrat and a labor man, it is expected that whatever strength he may show will come from democrats and labor men. Such being the case, each vote cast by democrats and labor men for Mr. Lee is a vote cast against

The underlying cause of much headache, particularly migraine, or sick headache, bilious attacks, vertigo, or dizziness, is intestinal auto-intoxication. This process, recognized only in recent years, is the absorption into the intestines from the residue of food. The two most prominent factors in causing this condition are constipation and excessive meat eating. It can therefore be largely avoided by care in the diet and the use of a laxative which will clear away the fermenting residue of food which is generating the poisons.

Pinklets, the new laxative, are admirably suited to protect the body against the dangers of auto-intoxication for they gently assist nature and do not gripe or purge. Laxative purgatives leave the system in a worse condition than they find it but Pinklets give just the stimulation to the organs of excretion that is needed to produce natural action and if they are used regularly for a time they will really correct constipation.

Your druggist sells Pinklets or they will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 25 cents per bottle, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Send today for booklet and free sample.

Rep. Brennan, the tried friend of labor, in the interest of Mr. Colburn, whose views on the subject, if he has any, are not publicly known and have not been put to the test. As the district is republican under ordinary circumstances it will not take many Mr. Lee to elect Mr. Colburn, and if he should be elected in this manner then the labor men of the 14th district will have gone on record as having worked against their own best interests. Let them adopt the "Safety First" slogan and elect the man who has shown them his friendship and support.

Only a Few Left

Judging from the editorial lamentations of the Courier-Citizen concerning the bonheaded republicans who persist in voting "alphabetically," the "hydrocephalous" voters who mark their crosses for crooks and joke candidates and the democrats, particularly in the 8th district who nominate 22-calibre candidates, the poor editor must have come to the conclusion that the only intelligent voters left are the "Holy Ghost and Us."

Superfluous Election Officers

The payroll for the election officers who served at the recent primaries has been sent to the auditor's office and its amount, $1674, leads to the disclosure of interesting facts relative to the manner in which economy has been practiced by the commissioner of finance in his conduct of the affairs of the elections department.

In 1912 and in years past there were 216 precinct officers in the city. In days gone by they received $5 per day, but in 1912 they received $6 per day, which aggregated, assuming that they all served, which they did not, $1314.

In 1913 the progressives demanded representation among the precinct officers, and as a result the number of officers was swelled to 263, and then it was thought that the limit was reached. But the list of 1914 shows that it takes 293 precinct officers, mostly "inspectors" whatever they are, at a total cost of $2732, provided they all served, though some of them didn't. In the recent caucuses, to run the elections. The additional precinct officers appointed this year at $5 per day are not progressives, but democrats and republicans, though the city had gotten along for years with a much less number of each.

This year the commissioner of finance has appointed 40 more precinct officers than ever before and of these 40 there were 24 who didn't show up on caucus day, and hence didn't get their $5 per day for doing nothing. Probably they didn't know that they had been appointed and won't let it happen again on the three days to come. Had they all showed up the cost of officers for the caucuses alone would have been $1812, but 24 remained away and the cost was $1674.

This year it took 42 precinct officers to hold the caucuses in ward seven against 35 last year, and 24 in 1912. As this is the finance commissioner's home ward it might appear that he had some doubts as to the voting ability and behavior of his neighbors. Last year there were eight progressive officers in ward seven against six this year, so that the 11 extras are democrats and republicans. Ward two had the smallest number of precinct officers this year, 26, against 28 last year and 24 in 1912. Ward five with 30 officers is the only ward in which no increase was made.

Some of these men who draw $5 per day as precinct officers, by a tremendous effort, get up before 6 o'clock on election morning, report at the polls and then go about their business until the close of the polls when they return and hang around until the votes have been counted. The list of names is interesting. In ward one there are two well known names in the list, getting their $5 per day, like the humblest worker in the ranks. In this ward also is another precinct officer who is on the jury list as a "gentleman," which means that he doesn't have to work for a living—except, of course, four days per year, when he gives his services to the city at $5 per day.

Among the precinct officers, also, are city employees, who are not supposed to draw two salaries from the city; business men who "holer" against municipal extravagance and high taxes, and there is one precinct officer, at least, whose name will appear on the ballot as a candidate for office at the election at which he is to serve as an official. The increase of precinct officers, together with the employment of additional clerks, to write tax bills, form a needless expenditure of over $1000 just at a time when the citizens are chafing over the higher tax bills that have ever been sent out from city hall, and sent by an administration whose campaign cry has been "economy and reform."

Hurting the Charter

The present administration is doing more to make the charter unpopular than all of its outspoken enemies who stumped the city when the change of government was proposed. The present administration is violating the promises and claims of the proponents of the charter and those violations consist of the secret meetings of the municipal council; doing city work by contract and the importation of outside labor to do the work together with the violation of other promises such as that made to the head of the tax-bills the cost of lighting, the promises to the French-American voters and finally that grand old promise of equal rights for all, special privileges to none.

Call Them Off, Mr. Mayor

It is understood that certain men are abroad trying to work up a sentiment for a second term for Mayor Murphy so that in response to a call by his fellow-citizens His Honor can repudiate his campaign promise of a year ago and be a candidate again. One of the promoters of the second term scheme goes so far as to advise the friends of another probable candidate to keep him out lest the mayor defeat him. Now, Mayor Murphy hit the public right on his promise that if elected he would serve only one term. That was one of his principal issues, the one-term theory. Many who voted for him on this theory regret the fact that it wasn't less than one, but, however, having widely proclaimed that he would not seek nor accept a second term, His Honor can hardly go back on his word, exposing himself to a specially manufactured sentiment. Whether His Honor has sent out the scouts to boom the second term idea or not, he should call them in and silence them, as by so doing he will have the satisfaction of retiring from office gracefully.

Recall Papers Out

A short time ago when it was reported that recall papers were out for one of the commissioners, little attention was given to the papers as it was believed that such a movement would die of inanition. But the papers are going, not directed against one commissioner, but it is said, against the mayor and Commissioners Carmichael and Morse, for the purpose of placing the entire administration on the ballot in the coming city primaries, and that already over 100 signatures have been secured, though the papers have not reached the French-American voters or Belvidere as yet. It is said that on the papers are the names of many voters who are thoroughly disgusted at the action of the municipal council in the Putnam case. The papers will require some 2700 names, and those who are circulating them express confidence of their ability to secure the requisite number.

Howling Over Tax Bills

There is more general complaining over this year's tax bills than has ever before been heard in this city. "What are we getting for this increase?" is the cry. "What has this year's government done?" The man with the answer to these questions has as yet to make his appearance.

Call for Paying Blocks

Commissioner Morse has called for 250,000 paving blocks that should have been called for last April. Watch the cost of these blocks when the bids are opened and compare it with the cost of last year and then take a peek at your tax bill and that of a year ago. Procrastination is the thief of time. Time is money; therefore, procrastination is the thief of money. Quarrymen state that paving blocks could have been purchased much cheaper last April than they can be today. Commissioner Morse is reported, moreover, to be North Chelmsford, Tuesday and looked over a pile of paving blocks that are piled near the entrance to the Country Club. As the Spellbinder pointed out recently, these blocks are owned by the Hildreth Granite Co.

They Meant Well, Anyway

Those who have heard the story are chuckling over the near-catch of a jewelry store robber by Supt. Welch and a small army of inspectors and patrolmen a few evenings ago. It is both uncharitable and unjust, however, to poke fun at the alert police in this case for their intentions were the best and had the man been a yegg bound on robbery they would have captured him, but he turned out to be a honest citizen bent on a legitimate transaction in a jewelry store after closing hours, and hence their failure to achieve further greatness. It seems that a man telephoned to a local jeweler last Thursday, stated that he would like to make the purchase of a diamond ring or something similar, that evening. He was obliged to get it that evening and while he knew that the store was closed on Thursday, he asked if the proprietor could not accommodate him by letting him in at 8.30 p. m. The request was so unusual that the jeweler played the "safety first" game and telephoned the facts to the police station. Visions of another Blyden case must have hovered thickly about the police station, for as the appointed hour approached an imposing army of police from the superintendent down to common patrolmen, all undoubtedly armed to the teeth, assembled at the jewelry store and proceeded to surround it. They were in front, behind and over the building waiting for the desperado to make his appearance, while one took a position at Tower's corner to wing him if he got by the others. He came along just as he said he would and entering the store purchased the article he had gone after, thanked the proprietor for accommodating him and went on his way rejoicing, blissfully ignorant of the fact that he had been in imminent danger of being hanged, drawn and quartered by the most imposing army of police that has been gathered together at one time since the post office inspectors came here and borrowed the local force to assist them in arresting a bunch of yeggmen in Appleton street.

And the Police?

Well—The king of France went up the hill With twenty thousand men; The king of France came down the hill, And never went up again.

These Tardy Commissioners

A woman who recently abandoned important business temporarily to attend a meeting at city hall, advertised to take place at a certain hour and who after waiting an hour or more for the meeting to come to order, was informed that the matter in which she was interested would not come up until another day, is in favor of amending section 23 of the charter which now reads: "All public hearings shall be held as far as is practicable, in the evening, but may be held at any time," to read "but may be held at any old time." This administration has all records broken for secret sessions in the mayor's office. One may be excused for forming the opinion that the members "can't stand the gaff" as Commissioner Morse would say, of public criticism, and hence go behind closed doors to express their views on public matters. It is reported that the commissioners held a secret session in the mayor's office, a few days ago at which they agreed to vote more money for sewers, but upon hearing the howl over the tax-bills they abandoned the proposition. It will be recalled that it was at a secret session that the commissioners agreed to gobble up the perpetual care fund.

Republican Love Feast

A delightful little love feast was held at the Richardson hotel dining room Tuesday evening, when Reps. Jewett and Achin, the successful candidates for the legislature in the 17th district, appreciating the old adage that the best way to get to a man is through his stomach, gave their defeated brethren, Messrs. Kilpatrick, Berard, Kew and Adams a fine dinner. The purpose of the feast was to remove any sore spots that might have held over after the primaries. The dinner was one of the best the outlines of the Richardson affords, and that's some dinner. Entering into the spirit of the occasion Proprietor Hoban had the room decorated with forget-me-nots and a floral dove, bearing in its beak an olive branch, signifying that the storm had subsided, while Phil Lederman and Dick Noonan played that popular ballad: "Let Bygones be Bygones; and Let Us Be Sweethearts Again." Both sides reported that the dinner was a complete success, and the story of bullets that were cast in the primaries was not brought up.

Says Labor Conditions in Textile Factories of the South Out-Herod Herod—Child Snatchers of Southern Mills Torture Before They Kill

Congressmen, as a rule, do not bother with texts, but Congressman John Jacob Rogers stepped out of the beaten path in congress yesterday in a speech entitled "Out Heroding Herod." His text:

"Then Herod went forth and slew all the children that were in Bethlehem, and in all the coasts thereof. Then was fulfilled that which was spoken in Jeremy, the prophet, saying, 'In Rama was there a voice heard in lamentation, and weeping, and great mourning, Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.'"

The text was an appropriate one and the congressman's spirited argument for a nation-wide law governing the hours and conditions of labor of women and minors was backed by official and unimpeachable statistics. His facts were copper-bound and riveted. He showed that the mills of some southern states employ women and minors to such an extent that the labor laws in these states are inadequate, little enforced and wholly medieval in character. In part, he said:

"Certain states of the south today tolerate conditions which out-herod Herod. He killed swiftly and without pain; the child-snatchers of the southern mills torture before they kill. He killed the children of a tiny province; their victims are torn from a great section of a great country. He killed the body only; they too often kill mind and soul as well."

"Mr. Speaker: On July 8 last I introduced in the house of representatives a joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States to the following effect: 'The congress shall have power to regulate throughout the United States the employment of women and of persons under the age of 21 years.' This resolution was referred to the committee on education and it is still pending in that committee."

"It may not be inappropriate to set forth some of the considerations which have led me to believe that nothing short of an amendment to the constitution of the United States will adequately remedy the conditions which exist in the employment of women and children now prevailing throughout the United States."

Question of Restraint

"At the present time—and indeed throughout our history as a nation—it rests with the severity as to determine what restraints, if any, shall be imposed either on the employer or the employee, or both, in entering into and continuing in operation the contract of employment. This power is vested in the states, because a part of the general police power and because never withdrawn from them by the federal constitution."

"With 48 commonwealths, each in this particular respect entirely independent of every other commonwealth as well as of the nation, it is not surprising that a vast divergence of labor-protecting legislation exists. Different states, like different individuals, vary widely in their point of view as to what constitutes necessary and proper protection of the laboring classes. Massachusetts has of late years deservedly achieved the reputation of being among the two or three most enlightened and progressive states in respect to labor legislation. Other states are equally conspicuous for their retardation in this respect."

"It is perhaps not material to discuss the causes which result in this variance; the problem is before us, and demands a solution. In pointing out in some detail the precise differences between the group of states of which Massachusetts is typical and the group of states at the other extreme in labor legislation, I am especially anxious to avoid even the semblance of sectional feeling. This is solely a question of fact; and in developing my

AMATEUR DIAMOND NEWS

Past Season Has Demonstrated That the Local Amateurs Have a Large Following of Fans

With the coming on of cool weather the amateur baseball players of the city are tucking their togas away for another season. The warm, summer-like days after the concluding of the New England schedule made it possible, however, for two games at Spaulding park which resulted in a great deal of local interest.

Always an Attraction

Amateur baseball throughout the country is always a big attraction. At a recent game played in New York city last week a block away from where the Giants were battling for the pennant in the National league 37,000 people congregated to see two amateur teams while organized ball drew less than 15,000.

In St. Louis a week ago last Saturday the papers of that city stated that $7,000 fans witnessed a game played on one of the huge playgrounds between the two best amateur ball clubs of the city. And there have been many amateur games played this summer where over 20,000 spectators have been in attendance.

Reason For Popularity

The reason for the popularity of the amateur sport is the diamond is the same as that for any other branch of amateur athletics. The fans like to see a game between players who are not paid for their efforts and who are on a par with the spectators themselves.

Of course, when brought down to fundamentals, amateur sport has been the foundation of all sports of the past. The nature of professional baseball would not be possible if it were not for amateur baseball.

To begin with there would be no professional ball players if there were not first amateurs. In the second place there are very few American men who have not played ball at some time or other in their lives. And this is just the reason of the great popularity of the game. The fans who watch two professional teams battling know the game, in a limited degree, because they have played it themselves as amateurs.

The Local Amateurs

This city is no different than any other city or town of its size in its attitude toward amateur baseball. The past season has amply demonstrated the fact that Lowell appreciates amateur ball.

On Saturday afternoon or holidays a trip to either the North or South commons is sufficient to acquaint anyone of a disbeliever in previous statements. On either common, as a rule, most spectators are to be found than in the New England league park.

"An appended table shows that, exclusive of children under 12 employed under legal exemption, 8.2 per cent. of all children employed were illegally employed. Some children so employed were as young as seven years of age."

"The 'helper system' is a subterfuge very commonly found in the south where it is prohibited by the employment of children under a certain age is evaded. If the name is omitted from the pay roll, the employer argues that he is not employing the child. The facts that the child has an assigned task, that the direction is given by the employer, and that the employer pays for it in a relative's pay envelope fail to alter his conclusion. Of course where the law provides that a child under a certain age shall not be permitted to work it cannot be evaded in this way. Thus, however, such a provision has been kept out of the laws in the states where the child-labor evil is most prevalent."

"In certain southern mills the Nell investigators found that children employed as large a proportion as 7 per cent. of all the employees, this circumstance being possible in part through the present use of the 'helper system.'"

"The Massachusetts laws for the protection of women and children, as I have shown, are numerous and elaborate. An appropriation of from $100,000 to $200,000 a year is made by our legislature for their strict enforcement. The Nell investigators in Massachusetts found but one child out of over 18,000 employees who was employed under the legal age. It cannot be said that Massachusetts seeks to force others to practice that which it is not willing itself to do."

Workmen's Compensation Act

"Whatever the direct economic and community advantage resultant from rigorous laws regulating the employment of women and children—as to which I shall have more to say later—there can be no doubt that the immediate and direct effect is to increase the standard of living of the workers. The numerous statutory provisions of the Massachusetts laws, such as those requiring seats for women, clean, well ventilated and light places to work, guards and safety devices of all kinds, pure drinking water, wash rooms, and toilet facilities, etc.—all very rarely, if ever, found in the southern manufacturing industry, are a very considerable addition to the expense of manufacturing."

"The workmen's compensation act is said to have tripled or even quadrupled the cost of insurance, yet no citizen of a state which has had this law would for a moment think of a return to the former conditions."

"What is the effect upon the cost of production of the absence or non-enforcement of laws limiting and regulating the employment of women and children? Obviously and necessarily to keep down the cost of manufacturing, for this reason: The wages paid women and children are less than those paid to adult males. To employ women and children largely increases the labor supply and hence naturally tends, through the familiar economic

BOWLING THRILLS CROWD OF 10,000

Rolloff at Kittredge's Alleys Resulted in Fast Competition

Directum 1 Beats William at Columbus in Fastest Race Ever Paced—Time 1.58 and 2.00

Last night's weekly rolloff for cash prizes at Kittredge's alleys resulted in some remarkably fine bowling with the city's leading rollers in competition.

Three men, Mason, Dwyer and Martel, were tied for first place with three string totals of 331 each. Hoban and F. O'Brien were tied for the next two places. The five prizes ranged from $7 to $1.

The day's high total for a single string was captured by Tommy Hoban with a mark of 150 plus for his ten boxes. Several other local bowlers were close behind Hoban's mark when he turned in the winning sheet. The scores of the rolloff are as follows:

week is the equally universal schedule in Massachusetts.

Lowell Cotton Mills

"I have shown at some length the importance of Massachusetts of this question. At present she is every day being more and more penalized for the humanity and progress which she has written into her statutes. It may be said that she should reduce the cost of production so that she may be able to meet the competition of the world. Can she do this? Take the case of the Lowell cotton mills, for example. An examination of their dividends for the past eight of ten years shows an average for all of between 4 and 4-1/2 per cent. per year—about the Massachusetts savings bank rate. It is said that the representative cost of the plants alone of these mills exceeds their capitalization."

"If, then, the profits are not unduly swollen or the stock watered, how can this cost of production be cut down? Of course, the greatest single item in such cost is that of labor. The Massachusetts must reduce her wage scale. Similarly, if we should take up, one by one, the various elements entering into the cost of production of those articles in the manufacture of which Massachusetts has met and must meet the competition of the south, we realize how the slight fact that as a practical matter, there could be no real hope of an appreciable saving."

"The only solution seems to be, therefore—certainly from the standpoint of Massachusetts—that the terms upon which the south is able to compete with the north shall be so made that the competition shall be fair."

"The problem, then, is national; let the nation, through its congress, promptly seek its wise and permanent solution. Success will mean a better south and a better nation; it will mean better wages, better morals, better schools, better health, better homes, better descendants and better citizenship; it will mean that we have saved the south from itself."

MURRAY IS POSTMASTER

TODAY—SUCCEEDED E. C. MANSFIELD

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—Hon. William F. Murray took charge of the Boston postoffice this morning, succeeding E. C. Mansfield, who had been postmaster six years and had been connected with the office 11 years of the last 14 years. His first service from 1900 to 1905, was as assistant postmaster under the late Postmaster Henry A. Thomas.

There was no ceremony of any kind last night attending the transfer of the responsibilities of the Boston postal district to Mr. Murray. He and the retiring postmaster were together in the office all the evening learning the details of the checking up of the accounts of the office and branches by the force of postoffice inspectors called to Boston for the purpose. The inspectors worked to a late hour last night, and will probably have considerable to do yet before their work is ended.

When Mr. Mansfield went home after midnight he had severed his connection with the service. Mr. Murray will take up the duties this morning.

LARGEST DISPLAY OF RELIGIOUS ARTICLES AT Frank Ricard's

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

The temperature of the nursery should be about 65 degrees Fahrenheit. It is wise to have a thermometer in the room. This precaution is well worth taking, for a not infrequent cause of dyspepsia in the very young is the over heating of the nursery.

The night temperature should be about 63 degrees Fahrenheit. As the child grows older it is not necessary to keep the temperature of the room above 55 degrees Fahrenheit.

The windows should always be well opened when the child is absent from the nursery and each evening before the child is put to bed. This practice should be followed for a few minutes.

To secure adequate ventilation, if there be an open fireplace, is not difficult, either by having the window opened very slightly at the top, or by means of the open door. It is an excellent idea where practicable to have an adjustable ventilator in the window, itself. Currents of air are to be avoided.

For amusement on a stormy day, let the child cut pictures from magazines and circulars. Arrange them in different groups as they relate to country life, work, play, boys, girls, animals, etc., pasting them neatly in blank books.

Everything required for the furnishing of a cardboard doll house can be made of paper.

Chairs, tables, or beds may be devised with a little ingenuity.

Many small things, such as saucers, plates, dishes, clocks, candlesticks, etc., can be made.

The smaller articles out flat, leaving extra pieces of paper at the bottom of each. These pieces, when bent back, make a stand.

The furniture may be painted with water colors to look like wood, brass, tapestry and painted knobs and handles may also be added.

The very first item in the training of a day old infant is the matter of regular and punctual feeding.

Inexperienced mothers little realize the importance of this seeming trifling matter. It is an excellent foundation both for their own comfort and for their baby's physical welfare.

Once get a baby into the habit of taking it up and feeding it every time it happens to cry, and you have indeed started trouble for yourself.

It is on this rock that young mothers often wreck much of their own and their household's peace.

In teaching children to be careful let us not make the mistake of encouraging them to be finicky.

A number of don'ts should be impressed upon your little ones. For example, Don't drink out of dirty glasses. Don't buy candy exposed to dust, flies or fingers. Don't buy high-colored candies. Don't buy in dirty stores.

This is sensible advice, for children or anyone else. If we need individual cups anywhere we need them at the soda fountains, where glasses are many times got only a rinsing in cold water.

The children should be taught also the dangers of lamp black in fireplaces and chocolate, give in gumdrops and soapuds in soft drinks.

Of course the most important room in the house where King King reigns supreme is the nursery. This room should be selected with care and should be as sunny as possible.

The sun is the great purifier of the atmosphere and nothing should be done in the nursery which tends to contaminate the air.

There must be no drying or washing of baby's clothes in this room. The gas should not be allowed to burn all night, but a night light used.

An open fire, if it is possible to have one, is the very best source of heat.

Most children have the bad habit of throwing down anywhere their gloves, which are seldom to be found together when again wanted. Rubber shoes are kicked off hurriedly and left wherever they happen to fall.

The suburban mother protests and perhaps she scolds about having so much mud brought into the house, and possibly good effects result from both; but in all probability, in a hurry to play indoors, the same carelessness will soon be shown again.

Children are hard to take care of, for which reason the children have some excuse for carelessness. One way to aid them to form a good habit is to fasten small brass rings to the gloves; these will not show when the gloves are being worn and may easily be put over a small hook, if the latter is placed in a convenient place.

LOCAL ARMORY NEW HAVEN ROAD

May be Used by Boy Scouts or Other Organizations

The fact that the legislature has provided that boy scout organizations can use all state armories for drilling and other purposes in connection with their maneuvers, under certain restrictions, indicates that during the coming season boy scout maneuvers in this city will increase and that the Westford street armory will probably be used by local troops.

At the last legislature, when there was considerable talk about using the state armories for other than strictly military purposes by the state militia, this fact of the activities of boy scout troops all through the state was touched upon, with the result that a petition was introduced to allow such organizations to use armories for their purposes.

Like the other bill passed some time ago, allowing the use of armories for other than military purposes, the whole matter is left practically in the hands of the governor who, in military phraseology, is called the commander-in-chief. Of course, the act does not name the boy scouts specifically, but it is framed to cover all organizations of boys under 18 years of age. It is understood that the governor or the commander-in-chief has instructed the adjutant general to look into the matter and to frame up a set of rules and regulations, which will carry into effect the purpose of the new act which reads as follows:

"Upon application to the commander-in-chief, approved by the custodian of an armory, any organization of boys under 18 years of age, which may conform to regulations and training prescribed by the commander-in-chief, with a view to preparing for military or naval service, shall be permitted to use such armory upon the payment of a sum sufficient to cover all expenses thereof, and such use shall be regarded as a military purpose."

PEACE AND HOME RULE

WANTED BY LITHUANIANS—BOSTON DELEGATES START FOR BROOKLYN CONVENTION

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—"Peace and Home Rule" was the slogan of the 40 delegates representing the Lithuanian societies of Boston who left early last evening for the national convention which is to open in Brooklyn, N. Y., today.

It is the first representative gathering of that race ever held in this country, and the Bay State sends 105 of the 700 delegates that will sit in the assembly. At the head of the Boston delegation are Fortunatus J. Bagozins, Charles Sidlauskas, George J. Goggin and Stanley Mickelson.

GOV. WALSH GREETED

BOLTON, Oct. 1.—The 39th annual fair of the Bolton Farmers and Mechanics' association took place yesterday on the grounds adjacent to the town hall, more than 3000 people attending. The exhibits in the hall were larger in number and of a better grade than ever before shown here, but threatening weather kept many of the midway vendors away.

The program of the day began with a parade to the plowing grounds, where contests were held. Grover Quimby won in a swivel plowing match, with Richard E. Nourse, second. Nathan Carville was winner with the sulky plow. In a pulling contest, Charles E. Mace won with Nathan Carville, second. The results in the work-horse parade were E. A. Hackett, first; Charles E. Mace, second; William L. Felton, third.

In addition to the usual prizes, a silver cup was offered for the best display of corn, not less than 20 ears, the cup to exhibit the permanent property of an exhibitor winning it twice in succession. It was captured by William M. Brigham.

A sprayer for the best exhibit of a half bushel of potatoes was won by Legrand L. Brigham. Aluminum ware to the value of $25 was offered to the best maker of white bread and $2 worth to the second best. Mrs. Lewis S. Day, Bolton, and Mrs. Whitney Brigham, respectively, were the winners.

There was music throughout the day by a Hudson band, and at noon a farmers' dinner was served. In the afternoon Gov. Walsh favored the fair with his presence, making his first public address since leaving the hospital, and being the first governor to ever attend a Bolton fair. He made two addresses, one inside the hall, the other on the grounds from an automobile in which he drove over from his home, the neighboring town of Clinton. His coming was unheralded, and was part of his afternoon's drive for air and recreation. He spoke wholly on what Massachusetts is doing for the agriculturist and was given a grand reception.

Elliot E. Harbitt was marshal of the day and was aided by Rauben E. Randall and Chester Paine.

Minute Books Secured by the Federal Grand Jury

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The special federal grand jury investigating at President Wilson's suggestion the management of the New Haven road to ascertain if criminal laws had been violated by those in authority, retained possession today of the road's minute books and other documents. These were placed before the jurors by Assistant Secretary Homestead of the railroad company and it is understood will be held for several days for consideration by the grand jury.

COL. ROOSEVELT TALKS

PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT PROGRESSIVE CONVENTION AT BAY CITY, MICHIGAN

BAY CITY, Mich., Oct. 1.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt was the principal speaker at the progressive state convention here yesterday. He spoke in the same hall where the republican and progressive factions split at a republican convention here three years ago, when state troops were called out to preserve order.

"They stole it from us," was the ex-president's comment during his address, alluding to that convention incident. "They took the delegates by force, but when the votes of the people were counted, we had them beaten two to one."

The colonel repeatedly declared against the return of progressives to the republican fold. "You can't be loyal to the principles of Abraham Lincoln by voting the republican ticket," he said. "You can't be loyal to the principles of Jefferson by voting the democratic ticket."

"I guess the names of Lincoln and Jefferson aren't mentioned when the followers of Lorimer, republican, and Sullivan, democrat, hold their conferences. The standstillers, the reactionaries of the republican party, are the real aids to democratic power."

SHIPMENT OF "AMERICA"

Has Raised New Question of International Law—No Protest Has Been Made

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Shipment of the hydro-aeroplane "America" from England to New York on the Mauretania has raised a new question of international law.

If classed as munitions of war, the aeroplane would be subject merely to seizure as contraband. Should it be classed as a warship, the United States might be charged with responsibility for its departure from a neutral port.

A FIGHT ON COTTON

OPPOSED BY HOUSE BANKING COMMITTEE—MEXICAN PERSECUTION OF PRIESTS DESCRIBED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—That no further financial legislation is to be expected in the present session of congress was a statement made yesterday by Congressman Phelan of the banking and currency committee, who generally is regarded as confidant and right-hand man to Chairman Carter Glass. At the same time Congressman Henry of Texas announced that he would oppose adjournment of recess until his bill or some other measure for the relief of the cotton growers of the south was passed.

Henry's bill provides that the government shall deposit $500,000 in national and state banks in nine cotton states to be loaned at 8 per cent. on cotton collateral to producers or land owners.

"I am opposed to the bill," said Mr. Phelan. "The committee is opposed to the bill and it will not be reported favorably." Mr. Phelan also said the committee was opposed to a bill to permit state banks to issue emergency currency under the Aldrich-Vreeland act without the tax of 10 per cent.

On the other hand, President Wilson yesterday told a committee of congressmen from cotton states that he would discuss this measure with Secretary McAdoo.

Information was lodged both at the White House and at the state department yesterday as to atrocities against Catholic priests and nuns in Mexico by guerrillas on both sides. Under the guidance of Congressman Gallivan of Massachusetts, a committee composed of Henry V. Cunningham of Boston, Rev. Dr. Tierney, editor of America, and Hon. John Whelan, formerly corporation counsel for New York, representing the Federated Catholic Charities of America, which has been holding a convention in Baltimore, called at the White House and had an audience with President Wilson.

The committee presented startling and authenticated instances of atrocities practiced on individuals and of the destruction of church property in Mexico. The committee want from the White House to the state department and had a personal interview with Secretary Bryan.

It is understood that Paul Fuller, who has been in Mexico on special work for the government, will investigate conditions alleged to exist.

In response to a letter from the White House, Senator Weeks has informed the president and Attorney General Gregory that there will be no objection from the two Massachusetts United States senators to the confirmation of George W. Anderson as United States attorney at Boston. It is believed that the nomination will be sent in at once.

PATROLMAN LEAPS INTO AUTO TO GET CHAUFFEUR

Thrilling Auto Ride Through Roxbury Ends With the Arrest of Chauffeur on Charge of Assault and Battery — Many Narrow Escapes

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—Patrolman Daniel P. O'Neill of the Roxbury Crossing division had an exciting experience yesterday afternoon when he fought desperately to overpower a chauffeur, while they both rode wildly along Tremont street, through Roxbury and the South End, in an automobile. The machine was going at a speed estimated at more than 45 miles an hour. The thrilling ride and encounter terminated in Rutland square, South End, fully a mile from where it began, when Daniel Munneryn, the chauffeur, aged 32, was shot through the right hand in a struggle to obtain possession of the revolver which O'Neill had drawn when the former tried to start the auto again after the policeman succeeded in bringing it to a standstill.

Munneryn was locked up at the Roxbury Crossing station, charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, a blackjack, and today Patrolman O'Neill will place against him the additional charge of assault and battery on a police officer.

Munneryn has been living in Chilton, but is well known in Roxbury, where he lived for a number of years. On complaint of Edward Waters, aged about 35 years and living at 43 Hammond street, the Roxbury court last Saturday morning issued a warrant for the arrest of Munneryn, charging him with assault and battery on Waters last Friday afternoon. The two, it is stated, got into an argument over a woman.

HOW TO STOP STOMACH TORMENT

Sound Advice From a Well-Known Physician

Men and women who suffer from what they call dyspepsia, indigestion or just plain "stomach-trouble" usually neglect the development of acids in the stomach, formed by the fermentation of the food. Instead of a digestant being required, something should be taken to dissolve or neutralize this acidity, when normal digestion will follow as a matter of course. This acid matter is distinguished by its efficiency in that it will stop the fermenting food from the stomach to the intestines, where its poison is absorbed by the blood and carried all over the body.

If all the great army of people who suffer after nearly every meal would make it a point to take a teaspoonful of Bismarck's Magnesia in a quarter glass of water after each meal, there would be no formation of acidity and consequently no indigestion, discomfort, sour, acid, gassy stomach, heartburn, belching, bloating, etc., would then be a thing of the past. Bismarck's Magnesia is a physician's prescription. It is inexpensive and can be obtained at any drug store. It is prepared for just such trouble and the best proof of its efficiency is that it will stop the fermenting food from the stomach in five minutes from the time it enters the stomach, simply by dissolving the acid that have been formed there. Its action is absolutely harmless.

LOCAL GREEK SCHOOL

PRESIDENT OF GREEK COMMUNITY WILL TRY TO HAVE IT RE-OPENED

An effort will be made by Peter Tavoularis, president of the local Greek community to obtain permission from the board of health to reopen the school in the basement of the Greek Orthodox church, 144 W. 1st street, which is being converted into a school is ready to occupy.

Last summer the officials of the Greek community received orders from the board of health to close their school which was being conducted in the basement of the church and immediately steps were taken for the erection of a new school. However, it was deemed advisable to purchase the Plunkett residence in Worthen street and convert it into a school building. The property was purchased, but as is the rule in the Greek community nothing was done in regard to changes until the ready cash was on hand. The building is now being remodeled and will be ready for occupancy in about three months and inasmuch as the parents do not wish to send their children to the public schools the board of health will be asked to allow the reopening of the condemned school until the other building is ready.

SANGUINARY FIGHTING IN RUSSIAN POLAND

Petrograd Reports That Russians are Advancing—Two German Divisions Destroyed—Bodies Found Hanging to Trees

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The correspondent of the Telegraph at Petrograd telegraphing regarding the operations in Russian Poland near the East Prussian border says:

"The triangle formed by joining Stishushin, Augustow and Ossowetz is little more than a vast swamp, making military operations difficult even in the best weather. Rain has been falling heavily for the past two days but the Russians nevertheless are pushing on determinedly.

"The recent fighting has been sanguinary, two German divisions having been destroyed in the battle of Drushtenki. In the west of Russian Poland the brushes between the advance guards continue.

"The Polish peasants are extremely bitter against the Germans and this feeling has been increased by the contact with German humor. As an instance, the Germans everywhere pretended to pay for supplies with documents written in German, which the peasants do not understand. When translated the peasants found that these papers had inscribed thereon that 'whoever presents this at the end of the war will be hanged.'

"There probably has been sniping by the civilian population as the bodies of six peasants were found hanging to a tree in a Polish town a few days ago. Their fellow townsmen vowed to have revenge and two days later a German scouting party found the bodies of 22 German soldiers hanging from the same tree.

"A letter received here from a Russian officer who is camping on the estate of Emperor William at Rominten, eastern Prussia, says:

"'William's estate is magnificently equipped and we have everything at our disposal which we could wish. We are enjoying particularly delicious dinners prepared by his fine cooks.

FOOD QUESTION IS A GRAVE ONE IN AUSTRIA—PRICE OF CORN DOUBLE AND GOING UP

LONDON, Oct. 1.—The food question is a grave one in Austria, according to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Chlissau, Switzerland. The Austrian emperor has issued an edict empowering the government to take all measures necessary to alleviate the situation. The price of corn is doubling that of normal times and is increasing at the rate of three per cent. daily. German and Austrian deniers are traveling in neutral countries, the despatch says, trying to buy corn and amounging at the same time that it is intended for other countries. Italy has denounced the fullest guarantees be given that corn purchased there is not to go to Austria. Rumanian embargo on the export of corn has caused consternation in Austria, according to the despatch and it is said that Austria is now making desperate efforts to meet wheat from the United States, but the blockade of the Adriatic makes relief from this quarter doubtful. The shortage of food is also felt in the German army, the despatch declares.

AIRSHIP AMERICA READY TO MAKE PEACE

Secured by British, Will be Used for War Service, it is Said

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The mammoth aeroplane America, which Lieut. Porte had expected to fly across the Atlantic, was shipped to England yesterday aboard the steamer Mauretania, and it is said will be used by the British government for war service.

The America, said to be the world's most powerful aeroplane, was tested at Hammondsport, N. Y., last summer before the European war crisis caused a postponement of the proposed flight.

On one occasion the America flew with 10 men and a quantity of gasoline aboard, her lift approximating 2000 pounds. She was equipped with two 100-horsepower engines and plans were in the making to add a third engine of the same power to her equipment.

Lieut. John C. Porte, who expected to make the trip across the Atlantic in the America, was an officer in the British navy. Soon after war was declared he returned to England. The impression prevailed here yesterday that because of his familiarity with the working of the America he might be selected as her pilot should she be used for military purposes.

Several Others Ordered

Officials of the Cunard Line, when asked yesterday to make the individual or firm in England to which the America had been consigned, declined to do so, saying the matter was one which they did not care to discuss.

Later in the afternoon the Cunard Line officials said that the aeroplane had been shipped by a well-known firm in this city, "to order." This, it was explained, meant that the aeroplane would be surrendered on the other side to the person who presented the bill of lading therefor, which had already been sent forward by mail.

It is understood that the aeroplane had been purchased by a private individual and would be turned over to the British government upon its arrival in England.

It was further reported that several other aeroplanes of the same type as the America had been ordered by the American government, and that these, too, would be presented to the British government.

HE DELIVERED LIQUOR

HEAD OF EXPRESS COMPANY ASKS DANVERS SELECTMEN TO CANCEL HIS PERMIT

DANVERS, Oct. 1.—"My conscience has troubled me for some time for the part I have taken in the transportation of liquor in this town," was the statement made by an expressman yesterday received by the selectmen today. It was a request from Jacob Marston, proprietor of an express service which operates in Haverhill, Danvers and Peabody, that the selectmen cancel a permit under which he had delivered liquor to Danvers. The request probably will be granted, one of the selectmen said. Danvers is a no-license town.

FLEE IN NIGHT CLOTHES

SAMUEL MYLOTT AND FAMILY DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE IN FITCHBURG—LOSS IS ABOUT $10,000

FITCHBURG, Oct. 1.—Fire discovered shortly before midnight destroyed the house and farm buildings on Mt. Elm road comprising the old Henry F. Coggeshall estate and occupied by Samuel Mylott, his wife and two sons. The loss is about $10,000.

Suspicious of incendiarism are current. Henry Foley, a farm hand, who lodged in the house and was carried off by Mr. Mylott, told Fire Chief T. J. Murnane that earlier in the evening he had seen a man hanging about the place.

The fire started on the first floor in the rear of the house, either in the kitchen or outside of it, and had spread through nearly the whole floor before one of the boys was aroused by the smoke and crackling flames.

The Mylott family fled in their night clothes, and Mrs. Mylott, dazed by the smoke and flames in the front hall, fell on the stairs and was badly hurt and bruised. Foley is a one-legged man, and though he was rescued, his artificial leg was lost. The Mylotts lost all their personal belongings, including $250 in money and two gold watches.

A telephone call brought two combination chemical engines from the city, but as no water was available and the house was a furnace, the firemen could only save the horse, farm implements and wagon from the barn. The building was burned with 20 tons of hay, and also a carriage shed and a hen house.

The estate belongs to the city of Fitchburg, to which it was left three years ago by Mr. Coggeshall for park purposes. Mr. Mylott, employed in the city forestry department, rented it from the city and worked the farm.

SIMMONS & BROWN

Undertakers and Embalmers

SUCCESSORS TO J. B. CURRIER CO. MASS. AND N. H. LICENSES

Established 1845

58 PRESIDENT ST., LOWELL, MASS.
Tel. Office No. 56-W. Residence 2013-R and 2366-R

HIRAM BROWN

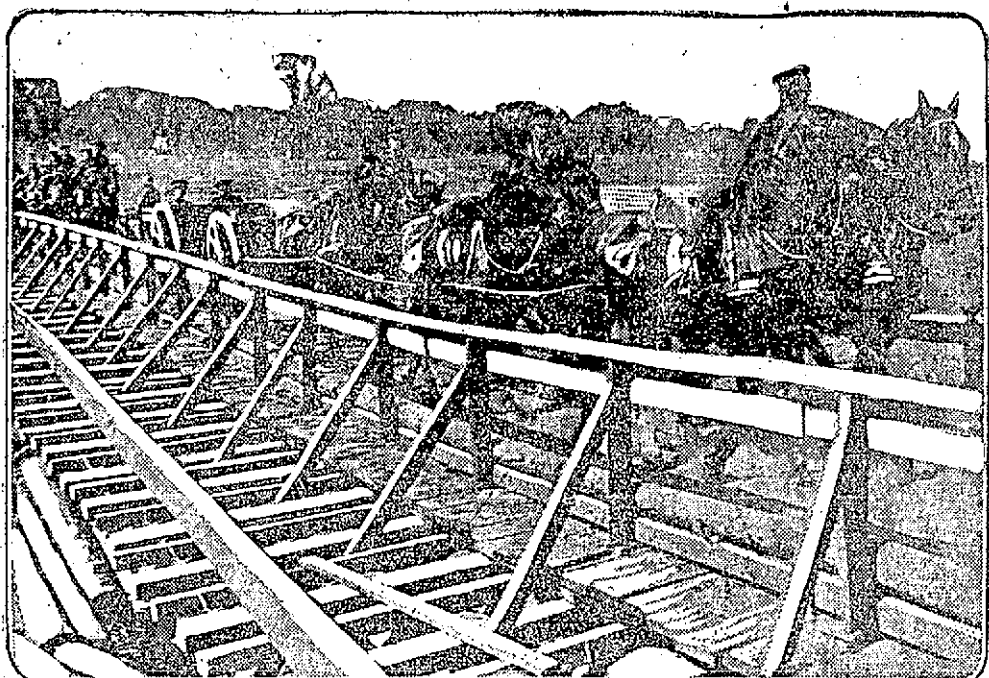

Mr. Brown has never before been engaged in the undertaking business. He has for a long time had the desire to enter the business, but awaited the opportunity of buying an interest in this old and well established firm. He opened negotiations with Herbert A. Simmons, senior member of the Currier Co., some time ago and recently terms acceptable to each were drawn up.

As is well known, the old firm of J. B. Currier Co. offered to the public of this city one of the finest and most thoroughly equipped undertaking and embalming establishments to be found anywhere. With the new company, this equipment will remain intact. An examination of the establishment shows that not the slightest detail of the business has been overlooked. The chapel connected with the warehouse is most elegantly furnished and equipped. A feature that adds a distinctive touch to the sanctity of the chapel is the fact that it is far removed from the remainder of the establishment, thereby lending a quietness that is so essential in the presence of the dead. In the morgue the same artistic style as far as furnishings and furnishings are concerned is carried out. Mr. Brown is completing a course of study at the New England Institute of Anatomy, Sanitary Science and Embalming, and he will appear before the State Board of Registry in Embalming on Wednesday of next week. Mr. Brown is well and favorably known and is fraternally acquainted with the Centralville Lodge, I. O. O. F., Pilgrim encampment, Highland Rebekah Lodge and the Lowell 8 council of the Royal Arcanum.

Herbert A. Simmons, the other member of the firm, is a graduate of the Barnes School of Anatomy, Embalming and Sanitary Science of New York, and is also a post-graduate of the New England Institute of Embalming of Boston. He is a registered embalmer in Massachusetts and New Hampshire. Through the many years which he has been associated directly with the business of the Currier establishment, with his uncle, R. O. Adams, and principally since he took over the business from him, through the manner with which he has taken care of and directed the burials which have been made by the firm, he has managed to retain the large patronage that the firm has been favored with.

Mr. R. O. Adams, while not actively engaged in the conducting of the business, is interested, nevertheless, in its continued success and will give his personal services to those who desire them.

1700 JAPANESE KILLED BOXER DIES OF INJURIES

German Warships Shell Tsing-Tau—Dynamite Government Buildings

PEKING, China, Oct. 1.—A German report from Tsing Tau, the fortified position of the Kiau-Chow territory sent by carrier pigeon to Tsi-Nan, Shantung province and thence to Peking by telegraph indicates that the German retirement from the second line of defenses around Tsing-Tau which took place last Monday was due to the overwhelming numerical strength of the Japanese.

Continuing, this report says that the Japanese losses were 1700 killed and 800 wounded as the result of the fire from German warships coupled with the fire of machine guns on land. The German losses are described as small.

At the German legation in Peking it was said today that Germans caused the destruction early this week of the railroad bridge at Ya-Yu-Lio, six miles west of Wei-Hsin, and that they will cause other bridges to be dynamited if the Japanese continue their westward movement. They also will dynamite all the government buildings at Tsing-Tau when a further defence of that place becomes impossible. The Japanese legation here today expressed the belief that the troops now attacking Tsing Tau would await the arrival of siege guns.

BILL HUDDIE WAS FLOORED IN FIRST ROUND, BUT STAVED TILL END OF FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Bill Huddie, a young boxer fighting at 132 pounds, died today from injuries he received here last night in a six round bout with Arthur (Knockout) Carroll. Huddie was floored in the first round with a right to the jaw and struck the canvas hard. He rose before the count of ten however, and lasted out the round. He was not noticeably in distress again, although in the last round he was knocked down a second time. Carroll was given the decision.

While dressing Huddie collapsed and never regained consciousness. Conclusion of the brain was given as the cause of death. No arrests have been made.

SHOT HIS SON-IN-LAW

LEWIS BURGESS OF BURNHAM WAS CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

BELFAST, Me., Oct. 1.—Lewis Burgess of Burnham was convicted of manslaughter today for the fatal shooting of John Ronco, his son-in-law, several weeks ago. He was tried on the charge of murder. The defense was that the gun was discharged during a scuffle for the possession and that he was acting in self defence when Ronco forced his way into the Burgess farmhouse.

REV. JULIEN RACETTE, O. M. I. Here From Mission in Nebraska Visiting His Brother, Now Pastor of St. Joseph's

Rev. Julien Racette, O. M. I., formerly of this city, who for the past two years has been in charge of the Oblate mission at Campbell, Neb., is the guest of his brother, Rev. Dr. J. H. Racette, O. M. I., pastor of St. Joseph's parish. The visiting clergyman is now awaiting an assignment, as the mission has been dropped by the Oblate Fathers and taken up by secular priests. Rev. Louis Desjardins, O. M. I., who was with Fr. Racette at Campbell, has been transferred to Balley's Harbor, Wis. Fr. Racette, who is a native of this city, was stationed in Lowell as assistant pastor of St. Joseph's parish for a number of years. Two years ago he was transferred to Campbell, where he has since been stationed. The mission at Campbell was established by the Oblate fathers in 1908 and has been conducted in a very successful way. Rev. Racette is a member of the Oblate fathers in this province. It was deemed advisable to turn the mission over to local priests. The visiting clergyman expects to remain in this city at least a couple of weeks, during which time he will enjoy a well earned rest. It is possible that the clergyman will be assigned to St. Joseph's parish, this city.

COUNTING THE PACKAGES

The United States Government Wants to Know What the Offices Are Doing

Beginning today and for the next 15 days, every piece of parcel post matter going through the Lowell post office will be counted by the regular office employees. This will be done in every post office in the United States and the result will be sent to the department at Washington. The government hopes in this way to obtain knowledge of just what the post offices in the country are doing. The parcel post matter sent out of the local office will also be weighed.

FOR STATE CONVENTION

LOWELL MEN TO SERVE ON THE COMMITTEES IN BOSTON NEXT SATURDAY

The following men have been appointed on committees to serve at the democratic state convention in Boston next Saturday: Humphrey O'Sullivan, committee on resolutions; Frank B. Dow, committee on permanent organization; John W. Kerman, committee on credentials; and John F. Meahan, balance of state ticket.

Chairman O'Leary of the democratic state committee is hard at work on the plans for the campaign which will begin as soon as the state convention has ended its sessions. He intends to go over the state with great care and thoroughness, in order to increase the democratic registration, and his speaking campaign will be carefully arranged.

For the purposes of this campaign the candidates for the six places on the state ticket will be separated into what might be called three debating teams of two members each. For instance, Gov. Walsh and Treas. Mansfield might make one team, Lieut. Gov. Barry and Atty. Gen. Boynton a second team, Soc. Donahue and Auditor Pope the third team.

To each of these teams will be added some other Massachusetts democrat of reputation, such as Mayor Curley, ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, Judge Riley or Sherman Whipple, and another addition will be the candidate for congress in whose territory the particular rally is to be held.

Mr. O'Leary proposes to have each of these three debating teams go through every congressional district in the state. The local candidates for the state senate and houses of representatives will have an opportunity to speak at these rallies, and the staff of speakers will be increased from time to time by the addition of well known democrats from other parts of the country.

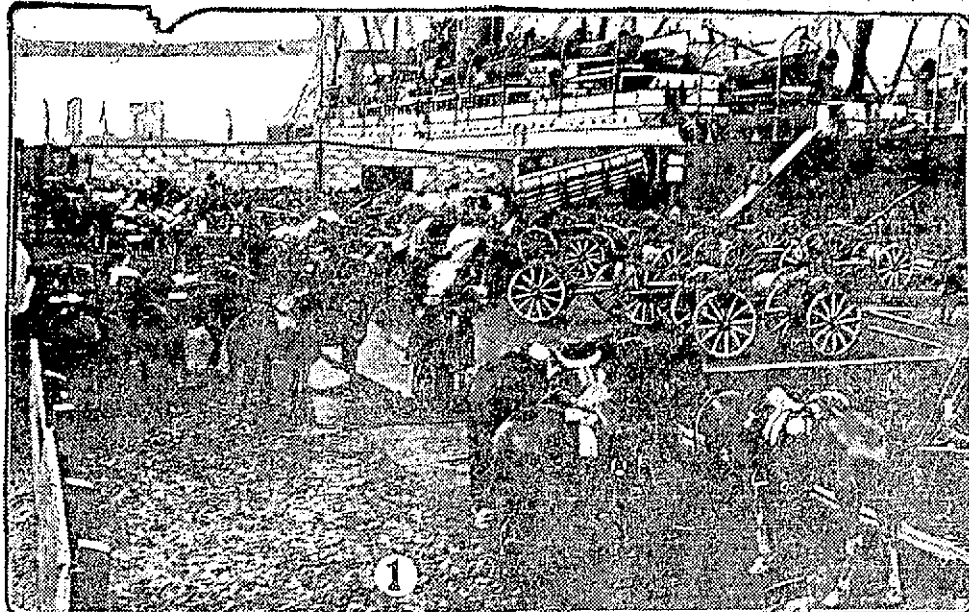

The habit of the democrats in previous years has been to have all the candidates on the state ticket speak on the same platform every evening during the campaign. That arrangement made the rallies last too long and also deprived local candidates of the chance to speak to the largest audiences of the year in their respective districts.

The usual reception to the state candidates will be held at the Quincy house tomorrow night.

The state convention will be called to order at 11 o'clock by Chairman O'Leary of the state committee. Judge John J. Ryan of Haverhill will be elected temporary chairman of the convention, and he in turn will give way to Harvey N. Shepard, who has been selected as permanent chairman.

The democratic state committee will meet tonight at the Quincy house to prepare for the convention. The committee on resolutions will hear those who have resolutions for submission to the convention. The state committee will meet also tomorrow evening.

TERRIBLE DEFEAT OF GERMANS AT SEDAN

French Troops Exacted Bloody Revenge for French Defeat 44 Years Ago—Germans Led Into Trap Which Cost Them Thousands of Men

LONDON, Oct. 1.—During the strategical retreat of the allies southward from the Belgian frontier the French troops exacted from the Germans bloody revenge for the French defeat at Sedan 44 years before. On this same battlefield, according to the Paris correspondent of the Daily Mail, the Germans suffered one of the worst defeats of their present invasion. They were led into a trap which cost them thousands of men, he says. The French could have held their position indefinitely but strategy required them to continue falling back with the remainder of the allies along the line. Here is the story of the second battle of Sedan as told by the correspondent: "The French general has ordered his troops to fall back across the river and take up positions on the opposite heights. The bridges were mined but were left standing in order to deceive the Germans into thinking that the French were retreating hastily. The ruse succeeded. The Germans advanced across the bridges in close formation. When several German regiments had crossed, the French blew up the bridges and the French artillery ran down the German lines which retreated hastily to the river, only to find the bridges gone. The French regiments then advanced with quick fire and the merciless slaughter continued till dusk. Many Germans threw down their arms and attempted to swim the river and large numbers were drowned. When nightfall came, the French brought up searchlights and continued the work of carnage. "The artillery threw shells at the rate of a dozen rounds a minute into the German ranks and varied its tactics by throwing incendiary shells into the forest where part of the German force had taken refuge. The burning woods lit up the whole front of 15 miles.

"In the morning an armistice of two hours was granted to allow the Germans to bury their dead. The French had suffered the loss of only a handful."

POSTMASTER GENERAL EXTENDS "FARM TO TABLE" SERVICE TO 15 CITIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Postmaster General Burleson today extended the "Farm to the table service" of the parcel post to 15 cities, in addition to the 12 to which the service already applies.

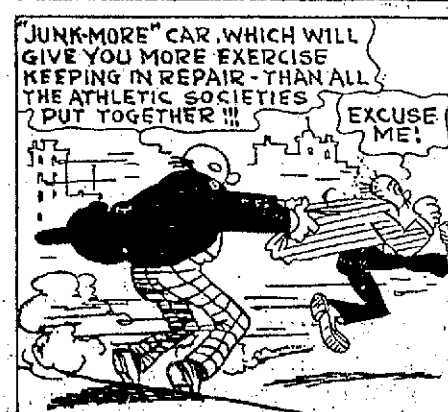

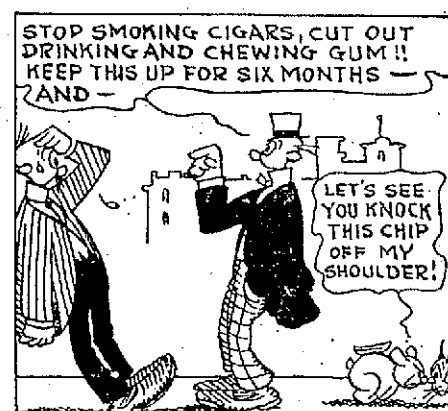

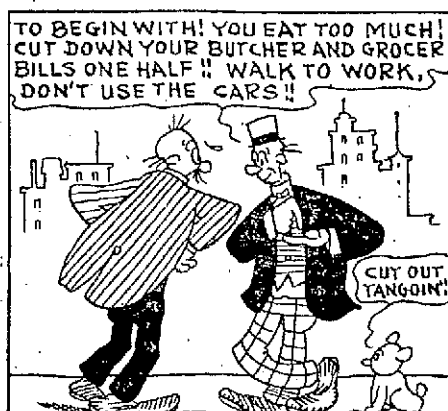

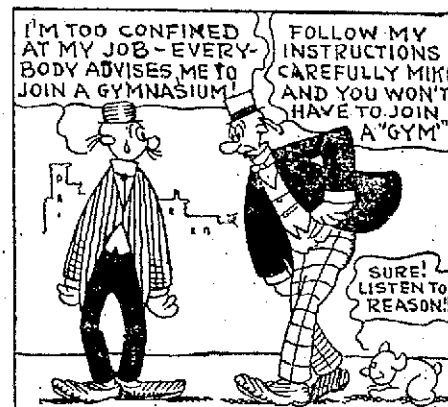

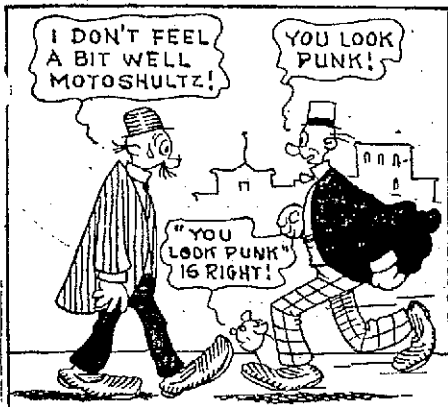

The cities named today were Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Seattle, Portland, Ore., New Orleans, Austin, Tex., Cleveland, Indianapolis, Chicago, Denver, Providence, Nashville, Los Angeles, Hartford and Richmond.

Farmers and truck growers in the territory contiguous to those cities may furnish to the postmaster lists of the articles which they can send to customers by parcel post. The postmasters, in turn, will have printed lists prepared of farmers' and of articles they can supply, which will be distributed in the cities by the mail carriers. Prospective customers then may order directly from the producers.

Postmaster General Burleson said today the experimental service, established in 12 of the large cities had worked so successfully that he felt amply warranted in extending the service.

AGT. WADELY RESIGNS FROM LOCAL CARPET CO.

Had Very Successful Career in Lowell—Well Versed on Carpet Manufacturing and Successful Business Methods

Wide regret is very generally felt today on the resignation of Mr. Harold E. Wadeley as agent of the Bigelow carpet corporation which is merged today with the Hartford Carpet corporation.

Few men of Mr. Wadeley's age have made the remarkable showing which he has during the last few years. Mr.

Wadeley entered the service of the Bigelow Carpet company in November, 1911, where his unusual ability immediately attracted the attention of the late Treasurer Fairbanks, so much so that the following May Mr. Fairbanks appointed him agent of the Lowell mill.

OFFICIALS EXONERATED COLORADO COAL STRIKE

GOVERNMENT MEN ABSOLVED FROM BLAME IN COX-EDWARDS CASE

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Government officials were absolved from any blame in the Cox-Edwards case by Judge Landis today and the court recommended that the grand jury take cognizance of the affidavits filed in the attempt to show that the indictment of William Rufus Edwards, a wealthy lumberman of St. Paul under the Mann act was obtained by connivance. Edwards was sued for breach of promise to marry by Ada M. Cox, a stenographer formerly of Rockford, Ill. She recovered $17,500. As this case was nearing a verdict Edwards, on complaint of Miss Cox, was indicted on the charge of the alleged violation of the white slave act.

Edwards later married. Recently Paul Hughes, a pseudo newspaper reporter, Mrs. Sidney R. Berry, a "beauty specialist" of Chicago, and John Cummings made affidavits designed to reflect on the life of Miss Cox prior to her acquaintance with Edwards and quoting her as admitting that she conspired with government officials to bring about the indictment for its effect on her civil suit.

Judge Landis, in closing the investigation, asserted that the affidavits were palpable falsehoods. Louis Brill, a St. Paul lawyer, who represented Miss Cox in her breach of promise suit, testified that no money had been used by him to influence Charles F. Dewooly, investigator for the department of justice, and Harry Parkin, an assistant district attorney at the time of the indictment.

SLEEPYTIME TALES

HELPFUL ELLA

Once upon a time a little girl said: "I like Ella better than any of my other friends. She is always so pleasant and is willing to help you even if it does come in her play hours."

"Why, just the other day she told me she was going to make her doll a new dress and had planned just how it was to be made, and when I came over to her house and asked her to help me do my sums for the next day, she put away her doll's clothes and explained it to me so that I could do them myself."

"Then she started to make the doll's dress and I helped her sew and I found I could do quite well after Ella told me how. We had a nice afternoon and I am going over to see her again soon."

"Ella said she would tell me how to make my doll a new dress for she needs one badly."

"The one she has on now is spoiled because I left dolly out all night and it rained and her dress got all wet and dolly had a bad cold and I had to put her to bed and give her some medicine that mother gives me when I have a cold."

"I was sorry I forgot and left her out in the rain. Mother says she hopes it will teach me a lesson to be more careful."

"Ella says it is hard at first to remember but if you try it comes easier each time and I am going to try very hard."

GEORGE STALLINGS HAS A GOOD LOT OF YOUNG PITCHERS FOR BIG SERIES

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—While Rudolph, James and Tyler are the best known twirlers on George Stallings' staff, he has a nifty lot of second string pitchers in whom he has confidence. FIERCE BATTLE RAGING AT TRACY-LE-MONT

The Kaiser's Attempt to Break Through French Lines is Futile—Paris Says Allies' Lines Have Held Solidly

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The Germans continue the fierce attack in the angle formed by the rivers Oise and Aisne in the direction of Tracy-Le-Mont just northeast of the forest of the Argonne, which has already been the scene of a success on the part of the allies. Here the French lines have thus far held solidly, the attempts made to break them having been futile. The contest has been singularly desperate but the allies by daring counter maneuvers have checked the attempts of their adversaries.

The latest news from the front, while not giving sufficient details to satisfy the Parisian eagerness for war news is nevertheless regarded by them as favorable and they continue to wait with patience for some decisive result of the great battle.

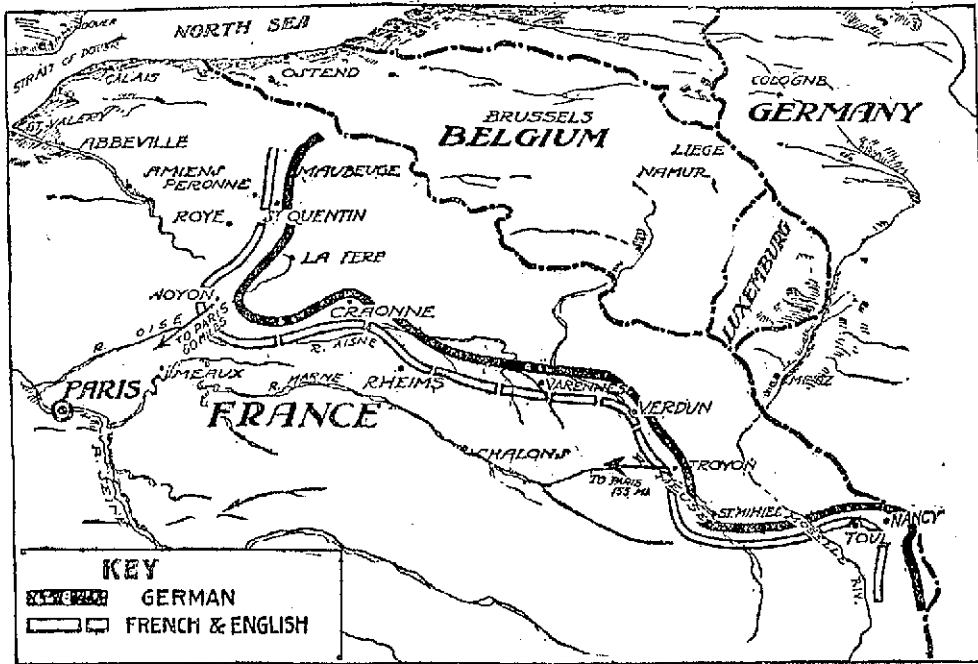

Lieut. Col. Roussel, the military critic in the Petit Parisien, quotes the sentence from the official communication on reading: "On our left wing to the north of the Somme the action continues to develop more and more toward the north," and says: "Curiously I remember perfectly having seen at the Imperial maneuvers of 1903 something analogous to the actual situation of the German forces today. A certain corps of the attacking army disappointed in a maneuver which it had contemplated against the left flank of the enemy found itself at the end of the day compressed between two lines of fire which had the form of the letter V reversed. It is useless to say that the emperor was not at all satisfied, and I doubt if he will be more so today in seeing this singular operation happen again at his great loss.

"Having been unable to oppose our extension toward the north, the Germans struggled to break at its summit the angular line we occupy. Against Tracy-Le-Mont they delivered a furious attack which appears to have cost them dear. Perhaps it is not yet the last one. Imagine, however, that such assaults would become more and more rare because they will wear out when unsuccessful. The tactics of the Germans in seeking to strike, at the same time, upon two points over a hundred kilometers (about 60 miles) away, indicates a certain confusion and it will be quite extraordinary if this can continue long."

The government has virtually re-established the dignity of marshal of France, the highest military title, the resurrection of which has long been a question. The decree fixes the salary of a marshal at 30,350 francs to be paid to whoever merits the supreme grade has been signed at Bordeaux.

TERRIFIC BATTLE 18 MILES FROM AMIENS

Paris Describes Destruction of Unfortified Town by the German Heavy Artillery After Prolonged and Terribly Murderous Battle—Heavy Losses Suffered by Germans—Retreat of German Line Along the Aisne Begun, it is Reported

LONDON, Oct. 1.—Telegraphing from Paris under date of Wednesday, the correspondent of the Daily Mail described the complete destruction by German heavy artillery of the open and unfortified town of Albert, 18 miles from Amiens, which has been the scene during the past few days of a prolonged and terribly murderous artillery battle. He says:

"The struggle on the part of the Germans to prevent their right wing being turned compelled them continually to push their front further north and to the east, while the allies continually repelled by extending their front to envelop the enemy, both sides shells.

On Saturday they began to realize that their efforts were in vain. They, therefore, changed their tactics and tried to drive a wedge into the allies' front. The point of that wedge was the town of Albert.

"The attempt almost succeeded. They brought up and massed their artillery and the French infantry suffered considerably. They kept up a fire so rapid in character that at night the whole sky was lit up by bursting front to envelop the enemy, both sides shells. On Sunday they gained perceptibly and on Monday they still pressed on but by that time the French had brought up large numbers of their famous quick firing batteries and their deadly fire checked the German advance.

"Yesterday, the enemy kept up his efforts gamely, but by late afternoon it had clearly failed of its aim. There were French batteries at various points around Albert but none within a mile of the town. At 6.10 o'clock German shells from their heavy guns began to fall. Here is an account of the scene from an eye witness who was on a hill overlooking Albert:

"We were warned along the road to be careful and saw a vast column of people coming away from the town but nothing happened until 6.10, when we heard a deep boom, quite unlike the noise made by an ordinary field gun, and a shell, evidently of much greater force and size, fell in the town.

OPEN HOUSE TONIGHT

At the Y. M. C. A. to Mark the Opening of the Season's Activities—Many Improvements

An interesting program has been arranged for this Thursday evening to mark the opening of the season's activities at the Lowell Young Men's Christian association. During the past month preparations have been made for this event and for the series of opening receptions and the membership canvass which will be held during the first ten days of October. The program tonight will be in charge of the membership committee of which Mr. Otis W. Butler is chairman. Most of the directors and trustees as well as the active committee members and members of the association are expected to be on hand to extend to all visitors the cordialities of the association. From 7.30 to 8 there will be an informal reception to the new physical director, Mr. M. P. Furey, who has recently taken up his work in connection with the Lowell association after three years of very successful work with the Y. M. C. A. at Montreal. From 8 to 9 the special attraction will be an entertainment provided by Mr. W. Burns, an English novelty entertainer. Throughout the evening instrumental music will be furnished by Cushman's orchestra and a large hospitality committee will show to all visitors the recent improvements which have been made throughout the different parts of the building. A committee composed of the board of the women's auxiliary will have charge of the serving of light refreshments in the entertainment hall and the recreative games, billiards, bowling, etc., will be open to all visitors. A large number of improvements have been made to the convenience and enjoyment of the members in the past few weeks and the entire building has been given a thorough cleaning preparatory to inspection and use tonight. The new sidewalk and the improvements made to the grounds at the Merrimack street front of the building are commented on favorably by all the members. During the coming season it is expected that the various committees of the board and club organizations of the members will arrange and conduct attractive programs in all departments of association activities. The new illustrated prospectus will be distributed to all visitors and the friends of the association.

CONVENTIONS OCT. 5

Col. Quinn's Nomination Generally Conceded by Democratic Leaders in Rhode Island

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 1.—The executive committee of the democratic state central committee met today to congressional nominations, which will meet Oct. 8 and arrange for a permanent headquarters for the coming campaign.

Col. P. Henry Quinn's nomination for the gubernatorial berth is generally conceded by the leaders, but the second place on the ticket appears to be somewhat in doubt, sentiment being divided between Senator Addison J. Munroe of this city and ex-Senator Sumner Mowry of South Kingstown, who was the run two years ago.

BERLIN CLAIMS ALLIES REPULSED AT ALBERT

Allied Forces Advancing North and South of Albert, France, Repelled—Admits Setback in Circle From Scheldt to Senne

LONDON, Oct. 1.—An official statement issued from German general headquarters under date of the evening of Sept. 30 is given in a despatch to Reuter's Telegram Co. from Berlin, via Amsterdam. It says:

"The hostile forces advancing to the north and south of Albert, a town of France, 18 miles northeast of Amiens, have been repulsed. The front battle line is without news.

"In Argonne our attack is progressing steadily, though slowly. At the outer forts on the Meuse the line is without change.

"Yesterday the enemy advanced in Alsace and Lorraine in the central Vosges. His attacks were energetically repulsed. The eastern theatre is without news.

"Between the Senne river and Rethel no movement of the enemy's infantry has occurred. In the circle from the Scheldt to the Semois daring and violent German attacks have been repelled."

We thought it must be an accident of misdirection and then to our indignation the shells began to fall rapidly. They came in bunches. There were several batteries at work and their aim was excellent.

"I saw only three shells burst outside the town. The place collapsed like a pack of cards that had been built up into houses, as every moment something fresh went. Now it was the town hall, now a group of cottages and then a high wall.

"It reminded me of a scene in a Drury Lane melodrama. One cannot believe without an effort that one was seeing a real town shelled to pieces. It was just as if some inventor had made a new kind of explosive and had invited his friends to see it demolish a model of a town. I stayed there an hour, fascinated.

"That brings the story up to 6.15, when the witness left with some wounded, who had been brought out of town. The road toward Amiens at that time was packed with refugees of all ages and old men and women too feeble to walk, were being wheeled in barrows.

"At 6.30 a number of fires, lighting up the whole country side were visible. Looking toward Albert they appeared to be haystacks which had been set alight by shells. The largest of these red glows, however, was Albert on fire. Against the flaming background, the tall spire of a church stood out uninjured up to 8 o'clock, but it was impossible to enter the town, as the heat was too great and the streets too unsafe.

Loyal Order of Moose

SPECIAL MEETING.

Thursday Evening, Oct. 1, 8 O'clock,

Hamilton Hall, Odd Fellows Building.

Per order,

W. E. TURNBULL, Dictator.

O'SULLIVAN SAYS:

Here is a little item of news that ought to interest the ladies. You know that the current styles of fancy mixture coats for girls and young women practically require no alterations and the current practice in Lowell is to include the cost of alterations in the price of the garments. This is a burden on those that buy the coats as had.

To relieve our customers of this burden we eliminate the cost of alteration, representing a tidy saving to you in every case. Coats that would be ordinarily priced at $10.00 are marked $8.75, and at this price there is here represented fancy mixtures in grays, browns, tans and blues. At this price we consider them exceptionally attractive values.

LADIES' DRESSES—Charmeuse and satin, all colors and sizes priced $12.75. These dresses at this low price deserve your special attention as one of our manufacturers has concentrated all his strength on this price dress and we fancy the price and the garment will appeal to you.

WOOL SERGE DRESSES—Navy, Copen and Black, $4.95, $5.95, $10.00, $12.50 and $15.00—These are low prices for us to name, but the problem of getting money from its hiding places is our incentive.

LADIES' WHITE COATS—Are scarce. Manufacturers are not able to secure the goods. This week we received a few more from one of our New York coat makers and the price is $10.75 and $14.75 while they last. We keep weekly in touch with the New York market on ladies' garments and we believe it will be for your interest to keep in touch with our window showings for individual styles in Suits, Coats and Dresses at inviting prices.
